3-hour delays at O'Hare?

Tightening U.S. airport security may force travelers to check in three hours before flight time so every piece of luggage can be examined for explosives, a Federal Aviation Administration official in Washington said Tuesday.

John McLucas, FAA chief, said a major effort to X-ray all airline luggage is one of the many steps his agency has under consideration following the LaGuardia Airport bombing that killed 11 persons in New York last month.

At O'Hare Airport, J. P. Dunne, acting commissioner of aviation, predicted the traveling public would not tolerate routine three-hour delays.

"ANYTHING COULD BE feasible, but the public would squawk. I don't think they would stand it. If you X-ray all the luggage, you'd have to X-ray the cargo and machines to do that aren't on the market."

Dunne said there have been no serious security breaches at O'Hare to justify the X-raying of luggage.

"This is pretty silly when it takes 1½ hours to fly to New York and three hours to get out of the airport," he said.

McLucas acknowledged that long delays might drive passengers away from the airlines.

"When you start talking about checking every

Northwest mulls med center ties

by KURT BAER

Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, is considering affiliation with a major Chicago medical school to become a teaching hospital or medical research center.

The hospital's board of directors will hire a consultant to study the possibility of expanding Northwest beyond the level of a community health-care facility.

The consultant's report is expected this summer, Malcolm D. MacCoun, Northwest Community Hospital president, said. There is no commitment to make any changes in the governing philosophy of the hospital, he said.

MacCOUN SAID THERE are essentially three alternatives for Northwest Community's long-range development.

- Northwest can remain a large, community hospital, "and there is certainly no shame in that," he said.
- By joining with a Chicago medical school, Northwest could be expanded to the level of a teaching hospital used by medical students for intern and resident training.
- Sophisticated diagnostic and laboratory facilities could be developed to give the hospital the distinction of being a major suburban medical re-

Police study to develop station plan

An analysis of police department needs will be conducted by the Village of Arlington Heights before an architect is hired to plan a new police station.

After a tour of the police facilities in the municipal building, the village board's finance committee Tuesday night directed the village administration to submit a study within 60 days on specific needs and cost estimates for a new station.

Trustee O.V. Anderson, who last year toured police departments in other suburbs, was the strongest supporter of Village Mgr. L.A. Hanson's recommendation that an architect be hired.

"HOW WE GET the efficiency we do under the working conditions we operate under is beyond my comprehension," Anderson said. "I don't think we're getting our full potential from them because of the limited facilities. It's about time we do something about this."

During the tour of the police facilities, Hanson said police are forced to share offices,desks and lockers. He also said interrogation rooms and a special detention room for juveniles are needed.

"When we have a juvenile in here now we have to sit him in a chair and have someone just sit there and watch him," Hanson said.

Hanson said he hopes a new police facility could be completed by the end of 1977. If the police department is moved out of the municipal building, the health department would be moved out of the basement and the village clerk, out of the finance department. The X-ray unit, now located in a trailer north of the building, would be moved inside, Hanson said.

NEW DORMITORIES are under construction at Arlington Park Race Track's backstretch area. The new quarters will be of concrete block, replacing old wooden dormitories.

I'll give $10,000 for traffic study, Lattof tells panel

by JOE SWICKARD

A major landowner in downtown Arlington Heights offered Tuesday night to finance an independent traffic study for the proposed railroad underpass at Arlington Heights Road and Northwest Highway.

Nicholas Lattof said, "I'll contribute $10,000 — I'll raise it — to bring in an independent outfit to do a survey."

Lattof, owner of Lattof Chevrolet and an opponent of the proposed underpass, made the offer Tuesday to the special committee studying parking problems and redevelopment of the central business district.

HE SAID SUGGESTED parking garages were necessary to the growth of the business district, but warned the railroad underpass would be "the worst thing that could happen to this town."

The village is considering entering into a $6 million project with the federal and state governments to depress Arlington Heights Road and Northwest Highway to relieve daily traffic jams at the intersection. Under the proposal, the federal government would provide 70 per cent of the money, with the remainder divided between the state and the village.

Lattof said an underpass would only serve to attract heavy truck traffic and would discourage shoppers from coming downtown. He said any improvements to Arlington Heights Road would have to include a bypass for truck traffic.

Although the underpass idea still must face federal, state and local hearings, village officials have said bids could be let for construction by spring 1977.

JOE KESLER, Arlington Heights village planner, said the traffic study would be necessary for both an underpass and revitalization of the business district. He said a study would cost $10,000 to $15,000.

While criticizing the underpass proposal, Latoff gave enthusiastic support to plans to build parking garages to serve downtown shoppers.

"The crying need of the businesses is parking, parking, parking," he said.

He said he would favor the creation of a special taxing district to help finance the garages.

"Charge me an extra tax, I'll pay it. Let the people (merchants) who are going to use this pay for it," he said.

THE COMMITTEE, chaired by Trustee August C. Bettman, had planned to select one of three plans for downtown garages. However, Bettman deferred the vote because barely a quorum attended the session.

Lattof said he would cut short his vacation to attend the next meeting of the committee.

"Let me know and I'll fly in for it," he told Bettman.

Following the meeting, Bettman said Lattof's support of the garage is an important step forward.

"We have three key guys now," he said.

The others mentioned by him were Douglas Dodd of the First Arlington National Bank and Donald Morton of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Assn.

'Nays' stall plan for revision in village elections

by BILL HILL

Strong opposition from several Arlington Heights homeowners' associations has stalled a proposal to change the village's form of government from an at-large to a geographical representation system.

The village board Monday appointed a special committee to hold hearings on the various alternatives and make a recommendtion in March. Trustees David Griffin, August Bettman and Madeline Schroeder were named to the committee.

The proposal to conduct a referendum on the question of changing the village's form of government has been made repeatedly by former Village Trustee Dwight Walton and has been

Dist. 25 takes preschool census

Census takers are going door to door in Arlington Heights Dist. 25 counting the district's preschool children.

The census, conducted by PTA volunteers, will continue through Feb. 6. The figures compiled from the survey will be used to help the district project future enrollment in its 18 schools.

According to a consultant's study released last fall, enrollment in Dist. 25 is projected to drop 31 per cent from 7,938 students this year to 5,458 in 1984. The projections derived from the census will be compared with those figures.

The decline in enrollment spells financial trouble for Dist. 25 because it will result in loss of state aid. Consultants predict a $3.9 million deficit in the district by 1984 and board members are now meeting to devise ways of offsetting the deficit.

Residents missed by the census takers should contact their local school.

8 charged in scheme to cheat government

Eight men, including an Arlington Heights resident, were charged Tuesday with taking part in a scheme designed to defraud the federal government of Medicare and Medicaid payment funds. U.S. Atty. Samuel Skinner said a special grand jury indicted the owners of a drug company and an Evergreen Park nursing home for conspiring to defraud the government. The local man, Jack Ginsberg, of 703 W. Haven, was named as an unindicted co-conspirator and charged with one count in a criminal information with paying a kickback. Ginsberg and three others are the owners of the Ideal Drug Co. of Chicago. They allegedly paid kickbacks to the owners of the nursing home in 1973 and 1974 on a monthly basis for every patient on public aid that was in the home. In return for the payoffs, the drug company supplied drugs and medical supplies for the home. Skinner said the men were charged under a section of the federal law which bans bribes or kickbacks in the furnishing of services paid by Medicaid. Skinner said the payoffs amounted to about $7,000 over the two-year period. The nursing home owners were paid about $5 per month per patient, he said.

Fire official wins back job

David Wolf has won his battle with Des Plaines officials and will be reinstated as a deputy fire chief in the city fire department. Judge Edward F Healy of Cook County Circuit Court Tuesday ruled that Wolf, a 23-year department veteran, did not resign last June as contended by city officials. Besides reinstating Wolf to the $22,400-a-year post, Healy ordered the city to give the deputy chief full back pay amounting to more than $11,000. Wolf filed a lawsuit after officials interpreted a letter to Fire Chief Donald Corey from Wolf as a resignation letter and removed him from the payroll. Wolf said the letter was not a resignation letter but an offer to resign his fire department position or as chairman of a city Bicentennial commission. Healy called the dispute "petty."

County to probe 'Greens' Thursday

Fourteen Cook County officials Thursday will investigate 500 alleged building, fire and health code violations at the Greens of Golf Mill apartment complex in unicorporated Maine Township. The investigation was ordered by County Board Pres. George Dunne after he met last week with representatives of the Greens Tenants Assn., which was formed to seek improved living conditions at the 127-building complex.

Nude-dancing bar loses license

The Roman House, a Lake County nude-dancing tavern near Wheeling, has lost its liquor license in what is anticipated to be a precedent in Illinois. The Roman House has been accused of violating a county ordinance that bans nude dancing in an establishment that sells liquor. The Illinois Appellate Court ruled the county ordinance valid, and the county liquor commission did not issue a new license to the Roman House. The commission's action was upheld by the Illinois Liquor Commission Monday. Officials said liquor licenses to other nude-dancing places would be refused if they violate the ordinance. Authorities reported some other county nude dancing night spots have started serving soda pop instead of liquor.

Patty's bank robbery trial under way

TOP CRIMINAL lawyer F. Lee Bailey arrives at Federal Building in San Francisco to defend newspaper heiress Patty Hearst.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — With a clerk intoning the words "The United States vs. Patricia Campbell Hearst," jury selection got under way Tuesday in the opening of the bank robbery trial of a rich girl charged with turning into a violent revolutionary.

As the 21-year-old heiress watched and listened with apparent fascination, U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter weeded out the "hardship cases" among prospective jurors. At the end of the first day, he had 74 men and women willing and able to serve in deciding whether Patty joined her Symbionese Liberation Army abductors willingly, or whether she was tortured, terrorized and brainwashed.

Carter intends to pick 12 jurors by Wednesday.

The remainder of a panel of 120 was excused for reasons varying from health, jobs, children to bias that would prevent impartiality.

It was the opening trial round in the bizarre story that goes back almost two years to the time Miss Hearst was kidnaped by the SLA cult.

She joined in the armed bank holdup two months later, but her defense is that she had been tortured and brainwashed into taking part.

As in all federal courts, the judge did the questioning of the jurors. At the close of the morning session, Carter said he would next turn to interrogating each man and woman closely about any bias or preconceived opinion of guilt or innocence.

Dressed neatly in a navy blue pantsuit, Miss Hearst sat at a counsel table with chief defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey and five other attorneys. Pale and frail-looking, she smiled somewhat wanly at some of the excuses jurors offered for not serving.

At the nearby prosecution table sat U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr. and two assistants.

Patricia's parents, newspaper owner Randolph A. Hearst and his wife, Catherine, sat in a front row 10 feet away along with her sisters, Anne and Vicki.

Judge Carter had told the panel that the jury would be locked up in a hotel throughout the trial.

"I'm not sure I could be sequestered for four weeks without having a fit," said Barbara J. Lawson.

"You mean it's a psychological thing?" asked the judge.

"Well, yes, I guess so. What I mean is I just couldn't sit still for that long."

She was excused, as was Earl Lee Jr., who said he could not afford to lose his pay for that period.

Carter warned the jurors who passed the first hurdle that they must not discuss the case among themselves or with anyone else, and he said if anyone approached them, they should inform a marshal and he would deal with the situation "forthwith."

"This is the most fully covered case to date in this country that I know of," Carter said, "but there are plenty of other things in the world to talk about. Talk about those things — the world is your oyster."

Bailey held an impromptul news conference shortly before the trial got under way.

Asked if he had any surprises in store, Bailey said: "If I told you, they wouldn't be surprises, would they?" He said. "Yes, I think we have a couple."

PATRICIA HEARST

Prosecutor on first big case faces Bailey

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The trial of Patricia Hearst pits a defense lawyer of national repute for more than 10 years against a federal prosecutor on his first big case.

F. Lee Bailey, Patricia Hearst's defense attorney, came into prominence with his representation during appeal of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, who had been convicted of murdering his wife.

He also defended Albert DeSalvo, the "Boston Strangler;" Capt. Ernest L. Medina, charged in the Mai Lai massacre; and Dr. Carl Coppolino, accused in two "love slave" killings.

Bailey opposes James L. Browning, who rose from county prosecutor to U. S. Attorney by appointment of President Richard M. Nixon. He is handling his first major federal prosecution.

Bailey is 42, short, a natty dresser, with a sharp wit. He attended Harvard and Boston University Law School and practices in Boston.

He flies his own jet plane, has become a television celebrity and is president of a Michigan-based helicopter manufacturing firm.

While Bailey was attorney for Sheppard, the doctor's conviction was reversed in 1966 on the grounds that pretrial publicity had made it impossible for him to get a fair trial after the slaying in 1954.

Bailey lost his attempt to have DeSalvo committed to a mental institution instead of to prison. In the Coppolino case the doctor was acquitted in New Jersey of killing Lt. Col. William E. Farber, who was the husband of Coppolino's mistress. Later, in Florida Coppolino was convicted of killing his wife, Carmela. Medina was cleared of charges he took part in the slaughter of Vietnamese civilians.

In 1971 Bailey was suspended from law practice in New Jersey for a year for misconduct during a trial. In 1973 he was a defendant himself on federal fraud charges in promotion of "Dare To Be Great," a mail order self-development program. The case was dismissed.

Claiming an income of more than $1 million, Bailey once said, " . . . I get paid for seeing that my clients have every break the law allows."

Browning 43, was born in Globe, Ariz. A tall, lanky, easygoing man, he sports a mustache and wears glasses. He attended public schools in Santa Maria, Mountain View and Reedley, Calif., went to Fresno State College where he studied political science and got his degree from Hastings Law School, San Francisco.

He served in the Air Force from 1954 to 1956 and was in the San Mateo County Calif. district attorney's office from 1961 until he was named U. S. Attorney in 1970.

Judge blocks FDA's Red Dye ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge, at the request of manufacturers, Tuesday blocked for 10 days the Food and Drug Administration's proposed ban on the nation's most widely used food coloring, Red Dye No. 2.

District Judge Aubrey E. Robinson Jr. issued the temporary restraining order and scheduled a hearing on the issue Feb. 6. The FDA, which had planned to implement the ban Wednesday, is expected to appeal his action.

Ralph Nader's Health Research Group, which has been pressing the agency for years to outlaw Red No. 2, said it also would seek to intervene in the court action.

Robinson ordered the delay on a motion by Warner-Jenkinson Co. of St. Louis, a major manufacturer of the dye; the Certified Color Manufacturers Association of Washington, D. C., a trade group; H. Kohnstamm of New York, another manufacturer, and Monarch NuGrape of Doraville, Ga., a soft drink producer.

The FDA announced last week it intended to halt use of the dye on grounds of tests raising questions as to its safety, including a possible potential for causing cancer.

It is used to color a wide variety of foods and drinks — an estimated $10 billion worth every year — and once was employed extensively in cosmetics, although that no longer is the case. Soft drink manufacturers use it to produce orange and purple beverages, as well as red.

FDA Commissioner Dr. Alexander M. Schmidt, announcing the ban, said latest studies "cannot establish the safety of Red. No. 2. Indeed it raises again certain safety questions. Furthermore we know of no results from any other studies that would resolve these questions."

The basis of the action was a report from Dr. David W. Gaylor of the FDA's National Center for Toxicological Research, who said the dye in large doses apparently causes a "significant increase" of malignant tumors in rats.

Algerian convoy attacked in Sahara

Algeria said Tuesday Moroccan troops attacked an Algerian army convoy inside the former Spanish Sahara and "very violent fighting is in progress." The battle marked a major escalation in the dispute between the two countries over the mineral-rich, North African territory. The report was the first official admission by Algeria that its forces were actively aiding the Polisario Front guerrillas — a Marxist movement opposed to the partition of the former Spanish territory by Morocco and Mauritania.

Thousands of Lebanese take to streets

Thousands of Lebanese poured into the sun-swept streets of Beirut Tuesday for the first time in weeks as rival gunmen headed home under the watchful gaze of Palestinian troops. The withdrawal of Christian and Moslem militiamen from occupied Territory reinforced hopes for lasting peace in the devastated nation of 2.9 million. A Syrian-Lebanese-Palestinian truce committee had set a Tuesday deadline for the withdrawal of all militiamen from occupied lands. A spokesman said the pullout proceeded "according to plan" with "no difficulties."

Martin defends last days of Saigon

Graham Martin, U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam when it fell to the Communists last spring, defended himself Tuesday against what he called "uninformed criticism" of his role in the evacuation of Saigon. Martin testified, "The last 10 days required a most careful walking of the tightrope of judgment of just how the situation was developing and just how much the traffic would bear without triggering the panic or the resentment of the Vietnamese, either of which would have brought catastrophe."

Ford reaffirms commitment to Israel

President Ford, reaffirming America's commitment to Israel's security, Tuesday promised Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin the United States will maintain momentum in the search for Middle East peace. Rabin, after a ceremonial greeting by Ford in pouring rain on the White House South Lawn, spent 80 minutes with the President in the Oval Office discussing the Middle East situation and U.S. economic and military assistance to Israel.

Push to publish CIA report nixed in House

The House Intelligence Committee Tuesday failed to win House permission to publish its already leaked CIA report because some members felt it would disclose information which should be kept secret. Committee chairman Otis D. Pike, D-N.Y., asked unanimous consent of the full House to issue the 338-page report by midnight Friday. Rep. Robert E. Bauman, R-Md., however, objected. Under House rules, unanimous consent must be obtained in order to publish a report when the House is not in session.

Greenspan views U.S. economy

Congress could throw the country into a severe recession in 1977 or 1978 if it allows next year's budget deficit to climb to the level of this year's projected $76 billion, President Ford's chief economist said Tuesday. Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, also told the House Appropriations Committee that he saw a "significant return of confidence" among consumers which was adding to a strong but gradual recovery.

Senate OKs Bush as CIA director

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted Tuesday to confirm George Bush as director of the Central Intelligence Agency despite contentions his political past will further jeopardize public confidence in the intelligence community.

The nomination was confirmed 64-27. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., was the only Republican to vote against Bush although Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., voted present.

Bush won praise from supporters and opponents for his honesty, integrity and a distinguished public career as a congressman from Texas, ambassador to the United Nations and the U. S. liaison to the People's Republic of China.

But it was his chairmanship of the Republican National Committee during the Nixon administration that brought Bush's nomination under fire as inappropriate because of past misuses of the CIA for political purposes.

Critics of the Ford nominee said the public would be "understandably suspicious" of the potential for political abuse of the CIA by a director who once chaired a major political party and is reputed to be one of the President's "guys."

"We cannot have a rehabilitation of the agency without a restoration of public confidence," said Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H.

Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., said the CIA job "must be above even the suspicion of politics" and confirming Bush as director would set a "devastating precedent."

Of the eight men who have headed the CIA since its establishment in 1947, three have come from the military, two from within the agency and three from private or government careers. Bush would be the first director with a past political career.

Bush's supporters cited his character, proven integrity and judgment. Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield suggested Bush's political past might be an asset although expressed confidence he would be "above politics" in directing the CIA.

"George Bush is first and foremost a patriot," said Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn. "He is a great citizen."

One of those voting against Bush was Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence. He urged the Senate to reject the nomination "and demand from the President a more impartial candidate."

Angola aid ban vote angers Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House, on a 323-99 vote, rejected a last-minute plea from President Ford Tuesday and gave final congressional approval to a ban on all behind-the-scenes U. S. military aid to Angola.

There was no immediate comment from the President, but White House sources said he was angered by the action and felt some House members voted against him for election-year reasons.

The House accepted without change a $112.3 billion defense appropriation bill into which the Senate last month incorporated an amendment to deny any money for assisting anticommunist elements in the Angolan civil war.

Earlier Tuesday, Ford sent House Speaker Carl Albert a letter urging Congress to provide $28 million in aid lest friendly factions in Angola "be destroyed" by Soviet and Cuban forces.

But Albert, after the vote, told reporters he felt the administration's decision to get involved in Angola "was about the most useless enterprise I have ever seen undertaken."

House Republican leader Rep. John J. Rhodes attributed the heavy vote against Ford to "a lingering fear of getting involved in another Vietnam." But he defended the President's position, saying that "by denying him the right to use any kind of aid there, Congress in effect is telling the Russians "to just come ahead.' "

House Democratic leader Thomas P. O'Neill said the Russians "are in the same position in Angola that we were in Vietnam," and that he could not understand what they and the Cubans were doing there.

The White House sources said the President might make still another effort to revive Angolan aid in the House and Senate.

In Angola, meantime, the hard-pressed, Western-backed forces in the civil war have moved their administrative headquarters out of Huambo, target of a tank-led drive by Soviet-armed troops. Journalists have reported shooting at Huambo airport.

Schools

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59

A hootenanny sing-along will be held at Marshall School Thursday from 7 to 8:45 p.m. A 25-cent admission will include refreshments. The program is sponsored by the PTC at Marshall School, 711 Chelmsford Ln., Elk Grove Village.

The Einstein School PTA will hold a fun fair at the school Saturday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. The school is at 345 W. Walnut St., Des Plaines.

High School Dist. 214

The Rolling Meadows High School jazz ensemble, directed by Len King, will appear in-concert as the guest high school ensemble Saturday at the Illinois Wesleyan University Jazz Festival. The 8 p.m. concert in Presser Hall will end the day-long festival activities with high school bands from around the state.

The Rolling Meadows ensemble has won superior ratings at the Mundelein Jazz Festival and the Oak Lawn Jazz Festival for three years and was selected as a Class AA finalist at Oak Lawn in 1974. The ensemble won first place at the Western Illinois Jazz Festival in 1974 and second place in 1975.

King is a 1957 graduate of Illinois Wesleyan where he directed the Phi Mu Alpha Jazz Band and formed his own dance band. He plays first trombone with the Northshore concert band which recently completed an European concert tour.

Tickets for the concert are $1 for students, $2 for adults and are on sale at the Illinois Wesleyan school of music office or at the door.

Saint James School

The St. James School Parents Club will serve a spaghetti dinner Sunday in the school basement, 821 Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

All the spaghetti you can eat will be served from 3 to 7 p.m. Cost is $10 for families, $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children under 12.

Reunions

Preparations are under way for the 20th reunion celebration of Maine East High School's class of 1956. Classmates are asked to contact Carol Baumer Lechner, 772 W. Woodland, Palatine, 358-4931 or Rosemary LaForte Ryan, 406 W. Sibley, Park Ridge, 825-5370.

Dist. 59 public forum to discuss issues tonight

A forum to discuss issues in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 will be held today at 7:30 p.m. at the Elk Grove Township Hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, by the Dist. 59 School Community Council.

Topics that might be covered include declining enrollment, unit school district formation, gifted children program, teacher accountability and the school board.

Residents are encouraged to attend and ask any questions they might have about the district and its operations. Eight residents and educators involved with the district are on the panel to answer the questions.

Panel members include: Charlene Bessey, talent development program consultant; Leah Cummins Dist. 59 public and community relations director; Marge Dunlap, special education teacher at Rupley School; Lynne Helvie, board member; Alma Parrish, teachers' union president; Gerald Smiley, former board member; Joseph Stecker, resident and former finance committee member; and Jane-Renee Weakley, volunteer service bureau executive director.

Subdivision vote scheduled tonight

Village planners tonight will vote on a proposed 105-unit subdivision near Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas St., Arlington Heights.

The decison by the village plan commission on the development, the Court of Russetwoods, was delayed for a week so the planners could examine a proposed maintenance agreement and plans positioning the houses on the lots.

The developers, Szczesny Builders, told the commission the $85,000 to $90,000 house would be on privately maintained cul-de-sacs. The flood control basins would be the responsibility of the owners' association.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd. It is open to the public.

Village government change stalled

supported by Village Pres. James T. Ryan since he was elected in April 1975.

"I DON'T KNOW which is a better form of government, because it is the people who are elected who make or break a form of government, but I do think that government in its present system may well have lost touch with the people because they are not exercising their right to vote," Ryan said.

"The advantage of having people elected by district is that it gives the board an in-house expert as to problems of a given area. It doesn't mean the other eight trustees will turn their backs on you," he said.

Walton's proposal to have the village divided into eight districts by population with one trustee elected from each district was opposed by more than 20 members of the audience at Monday's meeting and also by most of the trustees because residents would only be able to vote every four years for one trustee instead of every two years for four trustees.

"I'd like to have the opportunity to get rid of all the rascals every four years, not just the one from my district," Trustee Richard Durava said.

"Any decison made by the board affects greatly the quality of life of all areas of the village," said Les Ploetz, 1004 N. Mitchell St. "I'd like to retain the right to vote for all nine seats on the village board because what the other trustees do is very important to me," he said.

No dates have been set for the special committee to begin hearings on the alternative forms of government.

Friday last day for registration in library vote

Voter registration for the Arlington Heights Memorial Library referendum and the March primary election will close Friday.

The Arlington Heights Municipal Building will be open today from 9 a.m. to noon for registration. Regular hours for registering will be from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Persons must register if they have moved into the village from another county, Chicago, Stickney, Berwyn or Cicero; or if they have moved since the October voter canvas.

Persons wishing to register for just the primary may do so at the County Building, 118 N. Clark St., Chicago, from Feb. 2 until Feb. 16.

Arlington Heights Village Clerk Ruth Ruff said persons registering should bring some form of identification showing their name, age and present address.

Budget woes spur county hospital control review

by WANDALYN RICE

George W. Dunne, Cook County Board president, said Tuesday he thinks the county board may have to take back control of the county hospital budget to cut costs.

Dunne's statement came at the end of day-long hearings on the hospital governing commission budget for 1976, the largest part of which is $118 million for Cook County Hospital.

The commission has asked the county board for a 6.5-cent-per-$100 assessed value property tax increase to pay for this year's budget.

The county board gave up control of the county hospital in 1970 when the Illinois General Assembly passed legislation creating the hospital governing commission. The commission was created after the county's control of the hospital had come under repeated criticism for inefficiency.

Under the current system with the governing commission, the county board can reduce the total amount of the hospital budget, but cannot make specific line-item budget reductions.

Last year the county board cut $8.5 million from the budget and recommended specific areas to be cut. Many of the recommended cuts, particularly in administrative costs, were not made by the governing commission.

Dunne said he has long felt the county board should not have line-item control over the hospital budget, but said, "I think I'm switching my position on that."

"Even when the county board ran the hospital, we had a line-item veto and never exercised it, but in the light of what happened to the cuts we recommended last year, perhaps we should get a veto," Dunne said.

Following the meeting, Dunne said he thinks the county could take back control of the hospital budget, using its home-rule powers. He dodged a direct answer to the question on whether the board could take that authority for the current budget, but said, "We have a meeting of the county board Feb. 2 and we won't pass this budget until Feb. 10 or 11."

Dunne's proposal was immediately supported by suburban Comr. Mary McDonald, a persistent critic of the hospital budget.

"We have to do it because they are just running wild over there (at the hospital)," Mrs. McDonald said.

The way we see it

Yes vote means saving 'Heights

Prospect Heights residents will go to the polls Saturday to determine the future of their community.

They will vote either to incorporate and form a city government or remain unincorporated and be subject to gradual annexation by neighboring villages.

The 13,000 residents of the community have struggled with this issue for years. A court ruling last fall gave them the chance to conduct a referendum which could settle the question.

Prospect Heights has long had a separate identity. It is a unique community in the Northwest suburbs, more open and rustic than the bustling villages that surround it. The people who built Prospect Heights saw it as an alternative place to live. And because it has provided an alternative setting it has been a rewarding and pleasant place for those who have since settled there.

It has, in fact, been the independent bent of its citizens that over the years has kept Prospect Heights from organizing a municipal government. For many, the least government has been the best government.

Unfortunately, the lack of a municipal government has cost residents of Prospect Heights some important controls over the destiny of their community: zoning and border control.

Developments have occurred that have not been in keeping with the general character of Prospect Heights. And parts of the community have been annexed, piecemeal, by neighboring villages.

Another unfortunate result of Prospect Heights' lack of government is the lack of an adequate police force, and crime has shown a steady increase in Prospect Heights.

Leaders of the incorporation move see it as a means to correct those deficiencies. They propose a modest $539,185 budget for the first year of operation, with no additional taxation. They envision the new city providing only the most basic services not now being provided by local taxing districts: street maintenance, police patrols and a small governmental staff.

Any additional services desired by Prospect Heights residents would necessitate a municipal assessment or tax levy. Residents would control that through the election of eight aldermen and a mayor.

We believe Saturday's vote will be the last time residents of Prospect Heights will have an opportunity to decide whether their community should be preserved as a distinct entity, and we are confident that if residents accept that fact they will vote to incorporate — and preserve — Prospect Heights.

Leave our time alone

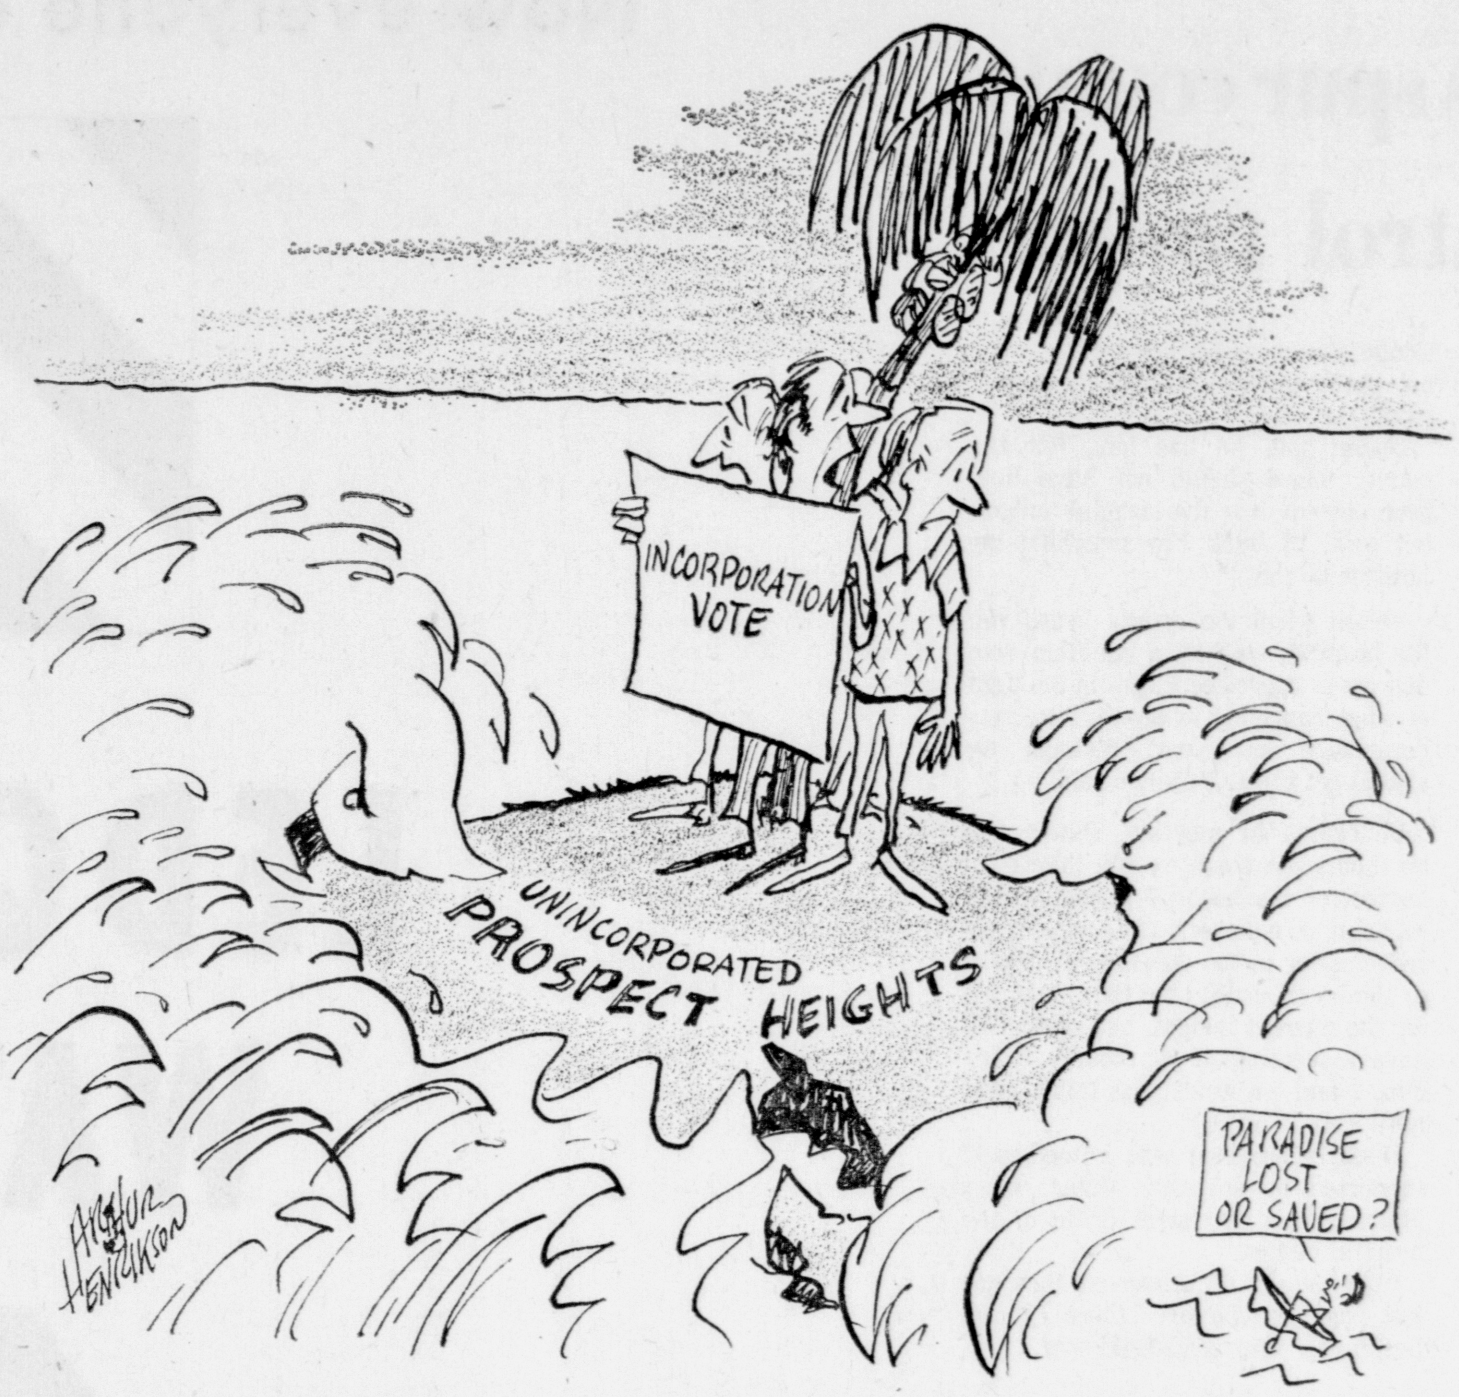
If the energy crisis hadn't afflicted us two years ago, we might agree with George Swanson's scheme to extend summer daylight to 9:30 p.m.

There's nothing like a quiet summer evening to wash away the cares and trials of a busy world.

But to accomplish the dream of Swanson, an earth science teacher at Conant High School in Hoffman Estates, we would have to move our clocks forward in March and again in May.

And then there would be the problem of dark summer mornings. Swanson says we'd have to change our national time zones to avoid midmorning darkness in certain areas.

After reviewing the proposal, we're inclined to give Swanson a high grade for a bright idea. But, thanks anyway, we'd like to have the birds awaken before us.



It's our decision, Milton. This or wash away, chunk by chunk!

Superblock funding questioned

A Jan. 19 editorial was addressed very concisely and logically to the issue of HUD money — and what the money can do for the community, i.e. downtown redevelopment, a clear need for the village (Arlington Heights).

Des Plaines twice has faced the same issue of community redevelopment and responded in the negative. Des Plaines is also faced with the issue of a downtown redevelopment. I am strongly opposed to the use of general obligation bonds to finance the city's portion of the Superblock development — the parking garage. Revenue bonds would be the normal means of financing a viable highly regarded business venture. When an enterprise is on shaky ground, bondholders reflect their better judgment by not buying stock in a white elephant. The scapegoat then becomes the general obligation bonds. The millstone is placed around the taxpayers' neck. Success or failure of the enterprise now becomes the concern of the unwitting taxpayer who never blessed the venture in the first place.

Revenue bonds and the astronomical interest accruing to them are paid from the profits of a practical endeavor. The people of Arlington Heights didn't buy the gamble from the Madison Square Garden Corp.; why should the taxpayers of Des Plaines be any more gullible with Superblock? Are the investors who would or would not speculate on our parking facility less qualified to judge its prospects than we? Are we convinced Superblock will succeed or do we subscribe it has to succeed or the city of Des Plaines will go down with it?

Mr. Mahon, recently announced candidate for the office of mayor of Des Plaines, announced his position on Superblock. He did not decry the subject so long as the aforementioned millstone or millstones were not part and parcel of such enterprises. In simple terms, don't shackle the taxpayers with obligations involving private enterprises.

Since the issuance of the editorial of Jan. 19, two of our adjacent communities have joined the thousands throughout the country applying for Community Development money. Both Arlington Heights and Hoffman Estates have evaluated HUD and Community Development and elected to confront this toothless dragon, more power to them. I for one feel that the wisdom they exhibited in rejecting the general obligation bonds for a stadium has been again displayed on this issue.

Berry's World

"It's all right, officer! We were just having a discussion about the Concorde!"

He switches to Howlett

In 1972 I ran for state senator and supported Dan Walker for Governor. Today, I offer my apologies to those friends and relatives who took my bad advice. It is no secret that I have been critical of Dan Walker for the past year. However, I believe that my criticism is well grounded in the Governor's own actions. I cannot bring myself to use school children, senior citizens, handicapped children, welfare recipients and other disadvantaged for political purposes. Dan Walker has skillfully used all these unfortunate people for his advancement. He has manipulated you the "People" into believing that these unfortunates are your tax dollar enemy. Is there really someone of you that does not have a friend or relative among this group? Are these people really not part of the "People?" I think not.

Today, I am supporting Dan Walker's opponent, Mike Howlett, for Governor. This was not an easy decision, but I have taken the time to compare the public records of both men. I found out that Mike Howlett has quietly worked for both public and private programs for handicapped persons and senior citizens. I found out that Mike Howlett actually returned to the state treasury money appropriated to run his state auditor's office. I found out that Mike Howlett has reduced expenditures and improved service each of his years in public office. Above all, I found out that Mike Howlett has supported quality education for all of our school children. There is really no comparison between Mike Howlett and what his New York advertising firms name for Walker this week.

Historian debunks lore of early patriots

'Paul Revere's immortal ride wasn't finished'

by VIRGINIUS DABNEY

As a practicing historian I am fascinated and not a little dismayed by counterfeit history — a tendency during the Bicentennial year to twist history to meet popular concepts or to cash in on sensational revelations about American patriots that are unsupported by historical evidence.

At least two such histories, Gore Vidal's "Burr" and Fawn Brodie's "Jefferson" have already been published. Both met a storm of protest from historians and scholars. And perhaps other historical travesties may be anticipated during the Bicentennial.

Counterfeit history has frequently produced heroes and heroines whose reputation for patriotic achievement far exceeds the recorded events.

I had reason to observe this in editing "The Patriots," a book commissioned by the U.S. Bicentennial Society, commemorating 50 great American patriots whose actions contributed meaningfully to the birth of our nation.

AFTER LONG and painstaking study of their lives and their real contributions to the Revolution, it became necessary for the sake of historical accuracy to omit the biographies of three patriots whose reputations were unsupported in fact or were the product of popular enthusiasm growing over the years.

Paul Revere is the most conspicuous of those omitted. His name is a household word and his "midnight ride" is often cited as an event of epochal significance.

Yet the fact is that Revere never completed his famous ride to alert the residents of Concord, Mass. He was captured by the British before he even got to Concord. Moreover, the revolutionists at Concord had already been warned by the lanterns in the tower of Boston's Old North Church before Revere jumped into the saddle.

Indeed, Revere's undying fame demonstrates the power of a good press agent, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, who immortalized him in the lines: "Listen, my children and you shall hear, Of the midnight ride of Paul Revere." The poem was written in 1863 almost a century after the events it purports to describe.

FEW ARE AWARE of another event in Revere's Revolutionary career. He was a leading participant in a disastrous fiasco, the Penobscot Expedition of 1779 when the Americans fled ignominiously before a much smaller British force. Revere and other officers were subsequently court-martialed. He was finally acquitted "with the equal honor as the other officers in the same expedition."

Even so, Revere was an ardent patriot who fought for independence, took part in the Boston Tea Party and risked his life in the attempted ride to Concord. He was one of our greatest silversmiths. But he was not the transcendent hero many have thought him to be.

What of Betsy Ross and the long-held belief that she made the first American flag? This again may be counterfeit history. There is no documentary evidence. It was not until 1870, almost a century after the supposed event that her grandson, William Canby, advanced the claim. He stated that Betsy Ross stitched the first flag at the behest of George Washington and Robert Morris. While Canby no doubt believed this and perhaps with good reason, historical scholars feel that the evidence is insufficient.

MOLLY PITCHER, who likewise does not appear in "The Patriots," was the wife of John Hays, a Continental artilleryman. At the Battle of Monmouth, June 28, 1778, the day was scorchingly hot and Hays and others were overcome. Molly carried pitchers of water from a nearby well to the parched and gasping soldiers. Although her real name was Molly Hays she was known thereafter as Molly Pitcher. She also helped to serve her husband's cannon when he succumbed to heat. Molly's performance was altogether admirable but it hardly seems sufficient to warrant giving her a place among 50 foremost patriots of the Revolution.

Nor was Molly's heroism unprecedented. It was not uncommon for women in the Revolutionary War to accompany their husbands to the battlefield. Margaret Corbin, the only woman honored by burial in the West Point cemetery, also carried water to soldiers on the battlefield. When her husband, an artillery man, was killed in action, she, like Molly Pitcher, bravely took his place at the cannon.

Another young heroine, Deborah Sampson, enlisted in the Continental Army, wore the uniform and participated in a bloody bayonet charge at Yorktown. Receiving a saber cut and a musket wound on her thigh, Deborah insisted on doctoring her own wounds. Finally, she had to accept treatment by an army doctor who quickly discovered that the brave young soldier was a woman.

THE COURAGE of all three women was magnificent. But it did not significantly affect the course of the Revolution. In the judgment of most scholars, isolated acts of courage on the battlefield, whether by women or men, do not by themselves justify apotheosis among the 50 foremost patriots of the Revolution.

Obviously the honor roll of great American patriots is much longer than the 50 commemorated in "The Patriots." All signers of the Declaration of Independence, for example, merit our veneration for having risked their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor. But the limitation to 50 commentaries made it necessary to omit most of them, as well as a number of fighting men who distinguished themselves on Revolutionary battlefields. All, however, richly merit our remembrance.

It is hoped that history yet to be published during the Bicentennial Year, will also stimulate remembrance, relying upon facts to invoke it, rather than puesdo-history tinged with poetry and lamentably counterfeit.

search center capable of offering tertiary care, the highest level of hospital treatment.

When Northwest reaches its planned 600-bed capacity in two to three years, it will be the largest community hospital in the Chicago metropolitan area without a medical school affiliation, MacCoun said.

TEACHING HOSPITALS tend to be larger and more expensive than community hospitals because of the equipment and facilities they must have available for teaching. Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, currently is the only teaching hospital in the Northwest suburbs. It is affiliated with the University of Illinois College of Medicine.

"If we were not dealing in an environment highly-charged by government controls, we might not be forced to make a plan," MacCoun said. But mounting government regulations over hospital development make it imperative that Northwest have a master plan, he added.

"For the last six years much of what we have done has been geared around making us the best community hospital we can be. At the end of the year (1975), we decided we needed a fresh approach. The board of directors agreed to hire a consultant to lead us on the philosophical and intellectual exercise of finding what we want to be for the future," MacCoun said.

The consultant has not been hired yet, and the study will probably take about six months to complete, he said.

ONE REASON TO consider taking on the responsibilities of a teaching hospital, MacCoun said, is the predicted increase in the number of medical students and the decreasing numbers of foreign doctors that will be permitted to practice in the United States.

MacCoun said there have been only "informal discussions" with various Chicago medical schools about the possibility of Northwest Community becoming a teaching hospital.

"Some of the doctors on staff at the hospital know deans at the schools," he said. But he did not say what schools might be in a position to team up with Northwest.

Plans for the long-range development study were disclosed Monday night at Northwest Community Hospital's annual meeting where Robert Bukowski, Arlington Heights, was installed as chairman of the hospital's board of directors.

Bukowski is senior vice president of Continental Illinois National Bank. A graduate of Northwestern University, he is a director of the Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights, Northwest Trust and Savings Bank, Imoco-Gateway Corp. and Dynabank Corp. He has been on the hospital board since 1967 and succeeds out-going chairman Harold W. Dotts, Arlington Heights.

Kris Howard, Inverness; Dr. John Lynch, Mount Prospect; Mary Morrow and Blaine Yarrington, both of Arlington Heights, also were named directors on the hospital's 20-member board.

3-hour delays for air travelers?

piece of baggage or luggage or cargo that goes into an airport, you're dealing with a formidable problem," McLucas said in his first public report on FAA findings following the LaGuardia bombing.

"The delays we have been talking about vary from one to three hours," he said.

THE FAA IS working on a new luggage X-ray system and plans to test it soon at two or three airports in Washington and other cities. Oklahoma City airport authorities have volunteered for the test, McLucas said.

The cost of examining every piece of luggage at the nation's 60 major airports could total $100 million a year, which would more than double the 37 cents per ticket that airline passengers now pay, he said.

Other potential security improvements McLucas cited include bomb shields for coin-operated luggage storage lockers and developing a "suspicious luggage profile" similar to the hijacker profile developed several years ago.

President Ford ordered McLucas to investigate ways to tighten airport security immediately after the LaGuardia bombing. A report on the FAA proposals was sent to the White House two weeks ago with a recommendation that it be kept secret in order to thwart would-be bombers.

'Stay in school'

The straight story from a dropout

Mike Klein's people

The Sermon of Education as preached by interior decorator Al Sowka, goes like this: "Stay in school!"

His message to all kids: When you're down and out, when you're upset with teachers and counselors, with science classes and hall monitors, or having no money in your pocket and thinking nobody cares . . . be tougher and STAY IN SCHOOL!

Al knows of what he speaks.

That advice does not come from some slick talker. A young man or woman can listen to Al Sowka and believe what they hear.

THAT'S BECAUSE Al did not learn about high school dropouts by reading some book, or citing some statistical data.

Al Sowka never finished high school He quit twice and was asked to leave once.

That was many years ago, but he still lives with it everyday. Al is 24 years old . . . and happy, too, but only because he got lucky.

Al attended Arlington High School for portions of five years, 1965 through 1970. His last departure was so Al could get married, which he never did.

Two years earlier, Al dropped out because he was frustrated and bored. He returned but did not attend class very frequently, and finally, the school asked him to take some time off and think it over again.

WHICH AL DID for about six months. Then he tried once more, but Al still couldn't hack it.

So Al Sowka dropped out one last time. He will always regret that decision. But he understands it, too.

"You might say I was stubborn," Al said this week. "I grew up in the '60s. I wanted a lot of things my own way. We were all revolutionaries the last four or five years in the '60s. Everybody wanted things their own way.

"The older generation . . . I guess they couldn't handle it."

But it was only a game. A sad game for those who chose to play.

"WE WERE SO hung up on beliefs that we didn't take time out to see the future," Al remembered. "All we cared about was right now.

"We got what we wanted then and now it's over. It was just a fad. I don't think that some kids realized that. They thought it would go on forever."

It was not a popular choice with his parents, Elmer and Vern Sowka. But they accepted his reasons. They let Al try to become an adult in his own way.

"I love my parents," Al said. "They told me I'd be sorry. Here was a naive 16- or 17-year-old kid who hated war, hated school, hated authority and wanted to do it by himself . . . but he didn't do it."

"High school dropout" is not a pretty tag. It suggests someone who is a failure and a loser, a person who could not stick with a task to its logical end.

THAT UPSETS Al Sowka. You see, Al doesn't believe he's a failure. He's just somebody without a high school diploma.

"I've never been fired," Al said proudly. But the jobs did not come easily. Movie theaters wouldn't hire him as a lobby usher. Service stations turned him down as a gasoline pump attendant.

It was always the same story. Prospective employers told Al that his qualifications were just fine . . . but they never called back.

Al was finally hired to wash dishes at $1.75 an hour. "It wasn't much, especially when you've got a girlfriend," Al said. He took home less than $50 per week.

OTHER JOBS would follow. He worked as a U.S. Postal Service carrier, did two stints with the First Arlington National Bank (rising to assistant auditor) and worked in numerous plants. But those jobs usually fizzled out.

Al said he would become bored. The bank wasn't too bad; he liked helping people. But he didn't see himself going anyplace.

"I'm a different kind of dropout," Al admitted. "I care about the future but then again, sometimes I don't. Maybe it's just depression. I get depressed like everyone else."

It wasn't until last August that Al finally latched onto something he truly enjoys. He began working for Kimball Hill Inc., interior decorators from Rolling Meadows.

THE ROAD HAS been long for Al Sowka. He has had too many jobs.

"I dread any kid going through what I went through . . . job after job," Al said.

Six years later, Al might have finally found his niche.

"Yeah, I'm very happy now, no complaints," Al said. "I think I've got a good future. The breaks are coming my way." But he admitted, "Who knows how long it will last?"

I interviewed Al late Monday evening. During our conversation, Al was nervous and admitted it freely. Like most people, he's not accustomed to showing the public such an important segment of his life.

Al tried hard to include everything which he thought might be important. It was tough, especially in the beginning.

"I'VE BEEN THINKING all week long what I can tell you," Al said early. "I can't get it all out now."

But Al told his story well. He did not condemn anyone. Problems, Al said, were of his own making.

"My parents went through hell with me," he said. But they stuck by him, too, and Al is thankful.

Al said he has been lucky. Friends helped him find jobs. He wondered about kids today and whether some of them are as frustrated as he was six, seven and eight years ago.

"I was lucky. I knew people. That's how I got my jobs," Al said. "Some kids aren't so lucky.

"I JUST WANT to get it through kids' heads that you shouldn't drop out of school," Al said. He would like to help. "If kids want to talk with me, I'll meet 'em anywhere."

Two hours passed quickly. Al was ready to leave. He would be painting in less than seven hours.

Al walked a couple of steps, then turned back toward the table we had shared. "Put it good, not for my sake, just for the kids," Al said.

Personnel, law conference topics

Personnel executives are confronted by regulations from so many government agencies that the alphabet soup of OSHA, NLRB and other titles can be confusing, said the American Management Assn.

The association developed a program entitled, "personnel and the law," designed to eliminate the confusion about changing standards.

The program will be presented at the association's 47th Annual Personnel Conference, slated Feb. 4-6 at the Palmer House in Chicago. Labor relations, affirmative action programs, safety standards and other government guidelines will be discussed.

School lunch menus

The following lunches will be served Thursday in area schools where a hot lunch program is provided (subject to change without notice):

Dist 214: Exam Day — Menu will be manager's choice.

'Glory days' were few but Frank Ernaga remembers

Staff Sportswriter

I remember Frank Ernaga more vividly, perhaps, than most people do.

Most people don't remember him at all.

It was May of 1957 when Ernaga, a 26-year-old Chicago Cub rookie, stepped to the plate at Wrigley Field and belted one over the ivy in his first time at bat in the major leagues.

That was the beginning of the end for Ernaga.

"You want to talk to Frank after all these years?" his wife wondered when I had dialed the only Frank Ernaga listed in the Susanville, Cal. directory.

Frank Ernaga's wife was amazed. Amazed that anyone would have such a long memory, such a selective memory.

But Mrs. Ernaga wasn't a Cub fan and nine years old in 1957.

When Frank Ernaga hit a home run and a triple in his first big league game and added a homer and a double the next day, Jack Brickhouse announced on the air: "At this rate the kid will break Babe Ruth's record in a month!"

When Brickhouse brought Ernaga in front of a camera for an interview and repeated his home-run hyperbole, the rookie just grinned sheepishly and tried to change the subject.

Ernaga must have known something that none of us knew, because he never hit another home run and played only 29 games in a big league uniform.

Today, Ernaga is in the contracting game in his hometown of Susanville, a small burg in the agricultural region of northeast California. He's been out of baseball since 1960.

"That was a long time ago," he said, trying to recall a time and place that are alien to him now.

Ernaga said he didn't remember much about those days, but he certainly remembered more than I did.

"I hit the first homer off a pretty good lefty — Warren Spahn," recalled Ernaga. "Then I tripled and grounded out. The next day we faced a real fastballer, Juan Pizzaro — you may remember him — and I had a double the first time up, a homer and a walk.

"It was just one of those things," he continued. "I was pretty happy about it at the time, but I ended up sitting on the bench."

Each stop on the minor-league ladder had brought Ernaga closer to the Cubs — from Stockton and Burlington to Tulsa, to Portland. Finally, four summers after he was signed off the campus of UCLA, the 26-year-old outfielder was a full-fledged, right-handed-hitting member of the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs finished tied for last place that year, but they were respectable. They flashed some power and introduced a pair of promising right-handers, Dick Drott and Moe Drabowsky.

"The Cubs had a pretty set outfield," remembered Ernaga. "They had Walt Moryn, the 'old man' on the team. And (Jim) Bolger played center field most of the season. And Lee Walls had a pretty good year."

The Cubs also had Bob Speake and Chuck Tanner, and the following year they added Bobby Thomson to the outfield legion.

Ernaga and his .314 batting average had no place to play.

"We had that home stand, then we went on the road and before long I was down in Fort Worth, Texas, and just stayed there. I was floating on air for awhile, but I came down in Fort Worth.

"That next year they tried to make a catcher out of me," he explained. "I caught a few games in spring training and split a finger. Then they tried me at third base. Before long I was in San Antonio."

As a Cub, Ernaga got into just nine games in 1958, all as a pinch hitter. The next year he was traded and wound up in the Washington farm system. The Senators offered Ernaga a job as manager of their Elmira (N.Y.) team, but he turned it down.

"By then I was pretty much tired of baseball so I decided to come back home and go into business," said Ernaga.

To this day, Ernaga rejects the notion that his incredibly auspicious debut jinxed him through the rest of his baseball career. A total of 40 others have matched Ernaga's feat of a home run the first time up, and none of them are in the Hall of Fame.

"We had another guy on that Cub team, Chuck Tanner, who hit a homer his first time," recalled Ernaga. "Look what happened to him."

Tanner, who hit the first of his 21 major league home runs as a pinch hitter for Henry Aaron, is now managing for Charles O. Finley, the ultimate jinx.

If Ernaga was the victim of a jinx, he wouldn't admit it. The rookie hit two homers before he had unpacked all of his bags, but he never suffered from delusions of grandeur.

"I was just an average ballplayer," he said. "I was no superstar."

Which came as a blow to a nine-year-old Cub fan who imagined Frank Ernaga was good for 3,000 homers.

Elk Grove captures 15th win; Harper tops Morton

by BOB GALLAS

The Elk Grove Grenadiers parlayed red-hot first and third quarters into a narrow win over Hersey, 64-61 at the Grens' gym Tuesday night.

The win was the 15th of the season against four losses for Elk Grove and ties a team record. Hersey is now 12-5 after the Mid-Suburban League crossover contest.

Elk Grove opened with a barrage of shooting as Elk Grove guard Joe Parmentier kept hitting the open shot at the free throw line. Hersey helped out with a bunch of turnovers as the Grens burst to a 20-12 lead at the end of the first quarter.

But then it was Hersey's turn as the Grens cooled down and Hersey's big men started hitting underneath. The Huskies took a 33-27 lead to the halftime lockerroom.

Hersey switched to a zone defense to open the second half, but Grove quickly figured it out, hitting 19 points in the last five minutes of the quarters to take a 50-45 lead.

Down by 10 with four minutes left in the game, Hersey came back to within three with 54 seconds left at 62-59, but Elk Grove's Dave Hornacek put the game away for the Grens when he drove in off the stall with 37 seconds remaining.

Guard play was a particular problem for the Huskies who just couldn't put together an effective attack. "Our guards haven't been playing well since Christmas," said Huskie coach Roger Steingraber.

"As a team we're not playing well, Steingraber said. "We went to the zone to change things, and we weren't even getting rebounds. When you don't get rebounds off the zone, you're in trouble," he said.

Elk Grove stumbled badly in the second period, as they were outscored 21-7, something Grens' coach Joe Parmentier took some of the blame for.

"I guess I was a little too concerned about their (Hersey's) inside game," Parmentier said. "I had our kids drop back inside when our game is pressure defense," he said.

The Grens put up a balanced attack as four starters finished in double figures. Elk Grove shot a hot 56 per cent from the field, compared to Hersey's 46 per cent.

The Grens fared poorly from the free throw line, hitting only eight out of 20. But the Huskies couldn't even get to the line, hitting three in just four attempts.

Arden collects 34

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Jim Arden gunned in 34 points and Steve Loughman and Wally Butman shared 34 as the Harper Hawks outlasted a ragged but determined Morton outfit 87-76.

The Hawks took a step toward the break even level on the season at 9-11 as they led by as many as 17 points during the game.

Morton, on the strength of little guard Ken Smulski's 26 points, kept fighting back and didn't lose sight of the game until the final minutes.

"I think we took them lightly," said Harper head coach Roger Bechtold. "We were looking to Rock Valley."

The Rock Valley game will be Thursday at St. Viator beginning at 8 p.m.

Harper took apparent control of the game several times the first when they ran off 11 unanswered points early in the first half to break a 17-17 tie.

Arden struck for 17 points in the first half as the Hawk offense worked the ball quickly around the horn to free him for jumpers from the corners.

But Smulski, who is listed at 5-9 but plays, as they say, "at 5-6," hit three long jumpers and set up John Koziel for two other baskets in the next three minutes to pull back within three points of the Hawks.

"That little guy killed us," Bechtold said. "Morton doesn't have that good a record but they lost 100-98 to Mayfair and to Triton by three points so they aren't any pushovers."

Loughman, who had 16 points for the game, kept Morton honest from the outside.

Butman, who canned 18 points and was described by Bechtold as "a one man rebounding machine," missed two early layups but came back with another strong game.

"Wally has matured as a player," Bechtold said. "Last year after he missed those shots he would have looked for somebody to foul.

"He doesn't get down on himself now. He's got confidence."

Wheeling falls

by KEITH REINHARD

Lightning may not strike twice in the same location but it can evidently seek out the same subject. Led by chief thunderbolt Bob Erickson, Libertyville blitzed Wheeling for the second time this season Tuesday night, 65-46.

The last time these two Wildcat clubs hooked up was at the Proviso West tournament and Erickson pummeled the nets for 28 to key an 85-71 Libertyville triumph. This time the site was Wheeling and Erickson netted "only" 25.

Thirteen of Erickson's points came in succession this time, however, after the hosts had broken into a quick 8-4 lead. Hitting five straight outside jumpers, the 6-3 junior single-handedly directed Libertyville into a 19-17 advantage and they were never headed again.

The visitors followed up Erickson's potent opening with a solid defense performance and a rugged showing on the boards. Wheeling was seldom able to penetrate and had few second shot opportunities all evening.

Backing up Erickson was Baker Green with 13 as the guests upped their over-all record to 14-5.

Wheeling was led in scoring by Keith Schildt and Brian Begrowicz with 10 apiece. The setback dropped their over-all slate to 8-9.

Mid-Suburban girls cage season begins

by PAUL LOGAN

When basketball winning streaks are talked about, the Los Angeles Lakers' 33 and the UCLA Bruins' 88 are usually mentioned.

Not too many people talk about Baskins (La.) High School's mark. Under Coach "Tiny" Tarbutton, Baskins won 218 games!

And it might surprise some basketball fans to know that Tarbutton was a woman and Baskins was a girls' team!

Fremd's girls have been the Baskins of the Mid-Suburban League, winning 25 and losing none over the past three seasons. But you won't find Fremd Viking coach Carol Plodzien and her team worrying about their perfect record as the MSL season begins tonight.

The schedule has Schaumburg at Fremd, Arlington at Forest View, Conant at Buffalo Grove, Hersey at Hoffman Estates, Palatine at Elk Grove and Prospect at Wheeling.

"I'll admit that it does add to the pressure," said Plodzien. "I think the team can handle it, I really do.

"We figure it's (a loss) going to happen to us one day. And when it comes, I figure we'll be ready for it."

Rolling Meadows nearly brought "it" about last March in the MSL championship. The Mustangs outscored the Vikings 19-11 in the final quarter, losing a thriller, 53-49.

Fremd has virtually its entire starting team back to defend its title. Leading the Vikings are two all-conference players — senior Heidi Giesler (5-foot-7) and junior Colleen Cannon (5-4½).

Cannon and Giesler, who averaged 15 and 14 points respectively, are joined by these veterans — center Margaret Hamill (5-11), forward Donelda Danz (5-10) and guard Connie Bruns (5-2½). Three tall substitutes are Kathy Uhrich (5-7), Kathy Pfaender (5-10½) and Cindy Nelson (5-7).

"It's the first year we have some height," said Plodzien. "Rebounding was probably our lowest area last year.

"Our defense is definitely a strong point. Also our accurate shooting and quick passing."

Rolling Meadows may have trouble repeating as the South Division champion because Pam Klein (5-9) is the only returning starter.

"We're very, very young and inexperienced," said Meadows coach Elaine Wissen. "But we've got a lot of movement — more than last year — and we have more people who can shoot."

Figuring to give Fremd its toughest challenge in the North Division again this season is Wheeling. The past two seasons the Wildcats of Coach Donna Dubbelde lost to Fremd by one and two points, respectively.

Dethroning the perennial champs might pose a problem for Wheeling. Sophomore star Sandy Rainey will be

New elite wears cleats

LOS ANGELES — NEWS ITEM: "Lawyer Says If Andy Messersmith Loses Appeal, The Pitcher May Have To Take Himself Off Multi-Million Dollar Auction Block And Go Back To Dodgers For Mere $220,000."

There was a time in this country when a man had to make his millions on railroads, oil, cattle, steel, munitions or shipping. Now, he makes it on curveballs, crackback blocks, sideline patterns, trap shots, dunk shots and services aces.

The new elite in this country wears cleats.

The robber barons were pikers. They had to corner markets, start wars, put together monopolies to start their family wealth. Today, you pitch seven innings, play mixed doubles, play half a game of football, or sink three 40-foot putts. The portrait in the mansion library of the founding father in the future is a guy with a number on his chest, a helmet on his head and a club, bat or ball in his hands.

The family fortune may be based on stealing bases, not land, bootleg plays, not liquor.

So, what was so great about The Good Old Days?

Come with me to the halcyon hours of 1933, past the breadlines, soup kitchens, NRA eagles, being careful under tall buildings for falling stockbrokers. In the clubhouse of the New York Giants, Frederick Landis Fitzsimmons, a right-handed pitcher, is packing for a road trip.

He folds his uniform carefully because it will not be laundered again for 21 days, duration of the swing west. The club will be quartered two-to-a-room in un-air-conditioned hotels that may or may not have a shower down the hall.

The meal money is $4 a day and some on the club save out of that. Peanut-butter sandwiches are very big on the club because bread is only a nickel a loaf.

They call Fitzsimmons "Fat Freddie" because he is as wide as the back of a cab and wears uniforms two sizes too large so he can hide knuckleballs from the batter in the folds of white flapping around him.

Fat Freddie is a very good pitcher indeed. He is one of only 69 pitchers in major-league history to have won more than 200 games. He won 217 and lost 146. Andy Messersmith will probably never win 217.

Fitzsimmons is one of only 46 major league pitchers to have started more than 400 games (426). He is one of less than 100 to have completed more than 180 (186). Fitzsimmons hated to give the ball up and once retreated behind the shortstop and threatened to throw the ball at the manager if he came one step closer. Fitzsimmons pitched in a game once where a line drive broke his kneecap. He ran under the carom, caught it, then collapsed.

Fitzsimmons was paid $9,500 a year in his great days with the New York Giants. He helped to pitch them to two pennants, and was one of the unluckiest World Series players that ever lived.

In 1936, the New York Yankees had a lineup that consisted mostly of Hall of Famers with a smattering of All-Stars. They won the second game in a squeaker, 18-4. The next day, Fitzsimmons held this same lineup for four hits, two of which didn't get out of the infield and one of which, the winning one, glanced off Fitz' glove. The Giants had 11 hits but Fitzsimmons lost, 2-1.

In 1941's series, with Brooklyn, he had shut the Yankees out for seven innings until that line drive broke his kneecap making the last out of the inning. He had allowed only four hits but his relief lost it.

Fitzsimmons didn't have agents, lawyers, unions or player reps. The courts had better things to worry about than ballplayers' salary negotiations. In fact, John McGraw, the manager, used to pay switchboard operators to let him listen in on players' calls. If you didn't like it, McGraw would invite you to see if you might like it any better in Perth Amboy.

Fitzsimmons pitched for 19 years in the big leagues and his cumulative salary for all those years would make a .500 pitcher hold out today if offered it for one year.

Fitzsimmons was one of the stars on the new public television series "The Way It Was," which recently began its 1976 programming of sports nostalgia.

"The Way It Was" is a light year from the way it is. For Fitzsimmons, now 74 and the squire ofYucca Valley, the grand old game was grander when it was played in the Polo Grounds, not the Federal Building. To his way of thinking, nobody from the way it was ever amassed enough money to go into Wall Street or even downtown Miami to found family dynasties.

But, on the other hand, there was no danger that when someone would say "Grandfather made his money in baseball" to some grandchild in the future, the kid would say: "Baseball!? What was that?"

Young Bulls back Dick Motta and . . .

Chicago Bulls Coach Dick Motta said "the last thing I need is a vote of confidence," but he got one anyway. And it came from the people who should mean the most to him, his young players.

Rookie John Laskowski was the spokesman at a news conference called Tuesday by the rookies or second year men, half of the Bulls' 12 player roster. He was backed up by Leon Benbow, Cliff Pondexter, Mickey Johnson and Eric Fernsten. Bobby Wilson was to have attended, but Laskowski explained he was "late."

"I think the young players all agree Coach Motta is doing an excellent job," Laskowski said.

"I can't speak for the veteran players because their coaching has been done. They're just out there to play. If the people bear with us, we're learning every day, and if not this year, in the future, we're going to be a heck of a ball team.

"Coach Motta's teaching us what to do and how to win. He's only had one bad year and that's this year, and I think one of the reasons is so many young players."

Motta did not attend the conference. But he said later he and assistant coach Ed Badger were "very encouraged" by the players' action.

"We're still going to be a good team some day," he said. "It was encouraging to find a couple of players who were willing to stand up and express their opinion."

. . . team beats Warriors

John Laskowski scored 11 fourth-quarter points Tuesday night to carry the Chicago Bulls to a 110-103 victory over the Golden State Warriors.

Laskowski scored his 11 points in seven mintues.

Chicago took a 31-28 lead after one period by driving to the basket, causing Warriors centers Cliff Ray, George Johnson and Dwight Davis to pick up a total of nine fouls.

The Bulls built up a 54-50 lead at the half, but the Warriors came back to gain the edge behind Rick Barry, who scored 11 of his 19 points in the third period.

Game scoring honors went to Phil Smith of Golden State with 27 points. Chicago's Mickey Johnson had 21.

The victory was the Bulls' 13th in 44 games and Golden State is now 33-12.

Goolagong wins, 6-1, 7-5

Evonne Goolagong of Australia defeated Iris Riedel of Germany, 6-1, 7-5, Tuesday to lead three more seeded players into the third round of the $75,000 Virginia Slims of Chicago tennis tournament.

Goolagong advanced to a third round match Wednesday.

Riedel, 20, in her first season on the Slims tour, started shaky but mounted a strong challenge in the second set and at one point led 5-3 in games.

In other early matches, No. 4 seeded Olga Norozova of the Soviet Union had no difficulty advancing over Tine Zwaan of Holland 6-3, 6-1, and Wendy Overton of Boca Raton, Fla., the eighth-seeded player, struggled past fellow Floridian Kathy Kuykendall, 6-4, 6-4.

Fifth-seeded Francoise Durr of France, ailing from a lingering attack of hepatitis, was forced to default her second round singles match with Cynthia Doerner of Australia. She also withdrew from the doubles.

Will Walker sue Bulls?

As if the Chicago Bulls didn't have enough problems, it was rumored Tuesday that former star Chet Walker would soon file a $2 million antitrust suit against the team and the NBA unless he is traded or things are worked out to his satisfaction . . . Walker retired unofficially before this season, although the option year of his contract has yet to be filled . . . The constitutionality of that option is being challenged.

The seven existing American Basketball Assn. clubs agreed Tuesday to put up $1.5 million to assure the financially troubled league will be around next season . . . "This is the best situation the ABA has been in anytime, anyplace," said Commissioner Dave DeBusschere . . . Goalie Gerry Cheevers is now free of any obligations to the Cleveland Crusaders of the World Hockey Assn. and is expected to begin talks with the team he once jumped — the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League . . . Cheevers and the Crusaders officially voided a seven-year contract Tuesday . . . Selection of Jack Burke Jr. and Doug Ford as the newest members of the Professional Golfers Assn. Hall of Fame was announced Tuesday.

Henry Boucha of the Minnesota Fighting Saints has filed a $3.5 million civil suit related to an on-ice fight last year with Dave Forbes of the Boston Bruins . . . The University of Oklahoma Tuesday officially announced the hiring of the eldest of three All-American brothers as an assistant football coach and counselor . . . Lucious Selmon was a 1973 All-America noseguard and his two younger brothers were first team All-America choices in 1975.

sidelined most of the season with torn foot ligaments.

"Sandy's absence is going to hurt us," said Dubbelde. But she still has hopes because she has 10 fine players of equal ability.

Elk Grove was the South runnerup to Meadows last year. Grenadier coach Marsha Gordon's team upset Prospect en route to the MSL runner-up game. Then the Grens lost to Wheeling in the playoff, 45-30.

Two starters return — senior Laura Barry (5-7) and sophomore guard Karyn Mullen. A junior varsity team that finished with a fine 6-1 record could give the Grenadiers a contender this year.

The coaches of last year's top four finishers said that Hersey, Buffalo Grove and Arlington appeared strong in the North and Hoffman Estates, Forest View and Prospect looked like contenders in the South.

Mid-Suburban wrestling heads for tense finish

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

It's official now. There will be four teams deadlocked for first going into the Mid-Suburban's conference wrestling tournament early next month.

Defending champion Hersey filled in the last berth by stopping Palatine Friday 24-18 while Buffalo Grove was turning back Wheeling 26-21. The Huskies (4-1) and Bison (4-1) from the North Division now join with South circuit co-champs Conant (5-1) and Elk Grove (5-1) as slight favorites in the MSL showdown less than two weeks away.

Another significant dual meet conducted over the past weekend saw Schaumburg crunch Fremd 28-16 Saturday. It was the first time in 13 divisional crossover matches this winter that the South came up a winner.

Previously this year Buffalo Grove had bettered Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows and Prospect, Hersey had toppled Schaumburg, Palatine and Fremd had both disposed of the Mustangs, Wheeling had knocked off Forest View and Arlington had beaten Prospect and . . . yes . . . both the South loop kingpins; Conant and Elk Grove.

The Cardinals would probably have chosen to compete in the South this season had the option been there. Against North teams the Redbirds wound up with a 2-3 mark good for a fourth place tie.

Saturday Palatine squeaked past Elk Grove 23-21 and Wheeling bumped Hoffman 27-23 before the Saxons stemmed the North domination. These statistics, however, are considered to have little bearing on a MSL tourney rated the most wide open over.

In other action Friday, Maine West's perfect Central Suburban South won-loss slate was more than slightly tarnished by a fired-up hosting Glenbrook South contingent. The Titans captured all but three of 12 bouts in ringing up a 39-12 conquest and the Warriors now own a 4-1 league record.

Maine West did rebound the next day with a triple win at Ridgewood, jacking their overall mark to a hefty 14-5.

In one other interesting area hookup Friday, St. Viator pummeled Prospect 31-11. The Lions had previously lost to three other MSL schools but they are still 7-9 now overall.

Teddy's rolls to seven in Classic

by GENE KIRKHAM

Bowling at Fair Lanes Rolling Meadows Bowl, the Paddock Classic League had one seven point winner and three very close match games which could have gone to any of the teams involved.

Teddy's Liquors was the seven-point winner with a victory over Dick McFeely Pontiac. Led by Don Sawicki's 611 series, Teddy's rolled team games of 977, 966, and 895 for a 2838 team total. McFeely Pontiac had games of 946, 901, and 850 for a 2697 total. Sawicki's 611 series was built around games of 186, 223, and 202. Teddy's sweep moved them to within five points of the leaders.

Formco Metal Products and Oost Produce had the unusual distinction of tying for the series point at 2847 total pins apiece. Oost Produce won four and one-half points to Formco's two and one-half.

Oost won the first two games with 965 and 972 while Formco was hitting 937 and 914. Formco's 996 to 910 win in the third game brought about the series tie and gave them a two point lead over Oost for the league leadership.

Rich Moores of Oost held the hottest hand in the nights' action as he pounded out 246, 187, and 238 for a 671 series. Glenn Chesser added his 647 series with games of 222, 235, and 190. For Formco Metal Products Fred Hansen had games of 192, 198, and 246 for a 636 total.

Pickwick House and Buffalo Grove Striker Lanes traded points with Pickwick House winning four and Striker Lanes winning three with the series going to Striker by only 12 pins.

Pickwick House won the first and third games with 975 and 971 to total 2824 while Striker Lanes won the second game by a big margin with 964 and stayed close the final game with 950 as they totaled 2836.

Rey Ischer of Striker Lanes led the scoring in this match with games of 227, 200, and 192, for a 619 series.

Beverly Lanes won five points from Des Plaines Ace Hardware as these two teams were separated by only 21 pins in their series totals with Beverly winning the series point 2884 to Ace Hardware's 2863.

Des Plaines Ace won the first game with 966 while Beverly Lanes won the next two with 1012 and 979. Ray Stirber of Des Plaines Ace Hardware led the scoring in this match with games of 213, 203, and 208 for a 624 series. For Beverly Lanes Bob Glaser had 607 with games of 201, 216, and 190 and Ernie Koche had 605 with games of 170, 222, and 213.

L-Tran marches into women's lead

The Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League had the unusual situation of four seven point sweeps while bowling at Fair Lanes Rolling Meadows.

L-Tran Engineering won seven from Striking Lanes to move into first place by two points over the Striking team.

L-Tran had games of 868, 894, and 919 to total 2681 while Striking stayed close with games of 827, 882, and 898 for 2607.

Lorrie Nichols led her L-Tran team with a 601 series with games of 212, 181, and 208. Toshi Inahara had 549, and Marlis Pleickhardt had a 515.

For Striking Lanes Lu Schoenberger had a 587 series following a 136 game with Ames of 234 and 217. Bette Brelle added 214-552.

Petterson Safety Service jumped from seventh to fifth place with their seven point win over Mason Shoes. Winning the first game by only five, 892 to 887, Petterson went on to 926 and 948 games to total 2766 which was the highest team total of the night. Nancy Porcelius of Petterson led the league in individual scoring with her 641 series. Porcelius had games of 228, 211, and 202.

Teammate Winnie Lohse added her own 618 series with games of 187, 222, and 209. Bobbie Kostelny had 524 and Dee Harris had 500 even. For Mason Shoes Peggy Wales had 551, Kathy Ziemianski had 537, Sandi Malenk had 213-521, and Irma Faust had 505.

Ziebart stayed in third place with their seven point win over Thunderbird Country Club. Ziebart hit games of 876, 854, and 991 to total 2721 while Thunderbird hit 2514.

Consistent scoring did it for Ziebart as Tiny Cazel had 558, Carol Anderson had 200-557, Peggy Harris had 204-556, Joan Christensen had 203-550, and Sue Capizano had 500.

For Thunderbird Country Club Jean Ladd had 222-589, Mary Yurs had 551, and Dee Kachelmuss had 541.

Ten Pin Bowl won seven points from Lass Excavating to hold their share of third place. Ten Pin totaled 2699 with games of 860, 935, and 904 while Lass Excavating totaled 2454.

Ethel Juenger led the scoring for Ten Pin with 209-575, Marge Lindenberg had 547, Gloria Lucchesi had 200-532, Betty Peterman had 531 and Joan Plywack had 514. For Lass Excavating Lou Lass had 200-522, Ruth Baurhyte had 517, and Joan Plywack had 514.

OLÉ!
Steak and Enchiladas
$3.95 Wednesday night.

Something very special is happening on Wednesday night at the Boar's Head Restaurant.

Steak and enchiladas.

For only $3.95, you get a juicy steak, two cheese enchiladas, salad and coffee, tea or milk.

The steak is choice top sirloin, and the enchiladas are ground corn tortillas, topped and filled with cheddar cheese and a not-too-mild, not-too-spicy sauce.

Drop into the Boar's Head Restaurant on Wednesday night. We think you'll agree that this is the best dinner deal in town.

In fact, we'll stake our enchiladas on it.

You can't tell these are 1975 carpets until you price them.

We've just received a massive 25 truckload order of carpeting from the country's largest mills in Dalton, Georgia. It represents the final run on 1975 carpets – pattern trials, closeouts, surplus items and remnants. And they're all on sale right now, through Saturday, February 7.

So if you were unable to buy the carpeting you need before the holidays, be glad you waited. Because our volume purchase enables us to offer brand name quality carpeting at lower prices than you'd have had to pay just two months ago.

$2.69 to $6.95 per square yard

You'll find the very carpet you're looking for, for any room in your home. Shags, prints, candy stripes, confetti patterns and loops – foam-backed and jute – in a rainbow of colors!

Naturally, the lowest priced carpeting will go fast. So come in early, while the selection is greatest.

Below our regular warehouse discounts

Don't confuse this sale with Plywood Minnesota's regular low prices on carpeting, which are consistently below other outlets' sale prices. These are all on special purchase and we're passing the super savings on to you. So if you're wondering whether your old carpeting is worth cleaning one more time, you owe it to yourself to come in to your nearest Plywood Minnesota warehouse first.

Remember, the only way you can tell that your new carpeting was milled in 1975 is by the huge savings you realize right now.

Youth hockey

Jesters squirts

JESTERS 4, CAROL STREAM 0

The Jesters dominated the opponent, outshooting Carol Stream 35-14. Kabat scored a hat trick and Colacicco got the other goal. Assists went to Brunner (3), Dunne (2), Olczyk and Sterling. Whisler was in the Jester net.

JESTERS 4, ILINIWEK 2

Brunner, Budlove, Dunne, and Kabat scored goals in this penalty-ridden game which saw the Jesters outshoot the opponent 22-15. Shipbaugh was the goalie for the winners.

ARLINGTON 4, JESTERS 0

The Arlington All-Stars held the Jesters to 12 shots on goal and pulled away with three scores in the final period.

JESTERS 6, HIGHLAND PARK 3

The Jesters scored four times in the second period to wipe out a 3-1 deficit and the defense, led by Bartlett and Lunkett, took care of the rest. Jester goals were by Sterling (2), Budlove (2), Olczyk and Dunne. Sterling added two assists.

JESTERS 1, OAK PARK 1

Shipbaugh in goal led a fine defensive effort and Simon's goal assisted by Brunner gave the Jesters a tie game, despite the fact that they were outshot 24-7 by Oak Park's strong peewee team.

SPARTANS 1, JESTERS 0

The Jesters outshot the Spartan Peewees but lost the game on a first-period goal. Shipbaugh again turned in a fine job in goal.

JESTERS 5, S&C 2

The Jesters downed the Saddle and Cycle Peewees with strong backchecking and excellent goaltending by Whisler. Goals were by Olczyk (2), Simon, Budlove and Gurevitz.

JESTERS 5, SAINTS 3

Sterling and Olczyk scored twice and Kabat once as the Jesters jumped out to an early 3-0 lead and coasted home. Dunne and Brunner notched a pair of assists each and Shipbaugh and Whisler shared the net chores.

Swimming

Camp Duncan

The Camp Duncan YMCA Swim Team participated in the Chicagoland Bi-Centennial Open AAU Swim Meet this past weekend at the University of Chicago, Circle Campus, pool. Fifty-three teams and several unattached swimmers competed for the exceptionally fine individual and team trophies.

The Camp Duncan Dolphins made a fine showing, capturing the third place overall team trophy. The entire CDY team was not able to enter the AAU meet as they also had two duel meets scheduled for the same time.

Twelve Year Effort Ends With Unprecedented Flavor In Low Tar Smoke.

New 'Enriched Flavor'™ discovery for 9 mg. tar MERIT achieves taste of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

---

The greatest challenge to cigarette makers in the last two decades has been how to make a low tar cigarette that wasn't "low" in taste.

It seemed impossible.

After twelve long, hard, often frustrating years, Philip Morris has developed the way to do it.

The cigarette is called MERIT. It

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

delivers only 9 mg. of tar. One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today. Yet MERIT delivers astonishing flavor.

If you're looking to become a low tar smoker, or don't particularly enjoy the taste of the low tar brand you smoke now—you'll be interested.

Low Tar, Good Taste: Filters Fall Short

Like most everyone else, we tried to design special "low tar, good taste" filters. Special filters that would somehow allow taste through but not tar.

Like others, we experienced the same general kind of results: the lower the tar, the lower the taste.

So for flavor, we concentrated on the business end of smoking. The tobacco end.

And decided if we wanted more flavor to come through, we'd just have to find a way to start with more.

Smoke Cracked: 'Enriched Flavor' Discovery

So we began an exhaustive research program in cigarette smoke analysis and the ingredients that actually comprise cigarette taste.

By using a very sensitive instrument called an Analytical Fractometer, we were able to "crack" cigarette smoke down into its various ingredients.

We found there are over 2000 separate ingredients in smoke.

Each was isolated and analyzed, one by one.

What we discovered was startling: there are ingredients in tobacco—"key" basic flavor units—that deliver taste way out-of-proportion to tar.

Breakthrough.

By fortifying tobacco with these natural flavor essentials, we're now able to pack flavor—extraordinary flavor—into a cigarette without the usual increase in tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.' It's extra flavor. Flavor that can't burn out, can't fade out, can't do anything but come through for you.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar cigarette brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of smokers were involved. Smokers of filter cigarettes like yourself, all tested at home.*

The results were conclusive:

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly, too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now you've got the cigarette.

MERIT.

Incredible smoking pleasure at only 9 mg. tar.

A babe is born

French obstetrician believes process can be less violent

by ELEANOR RIVES

(First of two parts)

The labor is over, the contractions cease, the babe is born. His first loud squall is music to the ears of the new mother and father who laugh with delight.

The infant howls. Contorts his face. Sobs. Could this be pain? Could this be terror?

Birth for the baby is at best an abrupt process. According to some doctors, it is more than that — it is a violent experience.

Still wet from his mother's warm womb, the infant enters what must seem a freezing world. Bright lights shine blindingly into his tender eyes. His ears, conditioned through nine months to muffled sound, are assaulted with noise. His throat and lungs are seared with rushing air as he breathes for the first time. He is panic-stricken as he feels the sensation of his own weight for the first time.

SOMETIMES he is held upside down by the feet. Seized with vertigo, his body, so long folded, now painfully extends under his own weight.

Poor baby. No wonder he howls!

In his book, "Birth Without Violence" (Alfred A. Knopf, 1975), Dr. Frederick Leboyer, French obstetrician, helps the reader view the birth process through the eyes of the baby. And he demands changes in delivery room techniques to make that process less painful, less traumatic, less violent for the newborn.

His is a humanistic approach to birth.

Dim the lights once the head has emerged, maintain silence, speak in whispers. Lay the newborn across the mother's warm abdomen. Let the touch of her hands reassure the infant, calm him, convey her love to him. Let the umbilical cord continue to supply part of the baby's oxygen while his lungs gradually take over until a heart orifice automatically closes, the cord stops pulsating, and the baby is breathing on his own. No danger of lack of oxygen, no frantic convulsing to begin breathing.

Hold the baby in a warm bath — gently, tenderly — where he again encounters the pleasure of weightlessness, the same weightlessness he knew bathed in the amniotic fluid in the womb. Hold him there until his muscles relax, his little fingers unfold, he opens his eyes wide, and miraculously — he begins to explore, to kick, to play.

THESE ARE the techniques Dr. Leboyer has found so effective in delivering 1,000 babies in the past eight years. Before that he had delivered 9,000 babies the old way. In text and photographs, he shows how to replace the ugly, terrified expression on the face of the newborn baby with one of peace, even rapture. The final photograph in his book shows a newborn with an unmistakable smile on his face — and the babe is not yet 24 hours old.

CONSIDER THE NEWBORN infant a full-feeling person, not an object, pleads Dr. Frederick Leboyer, French obstetrician, in his book, "Birth Without Violence." (Illustration from title page, courtesy Alfred A. Knopf, Inc. publisher, translation copyright 1975.)

Leboyer's book has created quite a stir among mothers-to-be. Hospitals in the northwest suburbs and in Chicago report that there have been many inquiries.

"But the hospital cannot be expected to have a fixed policy about techniques of delivery," said Dr. Louis Keith of Northwestern University Medical School and Prentice Hospital. "These depend entirely on the doctor and the wishes of the mother.

"Physicians are bombarded with new techniques all the time. Leboyer's method is just one of them. His book is just one of a great number of textbooks available to medical students. Many options are available."

DR. RONALD Chudik, Alexian Medical Center obstetrician, agreed. "If a patient requests it, I am willing to go along with Leboyer methods, so long as they do not contradict my medical knowledge," he said. "But if, at any point, some procedure might be dangerous to either mother or baby, I won't do it."

He has had several inquiries about Leboyer techniques and has employed some of those techniques in one delivery. "But I don't encourage it," he said.

To Dr. Chudik, common sense demands that you have good lighting in the delivery room so the physician can see if mother and baby are doing well. He likes to see that a baby is doing well before the mother handles him, and he considers a warm incubator a better environment for the newborn than the warm bath, because of the cooling effect of evaporation when the baby is removed from the water.

"A survey of doctors in this area showed that most of them — about 75 per cent — do not favor using the Leboyer techniques completely," he said. "That is not to say that they refuse to participate. Doctors will go along with these things so long as the situation is under control. It's just basic common sense."

AT LUTHERAN General Hospital, none of the Leboyer techniques have been employed, but neonatologist Dr. Henry Mangurten, director of the high-risk nursery, had read of them in medical newsletters.

"Some things bother me," he said. "For instance, dim lights. In a hazardous pregnancy, couldn't you miss some important factor? How can you easily observe the baby's breathing pattern? I sure wouldn't want to fail to detect an abnormality."

The water bath is another cause of concern to him. Since water predisposes to bacterial infection, he suggests that the bath must be guaranteed sterile and clean. He also points out that the delivery room is a cool environment and a wet baby loses body heat very rapidly.

"Leboyer's methods do bear evaluation," said Dr. Mangurten. "We can't tune out on him; we may be missing out on something. But it's dangerous to blindly accept or reject any new methods without seeking factual information. We must make absolutely sure there are no hazards.

"I can agree with reducing the stress of birth," he added. "Yet millions of babies already born seem not to have suffered from it."

From the physician's standpoint, the value of Leboyer's technique hinges on the question, "Is it adding anything to current obstetrical care?"

A habit not easily abandoned

by ROBIN FRAMES and MARK FUERST

(Third of 10 parts)

In order to quit smoking, it's more important to know first why you smoke than why you want to give up the habit. Frequently the snap answer is an indignant "Because I like to," or "Because if I didn't I'd climb the walls."

Many ex-smokers, however, have discovered that the answer isn't that simple. Regular smokers have so woven the habit into the fabric of their lives that it is associated with nearly everything they do, from the first cup of coffee to the last nightcap, including all the pleasures and pains, achievements and failures in between. This kind of constant companion is not easily abandoned.

A successful technique recommended by the American Cancer Society (ACS) involves taking notes on when and why you smoke each cigarette and how much you really need it. The smoker asks himself, for example, if he smokes to keep from slowing down, to relieve tension or when he's already relaxed. Does he associate smoking with particular activities?

THOMAS ROSS in "You Can Quit Smoking in 14 Days" and Julius Fast, author of "How to Stop Smoking and Lose Weight," advise putting questions and answers on a sheet of paper which is wrapped around the smoker's pack of cigarettes with rubber bands. Each time he wants to smoke, he must unwrap and write down his reasons for smoking that particular cigarette.

SMOKING & YOU

June Walzer, director of the New York Cancer Society quit-smoking clinics, requires her clinic members to "wrap" in this fashion.

All smokers do not smoke for the same reasons. Honest answers on his "wrappers" will educate a smoker about his own habit and tell him where he fits in the six basic reasons for smoking: stimulation, relaxation, crutch for problems, nicotine craving, handling and habit.

One out of four smokers is the kind who is dependent or "hooked" on nicotine.

EVEN IF you are the hooked type, you may be relieved to learn that cigarettes are not addictive in the sense that a drug such as heroin is. Addictive drugs must be taken in ever increasing doses to produce the same result.

Cigarettes are different. Smoking can lead to a psychological dependence or habituation, but not a physical addiction. Nicotine is self-limiting — if you take too much, you get nicotine poisoning. Consequently the amount you smoke doesn't increase appreciably.

Giving up heroin often produces serious withdrawal symptoms that can be dangerous to a person's life. Giving up cigarettes is not dangerous.

One frequently held theory is that it's harder for women to quit than for men. It is true that an increasing number of women are smoking today, but there is no conclusive evidence that breaking the habit is easier or more difficult for them. June Walzer observes, however, that while women as a class may have started smoking later in history, they "have picked up the worst of the habit from men."

(NEXT: Step by step)

Reasons for smoking

STIMULATION — Cigarettes help you to wake up and keep on the go.

RELAXATION AND CRUTCH — These smokers range from people who like a cigarette when they're relaxed, to those who smoke to relax even though they don't really need such an aid, and finally to the crutch smoker who grabs a cigarette to ease the tensions caused by various problems.

NICOTINE CRAVING — Smoking of this type, even though it is not a real addiction, may be hard to abandon. Nevertheless it can be done. Examine smoking habits and reasons for quitting very carefully; a strong motivation helps over the rough spots. Force yourself to do without smoking for two days and the craving should begin to abate. If you fail once, keep trying.

HANDLING — Cigarettes become an easy object of the basic urge to fiddle with our hands and mouth. Remember that many other things are better than cigarettes and easy to switch to.

HABIT — A habit smoker is one who smokes absentmindedly, finds himself lighting up when he doesn't really want the cigarette, and sometimes discovers two or three cigarettes burning in his ash tray. He also tends to smoke at the same time of day, after coffee or with a drink.

Divorce insurance? A question worth pondering

Women and children first

by Julie Martoccio

Q. Is there such a thing as divorce insurance? Your thoughts on this, please.—A.R.

A. Not to my knowledge. The topic pops up frequently and makes a great subject for heated debate. Is it possible? Who is to say? Like so many situations we face today, the impossible becomes the improbable, but before you know it, it's already happened! That's why a person who scoffs or says "dream on" may find herself eating her own words and it may well be that I am the one who will have to do it.

I have some pretty strong opinions about rushing into law everything that requires personal moral responsibility, and that goes for divorce insurance, too. Still, here are some pros and cons on the question that you might ponder.

THE PROS SAY that the person who supports the family usually provides some kind of insurance in order to protect those in the family he wishes to protect in case something happens to him. Life and disability insurance are the answer to some of the problems, but not all. Divorce insurance, they say, would do away with the disparity between the financial status of the rich and the poor man in a divorce action where alimony and support are concerned. Unless the divorced party is a man of considerable means, he is often unable to maintain two households.

Countering the arguments, the cons say that problem is quickly disappearing because a woman is now able to support herself financially and after a divorce she no longer wants the "helpless female" role but wishes to feel completely unattached in every respect, including the financial support from her former husband.

WHAT ABOUT children? the pros ask. Shouldn't they be protected?

Cons answer that if the divorce never takes place, the father has needlessly set aside for the future what might be of present benefit to the child. It's another form of saving money, but it's based on a slim contingency in the future.

Pros say it's a good idea to think and plan all this before the honeymoon sets in. But that's answered with the comment that if it happens, there simply won't be a honeymoon. It's no way to start a marriage when the whole idea of marriage is its permanence.

Dreamy sentiment! pros respond. What about a healthy man who takes out insurance? Does he actually like to think of himself as crippled, helpless or in the other world, if he thinks about it at all? His main concern is to provide for his dependents.

ON SEVERAL occasions I've heard some proposals that I'm certain a campaigning politician wouldn't include in his platform. Still, who knows? May it not happen that a government agency might set up a compulsory divorce insurance?

Suggestions have been made that it could be set up like Social Security. But the opposition questions, "Would spouses with solid, permanent ties be willing to help carry the expense that would come with divorce problems belonging to other persons?"

One of the more feasible (in my opinion) suggestions, which really isn't divorce insurance, came from a gentleman who thought it best that a voluntary trust be set up by a husband for his wife and children with the possibility of having the government provide a tax deduction and make earnings tax-exempt up to a certain point (in order to discourage a wealthy man from seeking a possible tax shelter).

UNDER THIS PLAN the money would belong to the wife automatically in the event of a divorce after a specified number of years. He figured that with annual earnings of 6 per cent, which would be automatically reinvested, a $5,000 trust fund for the wife would be worth approximately $18,000 in 20 years.

In the event of death, the money would be part of the husband's estate. Also, funds from the trust could be set aside for the children's education. If, the couple lived happily ever after, the fund could be used for their retirement.

The biggest problem with divorce insurance would probably center around an actuary. This would call for the skills of psychologists and sociologists — and the critics even throw in "bookmaker" — to figure what are the odds on a marriage's ability to make it to the home stretch.

Very interesting. Isn't it?

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Skin ulcers formed by lack of oxygen

Is there anything that will heal an open ulcerated varicose sore on the leg? Also what causes this? Is it hereditary?

The skin breaks down and an ulcer forms because the area is not getting enough oxygen. The dilated varicose vein allows blood to stagnate in the tissues. Since the stagnant venous blood contains only a little oxygen, and swelling interferes with the movement of oxygenated blood into the area, the tissues lack oxygen. We call this "stagnant hypoxia."

The cause of the ulcer then, is the poor venous circulation caused by the dilated varicose veins. The treatment is directed toward preventing of pooling of stagnant venous blood. Such an ulcer would heal if you could stay in bed with the foot up so no blood would pool in the foot, but that is not very practical in most cases. The ulcer would recur when you got up.

Various pressure garments are often useful to help prevent pooling of blood and swelling. In many cases, surgery is necessary to remove, or at least improve, the situation with the varicose veins.

There is a familial tendency to have vericose veins. Even so, you can do things that help prevent them. That includes avoiding constricting garments particularly around the thigh, using support hose if your occupation requires long hours of standing and getting off your feet when you can.

For more information on varicose veins send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 5-8, Varicose Veins. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Suburban Living, Po. O. Box 326, San Antonio, Tex. 78292.

I have an inactive thyroid and have taken three grains of thyroid for a number of years. My doctor just finished giving me the thyroid scan and the test shows my thyroid is still inactive and he has increased the thyroid.

I would like to know if thre is anything that would make my thyroid active again or do I have to take pills the rest of my life?

I have a weight problem so I have to diet all the time and I am terribly sluggish.

After a person has been taking thyroid in large amounts for a long time, the thyroid often remains relatively inactive. Occasionally by using hormone preparations that activate the thyroid it can be stimulated. The thyroid is normally stimulated to action by a hormone (thyrotropic hormone) from the small pituitary gland under the brain.

Some patients do better on one thyroid preparation than on another. Your doctor may decide in time, depending on your response, to try one of the synthetic hormones.

Usually it is possible to provide enough of the most suitable hormones to totally replace the function of the thyroid gland. When that is achieved, any sluggishness and weight problems caused by a low thyroid function can be controlled. Not all sluggishness and weight problems are caused by low thyroid function, though.

Broccoli salad good summer or winter

Dear Dorothy: You've got the best recipes of anybody I know. Can you help out on a new kind of vegetable mold? Any kind. — Lucy D'Antonio

How about a molded broccoli salad? Not only is it delicious, but it can be used summer or winter and takes the place of a green salad.

Mix together the following ingredients: Two packages of frozen, chopped broccoli, one can of beef bouillon, two envelopes of plain gelatin, three chopped hard-cooked eggs, the juice of one lemon, two tablespoons of Worcestershire sauce, a dash of Tabasco and one cup of mayonnaise. This makes 12 four-ounce molds.

Chill and then unmold on bibb lettuce with a blob of dressing made of a cup of sour cream and four tablespoons of horseradish.

Dear Dorothy: One day while battling with the plastic wrap in trying to cover a large turkey, I gave up and reached for a box of plastic bags — the size that fits small wastebaskets. The bird and platter slid right into the bag and the twist tie kept it securely covered in the refrigerator. This trick is now a great help when preparing for company — like preparing a salad bowl and storing it until needed. — Liz McFadden

Dear Dorothy: Here's a tip for those who occasionally have trouble downing a pill. I had to take a pencillin pill and the taste was gagging me. A close friend, who is a former nurse, solved it. She crushed the pill between two spoons and then stuffed the granules into a piece of banana. —Julia Sidney

Celebrating the Chinese New Year

You say you've broken your New Year's resolutions already?

Don't worry, there's another opportunity to start anew coming up soon. It's the Chinese New Year, which falls this year on Jan. 31 and begins Year 4674 of the ancient Chinese calendar.

The Chinese lunar calendar is divided into 12 months of either 29 or 30 days, with an extra month added every 30 months to adjust the calendar. The date for New Year's is based on various phases of the moon.

Each new year carries one of 12 animal designations — serpent, horse, monkey, rooster, or whatever. This Lunar New Year inaugurates the Year of the Dragon.

BEFORE THE Communists took over, the Lunar New Year was the most widely observed festival in China. And it is still celebrated wherever there are Chinese families.

As Emily Hahn describes the traditional observance in her book, "The Cooking of China," the New Year's ceremonies were primarily the responsibility of the men. Everybody sat up to welcome the dawn of the new year's first day. Firecrackers were set off to frighten away demons, and often the doors of the house were locked and sealed.

At 5 a.m., the master of the house unlocked the doors and removed the seals. Opening the Gate to Fortune was then celebrated with more popping of firecrackers, bowing to ancestral tablets, burning of incense and other observances.

THE CHINESE New Year is traditionally the time for a great family reunion. Children come home from near or far, and everybody pays respects to the elders and to the ancestors. There are new clothes, a great giving of gifts, and, of course, feasting. Friends call to wish the family contentment, prosperity and long life.

Before the big event, everybody is supposed to pay all debts. Everybody is also supposed to settle family quarrels and disagreements, so that the New Year is greeted in a state of amiability.

Preliminaries also include a vast amount of cooking and food preparation, since nobody is supposed to use knives, cleavers, scissors or other cutting implements during the holiday.

One of the most interesting customs of the Lunar New Year is the departure and return of Tsao Wang, the kitchen god.

TSAO WANG is usually represented in the form of a colored picture and hangs in a shrine in the kitchen. But he is not so much a cooking critic as a kind of guardian of general morals.

Tsao Wang is supposed to return to heaven at the end of each year to report on the family's conduct. It's customary to smear his lips with honey, so that he will report only sweet things about the family. Others rub his lips with wine, so that he will arrive in heaven all happy and relaxed, and thus give a favorable report.

Traditionally, the kitchen god returns to the house each New Year. And the New Year's celebration always includes a sumptuous feast, not only to greet the kitchen god and welcome him back, but also for the enjoyment of family and friends.

WITH ALL THE fast-growing interest in Chinese food, the Lunar New Year makes a good occasion to treat your family and friends to an Oriental feast.

Speaking of…

by Kay Marsh

You might want to check any one of a number of excellent books for recipes, and try your hand at real Chinese cooking. Or you can use the frozen and canned Chinese specialties available in most supermarkets.

In any event, do use the date for a bit of fun and festivity in a generally dull lull of a bleak month. At the very least, pick up a box of Chinese fortune cookies for Jan. 31. And hope your fortune is a favorable one — with best wishes for a 'Happy Lunar New Year" to you and yours.

Officers elected

Palatine Chapter of The American Association of Retired Persons No. 2228 has elected the following officers and Board of Directors: Harry V. Ralph, president; Anthony Stark, vice president; Sara B. Kohring, secretary; Lee J. Boston, treasurer. Raymond A. Chuipek is retiring president.

New DAR unit forming

Sarah's Grove, a new chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution will be organized this Friday with the state organizing secretary, Mrs. Fredrick Barber, presiding. A phone call placed to national headquarters in Washington, D.C. will verify the new chapter. Luncheon and a business meeting will follow.

The new chapter derives its name from early Schaumburg history. Prior to being called Schaumburg, the settlement was called Sarah's Grove, and legend has it that there were seven families of Anglo-American settlers in the area, each with a Sarah in its household.

Sarah's Grove is located on Schaumburg Road just west of Roselle Road.

The new regent, Mrs. Harold George, invites those eligible for membership in DAR to call her at 894-0178. Charter membership will be open for one year.

Happenings

Taste and tell

Far Acres Chapter Women's American ORT will stage its second annual Taste and Tell luncheon Sunday. The luncheon will be held in the Buffalo Grove High School cafeteria at 12:30 p.m. with a fashion show following. Cook books with recipes served at the luncheon will be sold.

A boutique, opening at 11:30 a.m. and closing at 4, will also be featured. Donation is $3. Information 398-2875.

Ask Andy

Fruit fly — a sneaky little critter

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Glenn E. Askey, 13, of Williamsport, Pa., for his question:

WHERE DO FRUIT FLIES COME FROM?

We are told that all living things come from parents like themselves. But there are times when an ordinary person finds this scientific statement hard to swallow. For instance, we may leave a half-eaten apple on the table when there are no flies in sight, the doors and windows are screened. Yet, in a short while, our apple is infested with a swarm of fruit flies. We wonder where they came from.

There is the Oriental fruit fly, the Mexican fruit fly, the Mediterranean fruit fly — plus dozens of others, both native and imported species. All of them are genuine flies of the insect order Diptera, a name which refers to their two gauzy little wings. Their life cycle develops through four stages — which accounts for their sudden arrival from nowhere.

The average adult fruit fly is a colorful creature, less than a quarter of an inch long. The life cycle begins when the female lays her mini white eggs where the hatching larvae will find plenty of their favorite food. This is sure to be some kind of fruit, and each species has its own preference. Some attack apples; others infest cherries or oranges. Almost every type of fruit has its personal fruit fly enemy.

Unless your eyes are very sharp, you are not likely to spot a batch of fruit fly eggs nestled inside a juicy peach. The little white maggots are not easy to spot, either. Though you might happen to notice the quiet little pupae because usually they are a brownish color. In any case, these early stages of the fruit fly's life often go undetected.

The wretched critters become visible when the pupae hatch and take to the air as winged insects. This is when we wonder where in the world fruit flies come from. The fact is, they were disguised as eggs, maggoty larvae and pupae — cunningly concealed inside their favorite fruit.

During the summer, the life cycle of a fruit fly is completed in about two weeks. This means that many generations erupt and infest our orchards. For generations, growers have used various insecticides to keep these pests under control. However, some of the chemicals may be harmful to other living things. Growers now are turning to other methods of fruit fly control. In some cases, insect-eating wasps and other fruit fly predators have been encouraged.

Perhaps the most up to date method of fruit fly control involves releasing millions more fruit flies into infested orchards. This sounds ridiculous. But these extras are sterile male flies. When they mate with the females, there will be no fruitful offspring — and the fruit fly population explosions should be brought under control.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Mike Boeger, 10, of Hermann, Mo., for his question:

WHAT IS BEYOND PLUTO?

Little Pluto is way out there, pedaling around near the outside edge of the solar system. Its average distance from the sun is about 3.670 million miles, and all the planets are separated by many millions of miles. To us the solar system seems enormous. Actually, it's a very small item in the starry heavens. When we travel out beyond Pluto, we dip our toes into the vast ocean of outer space.

If we travel for about 26 million-million miles in the right direction, we reach the star nearest to our sun. In a different direction we must travel twice as far to reach the next nearest star. And all the stars we see are part of the huge Milky Way galaxy. It has 100 billion stars. Way out beyond our galaxy there are millions of other starry galaxies. And nobody knows where it all ends.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and address to Ask Andy in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 680, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

TV Telephone

by Ed Landwehr

I see that the video telephone experiment out east is fizzling out. Of course, the cost was tremendous, and this probably was the big obstacle. But, when you think about it, many businesses should make profitable use of it in demonstrating their products over the phone.

They used a portable TV receiver in conjunction with the phone, but better equipment could easily be designed so it would be a practical home appliance. I'm thinking that they had better have an open and shut switch on the screen as you can imagine some of the surprise home views this could unexpectedly beam out. And how about all those telephone "kooks?"

If this idea ever gets going, the local electronic phone number 255-0700 could be used very well. You would just beam us your TV picture on the phone, and we'd give you an analysis of the trouble. But meanwhile, remember Landwehr's TV & Appliance Center, 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights does pretty good with your verbal questions now.

'Dumpling' lovers debut tonight

by JOAN HANAUER

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Can Geraldine Brooks find love and romance at 145 and even beyond? She can on "The Dumplings," the story of a pair of overweight lovers who run a New York City luncheonette.

When she and hubbie James Coco pat each other on their well-padded bottoms, a customer at the counter says, "Absolutely sickening. Somebody ought to notify the Board of Health."

You have to admire a show that will take a chance with a line like that.

"The Dumplings" represents the Norman Lear office's first production for NBC and it airs today from 8:30 to 9 p.m.

THE HALF-HOUR SHOW has been billed as a departure for Lear, whose characters have a tendency to bark at each other — and sometimes bite.

Coco and Brooks between them couldn't raise a growl. They love one another, romantically, passionately, so that they celebrate such events as the anniversary of the day they almost didn't meet.

Any sarcasm must come from the customers at the luncheonette, who range from rich regulars from the midtown Manhattan office building where the restaurant is located, to drop-in trade off the street.

ONE OF NORMAN Lear's trademarks is shouting, and while the Dumplings would rather make love than war, the decibel count goes up when they get home and her neurotic sister, Stephanie, drops in.

Marcia Rodd is Stephanie, and she's a delight to watch as a beautiful woman who has been through psychiatry to find herself, zen to find peace, meditation to find her navel, but still can't find a way to say no to marriage proposals from the Dumplings' landlord, a crooked city councilman played by Fred Furth.

The Dumplings exchange occasional sharp lines, as when Geraldine Brooks calls a customer "Honey" and Coco objects.

"He called me sweetheart. What should I call him?" she asks her husband.

"Pervert would be nice," Coco replies.

Sometimes a weak distributional overcall really pays off.

We have given North and South exactly the same cards as they held yesterday but have changed East and West a trifle. Specifically, we have given East the king of spades and West the king of clubs.

East and West can still make four hearts because there are singletons in each of the black suits, but when South gets doubled at four spades he has a real ball.

East takes his ace of hearts, looks over dummy and lays down the ace of diamonds. Diamonds are continued.

South ruffs, enters dummy by ruffing a heart. Takes a trump finesse, picks up the last trump, takes a club finesse and winds up making four spades plus an overtrick.

Just think! If South had sat back and passed he would have lost 620 points instead of gaining 790.

Of course, West didn't have to double. East and West might continue to five hearts — down one, but in any event the overcall took their game and rubber away from them.

John Fanella, computer.

There's a "device" in this room that's equipped with an immense memory bank that can receive customer complaints, sort through a maze of lines and cables, then send a crew to the trouble spot, all in a matter of minutes. That's him in the striped shirt.

His name is John Fanella and he's one of the many Edison dispatchers who are ready for action 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Because when there's an emergency, it's the dispatcher who gets the call. He's the man who uses raw information and his powers of deduction to estimate where, along the thousands of miles of overhead lines and underground cable, the problem lies. He's the man who then sends out the emergency crews to track it down and solve it. And because electricity is so vital to the welfare of a city, he must do all this with computer-like efficiency — whether the problem is an overloaded transformer or a tornado.

John Fanella has been through storms so bad that emergency crews had to be called in from as far away as Colorado. He's worked through the night restoring electricity to a factory so people could go back to work in the morning. He's even sent out a man to rescue a pet cat stranded on a pole.

In a day when some companies rely heavily on the impersonal response of a computer, we're glad to have John and our other dispatchers. As he puts it. "I have the highest respect for this department and our people. They're the most dedicated people I've ever met. But you've got to be dedicated to be in this business."

Dow falls to 957.81

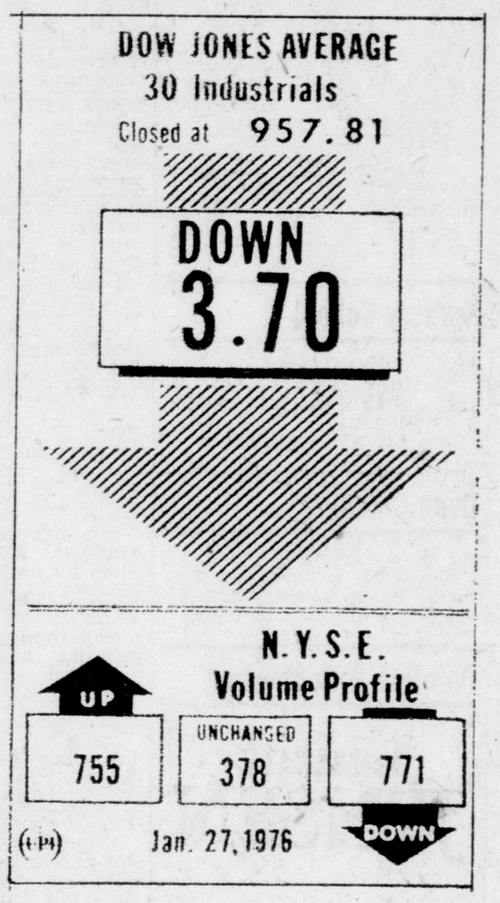
Stock market succumbs to pressures for selling



NEW YORK (UPI) — Winded from its strong new year rally, the stock market succumbed to profit-taking pressures Tuesday and closed lower in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said some late selling was triggered by a House vote to override President Ford's veto of a $45 billion appropriations bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

"He's going to have a tough time keeping a lid on spending," one observer said.

THE DOW JONES industrial average, which had been off four points at the outset and up five in the early afternoon, fell 3.70 points to 957.81, only its fifth loss of the year. The blue-chip average, a 7.56-point winner Monday, had climbed 109 points through the first 17 sessions of the new year.

Other averages also suffered in the late selling. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 0.61 to 99.07, and the average price of an NYSE common share decreased by 19 cents.

Among the 1,904 issues crossing the tape, 771 declined, 755 advanced and 378 remained unchanged.

Volume totaled 32,070,000 shares, down from the 34,470,000 traded Monday, the fifth busiest day in NYSE history. It was the 11th 30-million-share day this year and the 19th in NYSE history. Volume this month has totaled more than 535 million shares, a record.

"THE MARKET'S just winded after racing uphill for three weeks," said Newton Zinder, vice president of E. F. Hutton & Co. "You've got to expect some selling after a run like that."

Citicorp led the Big Board actives, up 5/8 to 30¼ on 517,700 shares, including a block of 110,000 shares at 30¾. UAL Inc. followed, off 1½ to 26 on 410,200 shares, including a block of 350,000 shares at 26. International Telephone & Telegraph was third, up ¼ to 27½ on 313,900 shares.

Prices closed higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased two cents. Volume totaled 3,480,000 shares, compared with 4,210,000 traded Monday.

Insurance bias hearings slated

The public is invited to participate in hearings slated by the Illinois Dept. of Insurance on a proposed rule to eliminate discrimination against women and singles in the life and health insurance business.

The hearings are slated today in Springfield at the Illinois Building, State Fairgrounds and Feb. 3 at the State of Illinois Building, 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago. The hearings start at 10 a.m.

The new regulation, announced by Robert Wilcox, department director, would be effective March 1.

FREE LESSONS

When you try a KARNES PAINO or ORGAN in your home BEFORE YOU BUY!

Unique RENTAL & LESSONS PLAN
Eliminates RISK!

If you have delayed buying a piano or organ for your family because you are afraid the intended benefactors won't "take" to the instrument, KARNES MUSIC CO., the area's oldest (over 48 years) and largest supplier of musical instruments to educational institutions has the answer.

1) RENT the instrument of your choice. KARNES has 100's of top brands of pianos and organs. New ones, rental returns, studio used, trade-ins.

2) FREE ORGAN LESSONS by professionals are available to ALL MEMBERS OF YOUR FAMILY. Your piano student also gets free lessons.

3) If enjoyment and success dictate, you may then decide to buy WITH ALL RENTAL FEES APPLIED TO REDUCE YOUR PURCHASE PRICE.

4) One low monthly rental fee, WITHOUT INTEREST, WITHOUT DELIVERY CHARGES, WITHOUT LESSON CHARGES, AND WITH FREE SERVICE by factory-trained, experienced experts IS ALL YOU NEED.

For further information on this unique plan call one of the 7 experienced counselors at KARNES or come in. They will help you choose the correct instrument for trial. They will also explain the ease with which your family can become a member of KARNES' vast world of delighted music makers.

Isn't this the kind of risk-free plan you've been looking for to liberate the musical potential that lies within your own family?

Public Notice

PROPOSED HIGHWAY PROJECT
REQUEST FOR DESIGN APPROVAL

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to all interested persons that Design Approval for the improvement of portions of Arlington Heights, Rand, Palatine and Hintz Roads has been requested from the Federal Highway Administration.

The approximate limits of this improvement are: on Arlington Heights Road from Lillian Avenue to University drive; on Palatine Road from a point west of Highland Avenue to a point east of Burke Drive; on Rand Road from approximately Chestnut Avenue to a point approximately 1200 feet southeast of Palatine Road; and on Hintz Road from a point 400 feet west of Arlington Heights Road to a point 100 feet east of Vista Road.

The improvement will consist of widening of Arlington Heights Road from its existing 2-lane and variable width pavement to a 4-lane roadway separated by a 16-foot mountable median. Palatine and Rand Roads in the project area will be widened from their existing four lane cross sections to three travel lanes in each direction separated by variable width medians. Hintz Road will be widened as necessary to effect a permanent improvement of its intersection with Arlington Heights Road. Vail Avenue is proposed to be cul-de-saced as its intersection with Palatine Road.

The proposed improvement will also include construction of new pavement, median channelization, concrete curb and gutter, new traffic and school crossing signals, sidewalk, drainage structures and appurtenances, highway lighting, and all other work necessary to complete the improvements in accordance with approved plans and specifications.

Acquisition of right-of-way in some areas will be required for the improvement. An Environmental Assessment Report approved by the Federal Highway Administration, as well as maps, drawings, and other information developed by the Village of Arlington Heights in conjunction with this project, and any written views received as a result of coordination with other agencies are available for public inspection and copying at the Municipal Building, 33 South Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heights, Illinois, on Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 p.m., and from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Information is also available by telephone at the Village of Arlington Heights Engineering Department at 253-2340 during the same hours.

Ordinance No. 1403

(An Ordinance Authorizing the Issuance of Tax Anticipation Warrants in Anticipation of Taxes Levied for the Year 1975)

WHEREAS, the Illinois Municipal Code (Ill. Rev. Stat., Ch. 24, Secs. 8-1-11 and 8-1-12) permits a municipality to issue and sell warrants in anticipation of taxes already levied for the paticular funds from which the expenses and liabilities will be paid, and

WHEREAS, there is not sufficient money in the Treasury of this Village to meet and defray the necessary expenses of government, and

WHEREAS, the corporate authorities deem it advisable, necessary and for the best interest of this Village that funds be borrowed for the purpose of meeting and defraying the necessary expenses of the Village and in evidence thereof to issue its tax anticipation warrants in anticipation of the taxes of the Village for General Corporate Purposes levied for the year 1975.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Wheeling, County of Cook and State of Illinois, as follows:

SECTION 1.

That money be borrowed from time to time, as needed, to meet and defray the necessary expenses of this Village against and in anticipation of the collection of the tax levy, for the year 1975 for General Corporate Purposes, said warrants to bear interest not to exceed seven per cent (7%) per annum, from their date until paid or until notice shall be given by publication in a newspaper or otherwise that the money for their payment is available and will be paid on presentation, such warrants to show upon their face that they are payable in the numerical order of their issue and solely from such taxes when collected, and shall be received by any collector of taxes in payment of the tax against which they are issued. Said warrants shall not be issued in excess of seventy-five per cent (75%) of the total amount of the tax so levied, which said tax is hereby assigned and pledged to the payment of said warrants, and such taxes when collected shall be set apart and held for their payment.

SECTION 2. That said warrants shall be in substantially the following form:

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
STATE OF ILLINOIS COUNTY OF COOK
TAX ANTICIPATION WARRANT
GENERAL CORPORATE PURPOSE
NO. 1-75-76 $100,000.00

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, that the Village of Wheeling, in the County of Cook and State of Illinois, will pay to bearer at the office of the Village Treasurer, in the Village of Wheeling, Illinois, the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000.00) with interest thereon at the rate of four & three quarters percent (4¾%) per annum from date hereof until paid or until notice shall be given, by publication in a newspaper or otherwise, that the money for its payment is available and that it will be paid on presentation.

Principal hereof and interest hereon will be paid in lawful money of the United States of America from the proceeds, when received, of taxes, heretofore levied upon all the taxable property in the Village of Wheeling for the year 1975 for General Corporate Purposes.

This warrant is issued in anticipation of said taxes so levied for the year 1975 for General Corporate Purposes to provide a fund to meet and defray the ordinary and necessary expenses of the Village of Wheeling and both principal and interest are payable solely from said taxes when collected and not otherwise, which taxes are hereby assigned and pledged to the payment of this warrant and of all warrants issued against and in anticipation of such taxes, the total of which warrants so issued does not exceed seventy-five percent (75%) of tax levy made therefor and shall be received by any collector of taxes in payment of the tax against which it is issued.

This warrant and all other warrants issued in anticipation of the collection of the 1975 General Corporate Purpose Tax are payable in the numerical order of their issuance.

IT IS HEREBY CERTIFIED that all acts, conditions and things required by law to be done precedent to and in the issuance thereof have been properly done, have happened and have been performed as authorized by the Ordinances of said Village adopted pursuant to the applicable provisions of the Illinois Municipal Code and all laws amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, the Village of Wheeling, by its President and Board of Trustees, has caused its corporate seal to be hereto affixed and this warrant to be signed by its President, attested by its Clerk and countersigned by its Treasurer, as of the day of January, 1976.

Legal Notice

NOTICE
ANNEXATION OF TERRITORY TO THE METROPOLITAN SANITARY DISTRICT OF GREATER CHICAGO

To the voters of the Village of Palatine, Cook County, State of Illinois, residing in the area hereinafter specifically described, pursuant to Article 1 of "An Act to enlarge the corporate limits of The Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago" enacted by the 79th General Assembly of the State of Illinois as Senate Bill 66 and approved on December 18, 1975, as Public Act 79-1143, notice is hereby given to the voters of the territory and tracts of land situated in the Village of Palatine, County of Cook, State of Illinois, hereinafter described as follows:

The North 400 feet of the East 550 feet as measured on the East and North lines thereof, of the West half of the North West quarter of Section 33, Township 42 North, Range 10 East of the Third Principal Meridian, in Cook County, Illinois

That said voters have 30 days from January 28, 1976 within which to file a petition with the Clerk of The Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, 100 East Erie Street, Chicago, Illinois, 60611, praying that the question of the adoption of this Act (passed by the 79th Illinois General Assembly, approved December 18, 1975) providing for the extension of the corporate limits of The Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, to embrace and include within The Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, the territory and tract of land situated in the County of Cook and State of Illinois hereinabove described, be submitted to a vote of the electors of said territory, and that, if no such petition is filed, the described territory will become a part of The Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago.

If such petition, signed by not less than 10% of the legal voters within the above described territory, praying that the question of the adoption of Article 1 of said Act be submitted to a vote of the electors of said territory shall be filed with the Clerk of said Sanitary District, then and in such case the question of the adoption of said Article 1 shall be submitted to a vote of the electors, as in said petition prayed, at any general or municipal election held after the adoption of said Act, and in such case, said Article 1 shall not be in force unless a majority of the votes cast at said election upon the question of the adoption of said Article 1 shall be in favor of the adoption thereof.

In case a petition is filed, it shall be the duty of the election officers having charge of the preparation of the ballots and the giving of the notices of election and the counting and canvassing and making returns of the ballots, to take all necessary steps and do all necessary acts to cause the said question of the adoption of said Article 1 to be submitted to a vote as hereinabove provided, and to cause the results of such election to be canvassed and certified as provided by law in similar cases.

New village rail depot to debut in fall

by JOE SWICKARD

A new commuter railroad station will be built in downtown Arlington Heights by next fall.

Construction of the new station is expected to begin in June, said Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson, and should be completed by fall.

Estimates of the station's cost are $130,000 to $150,000, Hanson said. Funding will be through a grant from the division of public transportation of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation.

Rollins Coakley, Chicago and North Western Ry. manager of commuter services, said the new station will be on the site of the present one.

THE ARLINGTON HEIGHTS stop is the busiest station on the railway's commuter lines. It draws riders from Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights.

The new station is part of a replacement and rehabilitation program the railway is undertaking with the department of transportation grant. Stations in Evanston, Lombard, Lake Bluff and Wheaton will benefit from the program, Coakley said.

The rate of the present station is still undetermined. Coakley said it is unknown whether it will be razed or moved to another location.

THE PRESENT station would be removed, at least partially, before construction of the new facility could begin, Coakley said. He said part of the present building might be retained as a shelter until the new station is completed.

No architect for the station has been selected, but Hanson said he would not favor a building like the station at Arlington Park Race Track.

"Because it is in the heart of the community, I wouldn't want to see a rectangular, flat-roof building. It should reflect the town, something along colonial lines," Hanson said.

He said the new station should blend in with the central business district, especially with plans now being discussed to improve and beautify the downtown area.

ONE PLAN under consideration calls for construction of a shopping mall on Campbell and Davis streets near the station.

Coakley said discussions between

Boy, 12, pleads guilty in school vandalism spree

A 12-year-old boy pleaded guilty to a burglary charge Wednesday in connection with a $25,000 vandalism spree last month at Gregory School in Mount Prospect.

The youth entered his plea during an appearance in the Niles branch of Juvenile Court and was scheduled to return for sentencing March 17.

Two other youths, ages 13 and 14, are facing similar charges in connection with the Gregory School vandalism. The pair also is charged for damage made at Dunton School, 1200 S. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights.

Officials have estimated total damage at the two schools was nearly $100,000.

The two older youths, also in court Wednesday, did not enter pleas and had their cases continued until March 3.

The three youngsters were arrested Dec. 29 after Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights police traced their identities through information supplied by students at Gregory and Dunton schools.

In the attacks, windows and desks were smashed while office equipment, bookcases and other furniture were damaged.

Major clean up operations by school officials, parents and students were required after the attacks.

GRANDPA DAHLGREN, as he is called by his small fry friends, is a frequent visitor at Westgate School. Harold Dahlgren is a volunteer at the school, and he is now constructing a scale model of the Mayflower in observance of the Bicentennial. Working with him are second and third grade students, from left, Scott Augustine, Tom Coonen, Lynn Corrigan and Chris Rohde.

'Extra set of eyes, ears for police'

Home radios to aid in crime fight

by JOE SWICKARD

The Arlington Heights Police Dept. will be starting a citizens radio network to combat vandalism and home burglaries.

The program, Neighborhood Watch, will place police radio units within neighborhoods for a direct link to the police communications center or a patrol car.

"This can be a constant, on-going program for the prevention of crime. The residents can be an extra set of eyes and ears for the police," said Capt. Maurice English.

NEIGHBORHOOD WATCH would work in conjunction with the village auxiliary police to report suspicious activities or persons. English said the program will involve about 25 to 30 "watchers."

Persons selected for the program will undergo about eight hours of training by police personnel, English said. The volunteers would be available in case of natural disasters or emergencies, he said, in addition to vandalism prevention.

He said persons living near schools, churches and parks would be the most helpful in the proposed program.

The use of portable radios will give the program flexibility, English said.

"If one area of town suddenly starts having a rash of vandalism or burglaries, we can put more radios into that area quickly," he said.

HE SAID THE program would not be costly to implement. The police department has new radios already on order and training would be handled within the department, he said.

He said the program could begin as soon as the new equipment is available.

Chief L. W. Calderwood said the Neighborhood Watchers would not be given any arrest authority .He said the department is not setting up a vigilante group or ex-officio posse.

"We have to get the citizens concerned. We want to involve them so we can serve them better," said English.

He said the $100,000 Christmas week rampage at two local schools was only one part of the village vandalism problem. He said 33 other schools were damaged last year.

"We'VE ALWAYS HAD a problem, but now it's getting worse," he said.

Calderwood said the Neighborhood Watch would work with a village vandalism commission now being set up to study the situation and possible solutions.

As another aspect of using citizens, Calderwood said the police will begin to monitor citizen band radio traffic.

"We will be monitoring the emergency channel of CBs very soon. We are missing a great deal now by not using it. We won't broadcast on it because it is too congested already," Calderwood said.

The CB emergency channel (9) is used by motorists to report accidents and other emergency situations.

Calderwood said the CB monitoring program should be in operation within two months.

The Neighborhood Watch program will be seeking volunteers. English said the recruitment will begin after the new radios are in operation.

Meter thefts cost village $300

Arlington Heights police are investigating a series of thefts from parking meters in the downtown area during the last week. The village has lost more than $300.

The latest incidents were reported Wednesday morning after village employes discovered $2 in coins had been taken from two parking meters near Vail Avenue and Eastman Stree. Damage to the meters was estimated at $32.

On Tuesday, employes reported thieves had rifled numerous parking meters, stealing about $283, police said. Money was taken from all-day meters northwest of Northwest Highway and Arlington Heights Road.

Thieves pried open two parking meters, taking $3, police were told Jan. 22. The meters are located at the 100 block of W. Eastman Street and at Dunton Avenue and St. James Street. Estimated repair costs were about $16, police reported.

Press barred from Patty jury selection

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Acting at the request of the defense, a federal judge Wednesday barred the press and questioned prospective jurors at the Patricia Hearst trial in a sealed courtroom.

U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter ruled that reporters should be excluded while he asks possible jurors about any personal bias they might have concerning the bizarre kidnap-bank robbery case that could prevent them from serving impartially.

By the end of Wednesday's sessions, Carter had interrogated seven men and women out of a bloc of 36 who had cleared preliminary hurdles.

The judge gave tentative approval to four of the seven and excused three others for reasons unknown since the press was locked out of the chamber adjoining the main courtroom.

Carter was to proceed in the same fashion Thursday. Questioning was taking such a lengthy time that it appeared doubtful whether 12 regular jurors and four alternates could be approved earlier than Friday.

Defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey. who successfully protested that reporters should be kept out until the final jury is sequestered, said the court intended to continue the remainder of the interrogation in private.

The only persons present in the sealed courtroom were the 21-year-old heiress, her parents and sister, Bailey's wife, defense and prosecution attorneys and court personnel.

One of those panel members dismissed, Mrs. Wilma F. Brookhauser, indicated that she was questioned about whether Miss Hearst participated in her own kidnaping, and she said she told the judge she had suspicions that the defendant either helped plan it or had advance knowledge of it.

She also said she felt she was probably prejudiced against Miss Hearst after seeing photographs of her standing with a gun in the lobby of the bank she is accused of robbing.

"Reflecting about it, I thought what a shame — such a pretty girl and such an opportunity she had," Mrs. Brookhauser said.

It was a motion by Bailey that led Carter to reverse his plans to permit reporters to move into the second courtroom.

Bailey argued that it was unwise to have the questions and replies of the jurors printed and broadcast before the final panel is sequestered for the trial, expected now to last five weeks or more.

Outside the courtroom, Bailey said: "It doesn't make much sense to questin them in private if you guys are telling them what they aren't supposed to hear."

The government raised no objec-

Kolerus, Anderson in bid for Fulle post

Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor and Wayne Anderson, Des Plaines attorney, are among leading candidates being considered to succeed Floyd Fulle on the Cook County Board. The five Republican county board commissioners will interview candidates today and Friday for the post which became vacant last month when Fulle was sentenced to prison for his conviction on federal extortion and income tax evasion charges. Other serious contenders for the post include Deputy State's Atty. Sheldon Gardner; State Sen. Terrel Clarke, R-Western Springs; and two Regional Transportation Authority board members, Joseph Tecson of Riverside and Daniel Baldino of Evanston. The GOP commissioners, from all suburban areas, have indicated a selection may be made next week.

New rail station for Arlington

A new commuter train station is scheduled to be built in downtown Arlington Heights this summer. Construction of the new station, expected to cost between $130,000 and $150,000, will begin in June and will be completed by fall, Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said. The project will be funded by the federal government and will be constructed on the site of the present station. The Arlington Heights stop is the busiest station on the Chicago and North Western Ry. commuter lines.

Citizens' network to curb crime

A citizens' radio network, designed to curb vandalism and burglaries, is planned for Arlington Heights. The program, Neighborhood Watch, will place police radio units within neighborhoods for a direct link to the police communications center and patrol cars. Chief L. W. Calderwood said Neighborhood Watch will not be a vigilante group and residents participating in the program will not have arrest authority.

Boy pleads guilty to vandalism

A 12-year-old youth, charged with taking part in a $25,000 vandalism spree last month at Gregory School, Mount Prospect, pleaded guilty in juvenile court Wednesday. The youth entered his plea at the Niles branch of Cook County Juvenile Court. Two other youngsters, ages 13 and 14, also appeared in court on the charge but did not enter pleas. The two older youths also have been charged for damage at Dunton School, 1200 S. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights. Total damage estimates for both schools range as high as $100,000. The 12-year-old will appear in court for sentencing March 17 and the 13- and 14-year-olds will appear in court to answer charges March 3.

Walker criticizes committeeman

Gov. Daniel Walker broke away Thursday from an independent Democrat who has supported him in the past. Walker criticized New Trier Township committeeman Lynn Williams before a group of suburban journalists in Hillside. Walker said Williams did not object to remarks by Sec. of State Michael Howlett, made recently before Williams' group. Walker said Howlett told New Trier Democrats he would not have approved any Congressional redistricting plan that would have thrown U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, out of office. Walker said a Howlett aide lobbied heavily for the remap plan which last year failed to pass in the Illinois General Assembly. "You say Lynn Williams is an independent. Come on now, that's the man who sat by and let Howlett say he opposed the remap," Walker said.

Selection of Patty's jury moving slowly

tions to Bailey's motion and Carter ruled that the press would be barred from that portion of the jury process. Selection of a panel was going very slowly, and it appeared that a final jury would not be picked until Thursday afternoon at the earliest.

Bailey had presented 102 questions to the judge that he would like to have the jurors asked, and U.S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr. had submitted about 50. It was up to Carter to decide which ones to ask.

The questions Bailey submitted included:

"If your daughter were sitting here, in place of Patricia Hearst, would you feel comfortable about having her tried by 12 jurors with your state of mind?

"Do you find it difficult to make up your mind who is right and who is wrong in a family dispute or in a problem at the office?

"Do you realize that you may have prejudices that you are not quite aware of? I am questioning you, not just about obvious prejudices, but about stereotypes you may have about financially secure men or women."

Questions suggested by Browning included:

"Do you believe that if a person is kidnaped he is, for that reason, not responsible for any crimes he may later commit in the company of his kidnapers?"

"Do you have any feeling that, for any reason, you might treat this criminal case any differently if a different defendant were on trial?"

The second day of the trial of the kidnap victim accused of turning into a revolutionary terrorist started out with 36 names picked by random from a jury wheel. Those selected walked into the well of the courtroom and took seats.

Carter first had each give his or her name, community, occupation, spouse's name and occupation. Then he asked if any had previous jury service. Seventeen said they had, but all said it would not influence them.

The first 36 selected included a dozen housewives, a number of retired men, a dental assistant, a carpenter, a woman employe of the YWCA, a machinist, a San Francisco city employe, several divorcees, and a retired Navy man.

Newsmen talk of protests

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The spotlight will soon be on newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst in her bank robbery trial, but Wednesday she was just on the periphery.

U. S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter, defense attorney F. Lee Bailey and U. S. Attorney James L. Browning Jr. held center stage along with the citizens called on the jury panel.

But Miss Hearst was in the courtroom during questioning.

Judge Carter moved the focus of the trial from the larger Ceremonial Courtroom to another court next door for questioning of individual prospective jurors on what they had heard and read about the Hearst kidnaping and the subsequent bank robbery for which she is charged.

Newsmen were barred from the questioning of the prospective jurors, and there was talk of making strong protests to the judge, loud arguments about first amendment rights and even a suggestion of filing suit.

One of the objections was that Miss Hearst's parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst, and her sister, Vickie, were allowed in the second courtroom as was Bailey's wife, Lynda.

"We're going to wind up with a jury about which we know nothing," said one newspaperman.

Court observers could not remember a precedent in federal court in San Francisco. Eastern reporters said the jurors in Watergate-connected cases had been selected in a similar manner.

"But not with their family sitting in as the only spectators," said another reporter.

Rabin 'ready to meet with any Arab head'

Yitzhak Rabin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, calling for reopening the Geneva conference, Wednesday offered potential concessions to Arab countries if they would join seriously in the search for a Middle East peace settlement.

In an address to a joint meeting of Congress, Rabin tempered his hard-line restatement of Israeli policy with a pledge of undefined concessions in return for serious negotiations.

He declared: "I am ready to meet with any Arab head of government, at any time and at any place, for the purpose of peace talks."

"For the genuine peace we seek, Israel is ready to give up much and compromise much on territory. In a negotiation whose sincere shared goal is final reconciliation, we shall go more than half way to assure its success."

Rabin, a former Israeli ambassador to Washington, disclosed what he apparently discussed in his two days of private talks with President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger:

"Israel proposes the reconvening of the Geneva Peace Conference in accordance with the letter of invitation from the U. N. secretary general to the parties to the conference, of Dec. 18, 1973," he said.

Rabin and Ford held a second meeting for about 55 minutes Wednesday. A White House statement issued later said, "The President reaffirmed his determination that there be no halt in the negotiating process."

Rabin's 32-minute address to Congress, which attracted fewer members of Congress than a similar appearance in November by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, drew the most prolonged applause for its promise there could be no Middle East "without the state of Israel."

Rabin stressed Israel's need for military supplies from the United States at a time when the Ford administration is proposing reducing aid from the $2.2 billion requested by the Israeli government to approximately $1.5 billion.

"It will be our future strength that will largely determine the resources of peace in our region. Weakness is no prescription for negotiation," Rabin said.

Extraordinary security prevailed on Capitol Hill for Rabin's appearance. Scores of blue-jacketed policemen manned five rings of checkpoints.

By stressing he was willing to meet with any Arab "head of government," Rabin further emphasized his rejection of dealing directly with Yassir Arafat, leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization, or other Palestinian representatives.

Ex-Rep. Borchers sentenced to 26 weekends in jail

Former Illinois state Rep. Webber Borchers was sentenced Wednesday to spend 26 weekends in jail, fined $5,000 and told he cannot talk directly to the press about his theft and misconduct case during a five-year probation period. Sangamon County Circuit Court Judge Richard Mills told Borchers he ordered the partial gag because "The manner in which you've blasted everyone — the grand juries, this court, the prosecutor — tend to bring the whole court system into question."

Rumsfeld hits proposed defense budget

Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld said Wednesday the administration's proposed $100.1 billion defense budget is not even sufficient to replace equipment used up in Vietnam and the Middle East. "One of the reasons this budget is not a get-well budget in the sense of replenishing depleted stocks is the reduced production capacity in the United States," Rumsfeld said.

Railroad aid bill sent to Ford

Congress overwhelmingly passed a compromise $6.4 billion railroad aid bill Wednesday and sent it to the White House where it is expected to get a friendly reception. President Ford threatened to veto the bill when it first passed Congress several weeks ago, but a compromise was hammered out during the Christmas recess. The bill is composed mainly of loans and loan guarantees, with some grants. Most of the money will go to reorganize and modernize bankrupt Northeastern railroads and to help other railroads to modernize and avoid bankruptcy.

Violent new fighting erupts for Sahara

Algerian-backed guerrillas and Moroccan soldiers clashed Wednesday at a desert oasis 100 miles from the Algerian border in a "violent" new outbreak of fighting for control of the mineral-rich former Spanish Sahara. A government spokesman in the Moroccan capital of Rabat said regular Algerian troops were involved in the fighting. Both Algeria and Morocco confirmed the new fighting in the region of Amgala. The fighting sparked furious diplomatic activity in Arab capitals anxious to avoid a new war between Arabs on the heels of the apparent resolution of Lebanon's civil strife.

10,000 died in Lebanon

Trucks haul away bodies

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Dump trucks carted corpses from the battlefields of Beirut Wednesday and municipal workers began the mammoth task of repairing the wreckage left by nearly 10 months of civil war.

Premier Rashid Karami announced new plans for speedy reconstruction and political reforms "to build the Lebanon of tomorrow, a better Lebanon."

The seven-day-old truce, engineered by Syria, generally held firm. Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam returned to Beirut from Damascus, where he briefed President Hafez Assad on the success of his peace mission.

The war between Lebanon's Moslems, Christians and Palestinians claimed more than 10,000 dead, twice that number wounded, and made ruins of Beirut, once a lush tourist spot and the capital of Middle East finance.

In Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Yigal Allon told parliament Wednesday Israel shared Lebanon's "sorrow" at the thousands of war dead. But he warned the truce presented an "increased danger" Arab guerrillas would use southern Lebanon as "an organized base for operations on Israeli settlements."

In Beirut, health squads, their faces masked against the overpowering stench of death — loaded the bloated bodies of dozens of Moslems killed in the Karantina slaughterhouse district into dump trucks to be removed for burial.

Some armed right-wing Phalangist gunmen, victors in the Karantina battle, remained in and around the area despite their agreement to quit the streets.

Occasional rifle shots echoed across the area, a wasteland of shattered slum apartments and flattened tin shanties.

In the downtown commercial sector, another war-ravaged district, street cleaners began clearing rubble from the roadways to allow traffic to pass.

Karami told reporters after a cabinet meeting he was appointing a government committee to draw up a timetable for rebuilding Lebanon.

"I believe that every citizen should be mobilized in order to turn Lebanon into a workshop, so all of us can march along the path of reconstruction," the premier said.

He said a new covenant would be formed incorporating "the principles of political, social and economic reform." Among the reforms was "formation of a cabinet representing all factions that is satisfactory to all."

Top public housing chief Crawford fired by Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has fired H. R. Crawford, the government's top public housing official who is under Justice Department investigation for possible conflict of interest, it was announced Wednesday.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development, where Crawford has served as assistant secretary for nearly three years, said the investigation involves his contacts with persons outside the department "concerning employment after government service."

The Justice Department confirmed that the case had been referred to, but declined comment on the investigation.

Crawford himself, after conferring with his attorney, said he had informed HUD officials previously that he planned to leave in April and subsequently decided to quit even earlier.

"The questions HUD has raised concern communications by me to persons outside HUD looking toward my possible, future professional associations," Crawford said. "I have been advised that HUD has referred the matter to the Department of Justice and as long as it is pending there, I will not comment further."

Crawford, winner of several awards for his work in public housing, was named to the job by President Nixon in March, 1973. This came at a time of irregularities in federal housing projects which prompted Nixon to call the government "the nation's biggest slumlord."

HUD said Crawford has "made substantial contributions toward improving housing for low and moderate income families."

Crawford, 37, is a native of Winston-Salem, N. C., and has lived in the nation's capital for the past 25 years. He holds degrees from Howard University and American University, and taught at Howard for a time.

- Los Angeles Deputy Mayor Maurice Weiner, on trial for allegedly fondling a policeman in a sex movie theater, argues he was in the theater to carry out an inspection on orders from Mayor Tom Bradley. An attorney said the deputy mayor did not touch the undercover officer, but was following him closely to observe his actions. Bradley will testify he personally asked Weiner to look into the problem of complaints of police harassment of patrons of sex shops.

House, Senate override veto of HEW bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate joined the House Wednesday in overriding President Ford's veto of a $45 billion bill funding two federal departments in the first election year test of GOP support for the administration's economy drive.

The 70-24 Senate vote was seven more than the two-thirds required for an override and makes the measure automatically law.

The bill also contains language that will prohibit HEW — but not the courts — from busing students beyond their neighborhood schools for desegregation purposes.

The bill funds the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare for a 15-month period ending Sept. 30. It was about $1 billion more than Ford requested, although under congressional spending targets for the current fiscal year.

Seventeen Republicans joined 53 Democrats in overriding the veto. Tuesday's 310-113 House override vote was 28 more than the necessary two-thirds, with 49 Republicans defecting from Ford.

Ford, in his veto message, called the bill "a classic example of unchecked spending," but congressional backers said the President's proposals would cut spending below last year's levels and not even allow for inflation.

"It seems that every time that Congress works its will on domestic programs, people programs . . . we hear a resounding 'no' from the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue," said Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., in reference to previous Ford vetoes.

Last year, Ford vetoed 23 bills including six pocket vetoes. Of the nine override votes taken by Congress, only three were successful. The Labor-HEW override was the first this year although another bill has been overridden by the Senate and is awaiting a House vote.

Sen. Milton Young, R-N.D., the only senator to speak in favor of sustaining the veto, said, "These greater expenditures will increase the debt and the deficit which are already too high."

Other Republicans, however, said the funding for the vital and popular social programs carried in the legislation has been delayed too long. These programs include child and maternal health, mental health funding, nutrition programs, rural housing programs and money for cancer, diabetes and heart disease research.

The antibusing provision prohibits HEW from ordering school districts to bus students beyond the school nearest their homes for integration purposes.

Schools

High School Dist. 211

The Band Parents Club for the Conant High School Cougar Marching Band will hold a dance Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 1546 Brandy Pkwy., Hanover Park. Tickets are $5 per couple at the door for members and friends.

High School Dist. 207

Maine East High School's debate team placed third at the cowboy invitational tournament held recently at New Trier West High School. Jeff Ginsburg rated fourth place in the varsity division competition.

At the University of Illinois debate tournament, Jeff Ginsburg and Sue Fry were undefeated until the final round, in which they lost a split decision to Evanston.

Reunions

Kelvyn Park High School class of June 1953 is planning a 25th reunion for June 25. All class members are asked to contact Tina (Laveechio) Behnine 342-6134 or Loretta (Rossa) Forgue 545-7235.

Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21

Sixty eighth-grade students from Cooper Junior High School, Buffalo Grove, are painting two Bicentennial murals on the library walls. The murals will be dedicated to the school from the graduating eighth grade class.

Sacred Heart High School

Mock marriages will be arranged at St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights, with girls at Sacred Heart of Mary High School, Rolling Meadows, and Hersey High School, Arlington Heights, in a new marriage course.

For nine weeks, students will discuss the economics of marriage, the problems marriage can create and the responsibilities involved in the relationship.

Field trips will be taken to the county building to view the marriage licensing process and to the divorce court in the Civic Center. At the conclusion of the course, each couple will write a self-evaluation.

In general . . .

Parents and Teachers of Handicapped Students, (PATHS) will meet Monday at 3 p.m. at Kirk Center, 520 S. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine. Pam Gilette, a representative of Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization will speak to parents and teachers on curriculum and programming for the retarded child.

2,200 homes to receive inquiries

Survey to assess business area

A shopping survey to determine the strengths and weaknesses of the central business district will be mailed to 2,200 homes in Arlington Heights.

The survey, prepared by the village planning department, is sponsored by the special village committee studying the problems of the downtown area.

The questionnaire will "be helpful in planning a parking garage, pedestrian shopping mall and . . . bringing new and better facilities into the downtown area," the survey's cover letter says.

THE SURVEY asks residents to rate the quality of merchandise, service and facilities in the business district, including parking, street lighting and condition of the buildings.

Residents are asked to consider and comment on suggested improvements, including:

- Public parking garages;
- Malls to beautify the area;
- High-rise office buildings to increase the village tax base;
- Uniform opening hours for stores and shops; and
- Additional stores and restaurants.

The survey will ask residents to compare the village business areas with other shopping districts such as Woodfield and Randhurst.

Joe Kesler, village planner, said the survey could become 'a gold mine of information'' to aid the business district.

He said the survey, because it includes age, sex and neighborhood information, can pinpoint who is being attracted downtown and who is taking business elsewhere.

About 10 per cent of the households in the village will be selected at random to receive the questionnaire. Names will be selected from water billings and apartment listings, Kesler said.

Start of housing for aged delayed

Groundbreaking for the $3.5 million senior citizens' housing development in Arlington Heights will be delayed because of condemnation proceedings.

Condemnation suits for the final two properties needed for the project will be filed within 30 days, unless fair-cash market values are accepted, Victor Walchirk, executive director of the Cook County Housing Authority, said this week.

"We can't pinpoint what dates ground will be broken or construction begun because there is no way to know how long the condemnation hearings will take," he said.

Groundbreaking had been expected to occur this spring.

THE OTHER TWO properties needed for the 119-unit project were acquired in December without court action.

The four properties are just west of Highland Avenue between Wing and Miner streets. The L-shaped site was selected by the county housing authority and Arlington Heights officials because of its proximity to the central business district and transportation facilities. The site has been approved by the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development.

Final architectural plans for the development should be completed within 30 days, Walchirk said. "We will then have a conference on the final plans with HUD," he said.

The plans also will be reviewed by the Arington Heights plan commission and village board.

The village has on file the names of more than 500 senior citizens who have expressed an interest in the housing, but criteria and application procedures have not been decided.

Youths arrested for school thefts

Four Forest View High School students have been arrested for allegedly stealing large amounts of athletic clothing from Elk Grove, Rolling Meadows and Forest View high schools, Arlington Heights police said Wednesday.

The youths rifled gym lockers in the three high schools during the last three weeks, police reported. The 15-year-old youths of Mount Prospect and Des Plaines were arrested after a surprise locker check at Forest View revealed the allegedly stolen items last week, authorities said.

Police recovered items ranging from girls' volleyball outfits to wrestling clothing.

According to reports, thieves broke into several lockers and a coach's office at Forest View Jan. 19. Lockers at Rolling Meadows High School were broken into Jan. 16, and the thefts at Elk Grove High School occurred Jan. 9, police said.

The youths were released to the custody of their parents pending appearances in Cook County Juvenile Court.

LAYING ON OF HANDS by the Rev. Richard Lundberg, rector of St. Simon Episcopal Church, Arlington Heights. A healing service is part of the church's regular schedule. A tradition as old as Christianity, Rev. Lundberg said it can provide spiritual as well as physical health.

Church healing services help mend body and soul

by JOE SWICKARD

It's a touching experience in the original sense.

Quietly, every Wednesday morning, there are healing services at St. Simon Episcopal Church in Arlington Heights.

If one is expecting the trappings of a "faith healer" complete with lines of lame waiting to toss aside their crutches, one is disappointed. There are no sudden cries about restored vision or tumors suddenly disappearing.

"If someone told me their tumor was suddenly gone, I'd ask to see the X-rays," said the Rev.Richard Lundberg, rector of St. Simon, 717 Kirchoff Rd.

HOWEVER, Rev. Lundberg is quick to assure that such astounding incidents have occurred within the church, although they are definitely the exception and not the rule.

The service at St. Simon is a 9:30 a.m. communion service with the addition of the laying on of hands and unction. Rev. Lundberg said it is the same service used in visitations to hospital sickbeds.

"The laying on of hands is a very humane practice," he said. "The physical contact is very important. It is communication."

The healing service is not new to St. Simon. It's been part of the regular schedule for more than 10 years, and Rev. Lundberg included it as part of the activites of his previous parish.

He said the action is "very sacrimental" and the church has always incorporated "the real world and real things" into its ministry.

WHILE HEALING is commonly thought of in terms of physical needs, the service, Rev. Lundberg said, often aids spiritually and emotionally.

"It is often family relationships — problems with the younger members — that brings people into the healing service," he said.

"The service often changes the situation in two ways," he said. "It can change through prayer and it can change through new insights and new ways of coping."

Rev. Lundberg related the story of a family with a daughter who was involved in a bad relationship and "going through some bad personality changes."

The family attended a healing service at an Episcopal church in Kenilworth and upon returning home, learned their daughter had ended the relationship.

THAT, HE SAID, was one example of the service providing healing and making something whole again.

But he does have reminders of physical healings.

"I have seen where the blind have been resighted. I have two stoles made by a resighted woman from the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York," he said.

He said the woman's sight was restored within 20 minutes after she went through the service, a service reluctantly performed by the curate of the Cathedral.

A certain cynicism must be brought along with the cures, he cautioned.

"I would have to be somewhat cynical when someone never has a failure — where everyone throws away their crutches," he said.

"IT HAS TO BE taken within the context of the whole church. It is just one part of what it all means. But it has been a part of the church since the very beginning," Rev. Lundberg said.

Attendance at the Wednesday morning services varies. The average congregation numbers about 10 but it sometimes is larger.

"We ask for prayers on behalf of others. Sometimes many people will come if a member of the altar guild, for example, is ill," Rev. Lundberg said.

Village United Fund 92.8% to this year's goal

The Arlington Heights United Fund has reached 92.8 per cent of its $76,000 goal in this year's drive.

Pledges and cash donations to the fund have totalled $68,618.85.

Six persons were elected to the fund's board of directors. The new board members are Robert D. Bitter. A. O. Smith Harvestore Inc.; Donald Brown, Amoco Oil Co.; Pete Bukowski, Northwest Trust and Savings Bank; Robert R. Eichelman, Teletype Corp.; Eugene Roth, James Talcott Inc.; and Joy Stockham.

Harold Bell, a banker and formerly executive director of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce, was elected president of the board of directors for 1976.

Ronald N. Spears, B. C. Ziegler and Co., was elected vice president; James Dodds, First Arlington National Bank, was chosen treasurer, and Margie Flanders, Paddock Publications, was chosen secretary.

Civil Defense chief criticizes officials

Interest wanes on disaster plan

by BILL HILL

Arlington Heights officials have responded negatively to a plea for the village to develop an accredited Civil Defense program.

In a meeting with administrative officials last week, Jack Sayles, head of the village's Civil Defense volunteers, asked the village to provide funding to repair the organization's radio and teletype systems and establish a complete disaster preparedness plan.

The Arlington Heights Civil Defense group lost its state accreditation a year ago, primarily because the village refused to develop a disaster plan that would meet state standards.

"THEIR ATTITUDE was that (Village Mgr. L. A.) Hanson has it all in his hip pocket," Sayles said. "What happens if he's not there? We need a set of plans for someone to go to.

"They said, 'All the plans in the world do no good when a disaster happens,' " Sayles charged.

The meeting was attended by Hanson, Assistant Village Mgr. Frank Charlton, Administrative Assistant George Winand, Police Capt. Maurice English, and Ralph Strum and Sayles from the Civil Defense.

Winand said the village does have a disaster plan that includes call-up lists of heavy equipment owners, snowmobile owners, physicians, hospitals and medical laboratories.

"We do not have a written procedural plan for every contingency, but any disaster plan need to be looked at and improved. That's what we're doing now," Weinand said.

JOHN FACIA, mutual aid regional coordinator for the state's Emergency Services Disaster Agency (formerly called civil defense), agrees with Sayles that call-up lists are not sufficient in times of emergencies.

"You have to be able to coordinate your resources," Facia said. "Provided nothing happens, it's not needed at all. Gut it's like an insurance policy, because if a tornado goes through three towns, your mutual aid pacts go right out the window."

Arlington Heights stoppped showing a strong interest in the civil defense program about three years ago, he said. "It's unusual for an organization to crumble like the one in Arlington Heights did. Usually they go from non-active to dormant. They had a strong program four years ago and today they have nothing," Facia said.

The village now only has a small escrow account to cover incidental civil defense expenses. Because funding almost completely has stopped, the organization's weather and radio equipment have deteriorated, Sayles said.

"IT'S ANTIQUE JUNK brought in largely through personal resources, and we're tired of spending our own money to keep this stuff running. In the last month we've had three calls from public works and two from the fire department asking us to repair their weather machines, but now we just tell them we have no funds to fix them," Sayles said.

He also suggested a tornado spotters network be established. Now, in a threat of a tornado, volunteers from the Civil Defense radio group go to the top floor of Northwest Community Hospital to watch for funnel clouds.

"We get whoever we can. But the village shouldn't rely on volunteers. In Elk Grove Village they use the fire department personnel as tornado spotters," Sayles said.

Sayles' request for a professional weather watch operation is considered too expensive, Weinand said. A network of four teletype machines was suggested at a cost of a monthly $65 rental or a $1,000 purchase for each machine.

HE SAID THE public works department is now working on less expensive alternatives.

Sayles' main complaint is practice sessions are not being held to prepare for possible disasters.

"The police and fire departments are equipped to cope with fires, parades and overturned trucks, but certain things can overpower village resources," Sayles said. "If a major disaster hits, who's going to be in charge of volunteers from other villages? Practice is what ties it all together."

But other villages will no longer practice disaster preparedness with the Arlington Heights Civil Devense group. Because Arlington Heights is unaccredited, it is not covered by the state civil defense's insurance policy.

"THE VILLAGE'S position is that they prefer professional trained assistants. That's a reasonable position; however, when you get overwhelmed you need all the volunteers you can get, and you'd better have some of them trained. Professionals need experience in major area-wide disasters, too," Sayles said.

Charlton said the village is struggling with the question of what priority to assign to the local civil defense agency.

"Daily priority tasks tend to undermine practice sessions, which are good and we should have them," Charlton said. "What is really needed is an areawide program so we can coordinate assistance from outside the village. If we have a disaster, our greatest resources will be from other towns. Ours will be diminished."

Village officials, including Village Pres. James T. Ryan, have promised to meet with Sayles again within three weeks.

Sayles said he will take his requests to upgrade the civil defense program to the village board if he is not satisfied with decisions made at that meeting.

Thieves hit church for third time

The congregation of the First United Methodist Church of Arlington Heights is upset about the theft of items from the church sanctuary.

The Rev. Charles Jarvis, church pastor, discovered Saturday a silver bowl used for baptism ceremonies was stolen from the church, 1903 E. Euclid Ave. In December, priceless candlesticks, fashioned by a former congregation member, were stolen.

"They're (the congregation) very unhappy about it," Rev. Jarvis said.

For Sunday's services, Rev. Jarvis had to use a substitute bowl to baptize youngsters. He said the theft may have occurred while he was counseling a family Saturday in a sanctuary room.

"The (church's) trustees are looking to tighten security," he said. "We have installed new locks on the sanctuary."

He said the two 3-foot high candlesticks have never been found. The candlesticks were made by John Hedberg, from aluminum stock. A bud vase, also created by Hedberg, was taken at the end of November.

Three Dist. 21 incumbents seek reelection April 10

All three members of the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education whose terms expire this year plan to seek reelection April 10.

Board Pres. Kenneth Rodeck and members Steven Greenberg and Barbara Farr each say they will seek another term. There are three 3-year terms open on the board this year.

Rodeck, 36, of 1117 Sarasota Dr., Wheeling, was first elected to the board in 1973. Rodeck was undecided about seeking reelection until recently, because of personal considerations, he said Wednesday.

"I ALWAYS WANTED to seek reelection, but I believe board members should spend as much time as possible on board work," he said. "I wanted to give as much as I had in the past, and now I find I will be able to do that."

"I think the district in general is in a very interesting situation, and I enjoy being a board member," he said.

Dist. 21, like many other Northwest suburban school districts, is facing financial problems this year. District officials predict a $1 million drop in revenues for 1976-77 and an accompanying need for expenditure cuts. Staff and administrators are studying ways to trim costs in the district's budget for next school year.

Greenberg, 35, of 3138 Wilshire Ln., Arlington Heights, was first elected to the board in 1973.

"I FEEL I'VE HAD a good beginning and I want to continue serving," Greenberg said Wednesday. "I don't feel I've completed all the goals I've set out to complete, and I'd like to carry them to some resolution."

Barbara Farr

Kenneth Rodeck

Steven Greenberg

Greenberg said his 1973 platform goals of increasing community participation, student participation and educational excellence in the district have been advanced in the past three years.

"The job is not nearly done. Of course, it can never be completely finished, but I'd like to see that it continues," Greenberg said.

Mrs. Farr, 48, of 60 E. Jeffery Ave., Wheeling, was appointed to the board this summer, after Edwin Smith moved from the district and resigned.

"I FEEL THERE ARE a number of problems the district will be facing that need discussion and action," Mrs. Farr said. "I feel we have a financial problem and my experience working in large departments in universities helps me understand a large district's problems." Mrs. Farr teaches history at the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle Campus.

Mrs. Farr also said she would like to see the board act on some of the recent citizens committee recommendations. Committees reported to the board this fall on report cards, staffing, testing, and health, safety and facilities.

Greenberg and Mrs. Farr are seeking the endorsement of the Dist. 21 General Caucus, but Rodeck is not. Caucus endorsements are due Feb. 18.

Candidates for the school board must be at least 18 years old, residents of the district for at least a year and registered voters. Those seeking a school board post must file petitions, bearing the signatures of at least 50 residents, with the district offices between Feb. 25 and March 19.

Village awaits hearing date for Viator case

Arlington Heights Village Atty. Jack Siegel has filed a 40-page legal brief with the U.S. Supreme Court in preparation for the St. Viator housing case to be heard by the court in March.

Siegel said the village should know within three weeks when oral arguments will begin in the case involving the Village of Arlington Heights' refusal to rezone 15 acres southeast of St. Viator High School, Euclid and Dryden avenues, for the Lincoln Green townhouse development.

The controversial 190-unit, low-and moderate-income housing project was proposed by the Metropolitan Housing Development Corp. more than four years ago. The village had successfully blocked its construction with arguments that it would be spot zoning and incompatible with Arlington Heights' master plan. Last June, however, the 7th Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals ruled that the village's refusal to rezone the property was "racially discriminatory."

THE APPELLATE Court's decision agreed that village trustees were not motivated by race discrimination, but two of the three judges on the panel said failure to approve the Lincoln Green project would have the effect of continuing housing segregation in the Chicago area.

Seigel Monday said that the village will continue to argue that the Viator case is a matter of zoning and does not involve discrimination.

"It's purely a zoning decision, based on the fact that the property is located in the middle of a residential neighborhood. There are no civil rights questions involved," Siegel said.

Dist. 59 board members, president bid for reelection

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59's school board president and two other incumbents plan to run for reelection in April.

Board Pres. Judith Zanca will run for a third three-year term on the board in April. Mrs. Zanca, 81 Roxbury Ln., Des Plaines, said the three incumbents will be running in separate campaigns.

She said she decided to run for a third term because the "board is a young board that needs qualified, experienced members. In these times of change we need experience."

INCUMBENT Emil Bahnmaier is completing his first three-year term. He said he wants to run for the board again because "we have started something good and I would like to keep the momentum on the board."

Bahnmaier, 1822 Pheasant Tr., Mount Prospect, said he is interested in developing the gifted program, researching the unit school district option and setting up an alternative school which would concentrate on basic academics.

Erwin Poklacki, who was appointed to the board in July, wants to run for the board in April, saying he "feels I am doing a useful job. I've come to know valuable information that should not be wasted."

Poklacki, 1223 S. Fernandez Ave., Arlington Heights, served on the board from 1971-74. He also was president of the Dist. 59 School Community Council before accepting the board position last summer.

Plans for new rail depot unveiled

the railway and the village also will include the proposed railroad underpass at Arlington Heights Road and Northwest Highway.

The village hopes to let contracts for the underpass by next spring. The project, which still must face public hearings, would be funded with federal, state and local money.

THE UNDERPASS, if approved, would take about three years to complete and would cost about $11 million, according to Joe Kesler, village planner. Kesler said it would involve the laying of temporary tracks to the south of the present lines until the work is completed.

Although there have been discussions for several years about replacing the Arlington Heights station, the plan received a boost a year ago as part of Gov. Daniel Walker's accelerated building program, designed to create jobs. The state work program, because it is not federally funded, does not have to face lengthy federal hearings and bureaucratic red tape, state officials said when the project first was announced.

Gym powers look ahead to showdown

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Gymnastics Editor

Elk Grove and Rolling Meadows will use meets tonight with Hoffman Estates and Forest View respectively as tune-ups for their South Division gymnastics showdown a week from today.

The rest of the league card will find Hersey at Wheeling, Schaumburg at Conant and Palatine at Arlington.

Both Elk Grove and Meadows have been hitting around the 140 mark all year with the Grens going as high as 145.

Meadows hooked up with one of the best teams in the state last week when they lost a dual meet to Hinsdale Central, 146.77 to 134.88.

The bright spots for the meet for the Mustangs were Keith Liszewski's 8.75 high bar routine and Tom Sidor's trampoline routine of 7.5. Both were good enough to take individual titles.

"We were about five points off what we had been hitting," said Meadows' coach Vic Avigliano. "Hinsdale is a good team but I think we could have made it closer if we hit like we can."

Th Mustangs will host Forest View.

The Grens, unbeaten in MSL dual meets this year, were slighly off their feed themselves during a 140.17 to 86.93 win over Forest View last week.

"We didn't look too good," said head coach Fred Gaines.

Elk Grove salted the Honor Roll, placing someone on each event save trampoline and still rings. Tim Connelly clicked his side horse routine for an 8.7 to win that event, Gene Christensen took a second on free ex with an 8.25 and Matt Damore won the high bar at 8.65, placed third on trampoline (8.1) and second on all-around (7.62).

Elk Grove's guest tonight, the Hoffman Estates Hawks, have developed into a solid 100-plus scorer as they marked 105.21 in a close loss to Conant last week.

Their best event was free ex where Tom Heuer and Mike Sorensen both flashed over 7.00.

The closest meet on tonight's card should be the Hersey-Wheeling clash. The Wildcats have been as high as 125 this season, riding the still rings brilliance of Dale Brungraber and freshman all-arounder Jeff Vanyek.

For a first year performer, Vanyek's plus-6.00 all-around scores have been astounding.

Hersey's Danny Muenz threw one of the best free ex routines in the state last week to win the Honor Roll with an 8.95.

The Huskie senior also took second on high bar at 8.55, second on P-Bars with 8.45 and won the all-around with an average of 8.21.

"Danny is getting stronger every time he works," said Hersey coach Don Von Ebers.

Hersey smacked Addison Trail 139.20 to 133.45 last Saturday, despite the absence of tramp specialist Ray Peters.

"Peters sprained his knee," Von Ebers explained. "And because of that w had to go with a slightly watered down team.

"I was pleased with the way the varsity performed.

"We had only four misses and nobody fell. (Jim) Huck's all-around average was over six, and he looked very good."

The Huskies seem to have found a trampolinist who is as consistent as Mike Kropp was last year in Bob Barut. The red-headed senior won the Honor Roll this week with an 8.65 score and won the event title in the Addison Trail meet with a 7.9.

Arlington's up and down season got a big boost from still ringer Mark Staley. In the midst of a dual meet loss to Hersey last week Staley blazed an 8.85 on his speciality to win the Honor Roll's top spot for that event.

The Cards will host Palatine tonight.

Conant should win their second straight conference dual tonight when they entertain the Schaumburg Saxons.

The Cougars turned back Hoffman last week on the strength of a 7.45 tramp routine by Bill Schanel and a 6.66 all-around average by Jeff Worst.

Buffalo Grove, who competed with Fremd last night, solidified their claim as the most improved team in the league this week by putting Fred Bista (free ex), Evan Jones (tram-(tramp), Mark Farrington (rings) and Dewey Deal (all-around) on the Honor Roll for the first time this year.

Honor roll

ROLLING MEADOWS' Keith Liszewski took high bar honors in the Mustangs' 146.77 to 134.88 dual meet loss to defending state champion Hinsdale Central. Liszewski was judged at 8.75 for his routine and will be back in action tonight when Meadows hosts Forest View.

Five skaters in nationals

Five members of the Mount Prospect Skating Club have qualified to participate in the National Outdoor Speed "Skating Championships" to be held Jan. 31 and Feb. 1 in St. Paul, Minn., as a part of the Annual St. Paul Winter Carnival.

The Mount Prospect skaters are Rich Vehe, Intermediate Boy; Joan Wagner, Intermediate Girl; Bobby Nelson, Juvenile Boy; Brian Arseneau and Eric Eschenfelder, in the Midget Boys Class.

These skaters qualified for this prestigious event by being among the top six outdoor skaters in their class in the state of Illinois.

Upon their return from St. Paul, they will be seeking support from interested people in sponsoring them in the Mount Prospect Skate-A-Thon to be held Thursday, Feb. 19, at the Randhurst Twin Ice Arena.

The Skate-A-Thon is a promotional program to promote skating and raise funds for the local club and state and national organizations. Anyone interested in sponsoring these skaters at a minimum of 5 cents per mile can contact Don Schulze at 253-8156 for details.

Tom Lundstedt says farewell to baseball career

Paul Logan
Associate Sports Editor

As a youngster, I never dreamed of being a sports writer.

There were much more exciting jobs, like being a fire fighter, police officer, astronaut, cowboy or baseball player.

Playing baseball seemed like the ultimate job. Heck, that's all we did from spring until fall. Little did I know that millions of other boys were doing the same thing, dreaming the same dream.

My career ended in high school. I wasn't one of the 400,000 boys on the nation's 13,000 prep teams.

About 25,000 players make the 1,000 collegiate teams. When the prep and college players are drafted by the pros, only 1,200 are selected.

Of these, most are either dropped outright or sent to the minors. Only a very select few join the 600 who play for the 24 major league teams.

Starting with Dick Bokelmann in the early 1950s, only six area players have ever reached the top. Of the five — Fritz Peterson, Paul Splittorff, Dave Kingman, Greg Luzinski and Tom Lundstedt — who played last season, only four will be going to spring training this year.

Lundstedt won't be making the trip.

"We made the decision to get out of baseball at the end of last season," said Tom of the agreement he and his wife, Char, made. "We both enjoyed the six seasons we've been in baseball."

The Cubs drafted him in 1970. After stops at San Antonio, Quincy, Midland and Wichita, Tom finally reached Wrigley Field in the middle of the 1973 season.

In 1974, Tom made the team in spring training. However, lack of playing time and knee surgery spoiled what appeared to be his best shot at establishing himself.

Last year he was traded to the Twins. After being the final player cut in the spring, he proved he was major league caliber while at Tacoma, finishing the season with the Twins.

Minnesota sent him a 1976 contract, but it is unsigned. He'll be telling the Twins in a few days.

"I'm not soured on baseball," he said. "It's just that I've become more interested in other things. Baseball's not the ultimate thing as it was in high school and college. That was all I thought about then. Now there are other things to achieve."

Tom needs one more year of work for a bachelor's degree. Then he plans to enter law school at the University of Minnesota.

As far as he's concerned, he gave the pros his best shot.

"Of the 600 major league players, there's pretty much of a wide range of talent," said Tom. "There were guys with fringe talent, as I was. But I put all my effort and concentration into baseball . . . and worked hard."

Sometimes that effort doesn't show in the statistics. His best year was in 1973 when he was the all-star catcher in the American Association.

"I've made some money, seen the whole country and learned to be extremely versatile," he said of his experience.

Possibly his most interesting experience in the game was his six-week stay in Venezuela this winter. The general manager of the Maracaibo team contacted him when Bill Plummer (Johnny Bench's backup on the Reds) left the team. The offer was too tempting to turn down.

Players hitting umpires was the rule, rather than the exception. There night with "players throwing rocks was some sort of a riot almost every into the stands and people throwing bottles at the players," he said.

"In the dugouts, there were four soldiers with machine guns and bullets strapped across their chests. That was hard to get used to."

He survived the South American game. Now Tom's back in the suburbs, seeing friends and saying thanks to those who have helped him in baseball. Two men he wanted to thank in a special way were Dick Kinneman and Bill Slayton, who coached him in high school.

Tom Lundstedt

"I have no regrets," said Tom. "I'm thoroughly convinced this is the right move."

At 26, Tom is anxious to start a new career. He's thankful for the success he had at Prospect High School, the University of Michigan and in the pros.

Although his major league career was short, his dream became reality. Not many guys can say that.

Forest View girls top Arlington

(Editor's Note: One in a series of articles featuring area girls' basketball teams.)

by PAUL LOGAN

Receiving a "John Havlicek" type performance in the first half and some balanced scoring in the final quarter, Forest View defeated visiting Arlington in a Mid-Suburban League girls' basketball game Wednesday night, 47-35.

In other action, it was Fremd over Schaumburg 85-14, Wheeling over Prospect 68-26, Hoffman Estates over Hersey 43-38, Conant over Buffalo Grove 35-26, Elk Grove over Palatine 37-30 and Glenbard North over Rolling Meadows 39-34.

The Forest View Falcons raced out to a 24-11 halftime lead on the seven for nine field goal shooting of Kim Smid. The senior substitute guard broke a 6-6 tie midway through the first quarter with three straight baskets.

Coach Al Beard's Falcons hustled their way to a 20-9 advantage on the shooting of Smid, Sue Artemenko and Nancy Lancaster. Arlington's only basket in the last five minutes came on a layup by Val Weidner.

Arlington forced plenty of turnovers in the third quarter to get back into the game. Sherry Weber, a Cardinal substitute, helped spark the rally by her aggressive play. Weber's basket just before the end of the quarter cut the margin to 30-25.

The Cardinals' spirited play led to many Falcon fouls, but the losers seldom found the range in the final quarter, missing four one-and-one situations.

Forest View regained its composure, outscoring Arlington 8-0 over the first four minutes to put the game out of reach. It was the Falcons' second win in as many tries.

"The girls only have had about three practices because of volleyball," said Beard, who let his team work the ball for shots when he could have stalled for an easier victory. "We're not going to slow down right now. I want to get as many people in the game as possible."

Beard hopes his team can gain the necessary experience to be ready when the real season begins — the South division portion — later on.

"About five players really can shoot," he said. "Tonight was Kim's turn to really turn it on." Although she didn't start, Smid led both teams with 14 points. 'She's more of a Halvicek-type player."

The Falcons outrebounded Arlington 34-33 on the strong board work by Lancaster, who had 13, and Deb Brinkman, who pulled down nine.

Brinkman and Artemenko each scored eight points behind Smid. Kim Broderick paced Arlington with 11. Sandy Norman and Laura Sanders had seven each.

Norman was the game's top rebounder with 14.

Arlington coach Mary Welpton said this year's team had "a lot more hustle and desire than they have had in years past. We've been close to the bottom of the league all along (the previous two years)."

In other action, Elk Grove topped Palatine on the 14 points by Kim Richardson. Linda Wojcik was high for Palatine with 12.

Clare Dowling's 21 points and Tracey Farrish's 12 paced Hoffman Estates past Hersey. Linda Davis was high for the Huskies with 14.

Balanced scoring by Gina Neri (17), LeAnn Paulsen (15) and Jenni Schmuhl (12) led Wheeling over Prospect. Jeanine Hahn scored 10 points for Prospect.

Powerful Fremd had four girls in double figures — Connie Bruns (15), Cindy Nelson (12), Heidi Giesler (10) and Kathy Uhrich (10) in romping past Schaumburg. Joanne Klett and Mary Walsh each had four for the Saxons.

Conant received six-point outputs from Kathy Evans, Bonnie Reichelt and Surnicki to beat Buffalo Grove. Joyce Gallagher had 14 for the Bison.

Pam Klein tossed in 13 in a losing cause as Rolling Meadows lost to Glenbard in a non-league game.

Marin paces Bulls win over Pistons

Jack Marin hit four of his last six shots and scored 11 of his 16 points in the final quarter Wednesday night to lead the NBA's last-place Chicago Bulls to an 87-84 victory over the Detroit Pistons.

Detroit came within one point of equalling its low scoring output of the season in Herb Brown's home debut as the new Piston coach. Detroit scored 83 points in losing at Cleveland Tuesday night.

Marin hit a bucket with 3:16 to play to give the Bulls an 82-78 lead, hit a shot from the side with 1:11 left to put them up 86-82 and sank the clinching free throw with 11 seconds to play.

Bob Lanier led the Pistons with 20 points and John Mengelt had 16. Eric Money hit a career high of 10 assists for Detroit.

It was the Pistons' fourth consecutive defeat, while the Bulls now have won three out of four.

Mickey Johnson led Chicago with 17 points, while Bob Love scored 15.

Hawks snuff Flames, 7-3

Teenager Grant Mulvey scored twice and five Chicago Black Hawk teammates added single goals Wednesday night for a 7-3 win over the Atlanta Flames that boosted the Hawks' first-place margin in the National Hockey League Conn Smythe Division to 14 points.

It was the 10th win with five ties and only one loss in the last 16 games for Chicago and Atlanta's fifth defeat in its last eight games.

Atlanta's Tom Lysiak opened the scoring. After Stan Mikita tied it for the Hawks, Atlanta went ahead again on a score by Eric Vail. Mulvey's first goal came with 1:43 left in the opening period to produce a 2-2 tie.

The Hawks broke the contest open with a three-goal second period on scores by Cliff Koroll from 10 feet, Darcy Rota on a short rebound and Mulvey's second score from 10 feet.

Both Dennis Hull and Ivan Boldirev scored for Chicago in the last period, while Claude St. Sauveur got Atlanta's last goal on a power play.

Dantley keys Irish rout

Hot-shooting Adrian Dantley sank 12 of 17 shots Wednesday night and scored 31 points to lead 11th ranked Notre Dame to an 89-68 victory over DePaul.

Dantley moved into second place on Notre Dame's all-time career scoring list with 1,831 points. The leader, Austin Carr, finished with 2,560 in three years on the varsity.

Dantley also pulled down 15 rebounds, helping Notre Dame dominate the backboards against the taller Blue Demons by a 48-38 margin. The scrappy Irish have outrebounded all 15 of their foes this season in building a 12-3 record.

Guard Ron Norwood and forward Joe Ponsetto each scored 20 for DePaul, which lost for the fourth time in five games to slump to an 11-6 record. However, 6-foot-11 center Dave Corzine was held to 10 points and only three rebounds. He fouled out with 4:44 left to play.

Sophomore center Dave Batton scored 16 points and had 10 rebounds for Notre Dame and reserve guard Don Williams added 14 points.

Wade advances in Slims

Top seeded Virginia Wade and the other four seeded players on the Wednesday card all advanced to the singles Quarterfinals in the $75,000 Virginia Slims of Chicago tournament.

Wade, the Chicago winner in 1974, beat Kathy May, 6-4, 6-3. Olga Morozova, who is seeded fourth, breezed past Carrie Meyer, 6-1, 6-0, but fifth-seeded Nancy Gunter was extended to three sets before overcoming Marina Kroshina of the Soviet Union, 6-0, 4-6, 6-3.

Wendy Overton sidelined Pam Teeguarden, 6-2, 6-4, and second-seeded Martina Navratilova turned back a strong challenge by Betty Stove for a 6-3, 3-6, 6-2 victory.

Stove, 30, a veteran on the Slims' circuit who never has won a major singles title, was encouraged by the enthusiastic applause of the crowd in her bold bid for an upset over the 19-year-old Navratilova. But Navratilova, who defeated Chris Evert in the finals of the Houston Virginia Slims two weeks ago, broke service twice in the third and deciding set.

Arbitration suit continues

An attorney for major league baseball's owners argued Wednesday an arbitrator did not have the authority to rule on the contract status of pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally and, even if he did, he overstepped that authority in making the two free agents.

Harry Thomson, in closing arguments on the owners' suit challenging the authority of arbitrator Pete Seitz, said the Major League Baseball Players Association agreed not to file grievances concerning the reserve system when the system was excluded from the 1970 and 1973 working agreements.

Final arguments were presented to U.S. District Judge John W. Oliver Wednesday. He promised a decision on the case, which he said undoubtedly would be appealed, early next week.

Judge hears cager motions

A judge heard motions Wednesday on whether sophomore star Michael Thompson of the University of Minnesota, who admitted selling complimentary season tickets for a profit last season, should be allowed to continue playing with the Gopher basketball team.

Hennepin County District Court Judge A. Paul Lommen then took the matter under advisement pending the presentation of a joint stipulation of facts by attorneys for both sides.

The attorneys are expected to present the stipulation of facts Thursday. The judge could rule at that time whether to let Thompson continue playing temporarily until a trial can be held.

The university declared the 6-foot-10 center ineligible earlier this month because he admitted selling two complimentary season tickets valued at $39 for $180, and he missed one game as a result.

Baeza wins Eclipse Award

Braulio Baeza was honored Wednesday by the Thoroghbred Racing Associations as the winner of the Eclipse Award as the outstanding jockey in 1975.

The 35-year-old Panamanian-born rider was receiving the award for the second time, having been so honored in 1972.

Baeza, who began riding in this country in 1960, has won over 3,000 races while earning more than $34 million in purses.

Last year, with $3,695,198 in purses, Baeza rode to victory such outstanding thoroughbreds as Honest Pleasure, Wajima, Susan's Girl, and Snow Knight.

Stadium will be unfinished

The Quebec minister in charge of the 1976 Summer Olympics said Wednesday the main Olympic Stadium will not be fully complete but Montreal will go ahead with plans to stage the games as scheduled July 17.

THE OUTCOME of Friday's meet between second place Buffalo Grove and first-place Arlington may depend on the condition of this swimmer, Grove's Mike Yaskey. Yaskey's been out with a shoulder injury and his team will need his points for a shot at the Cards.

Waycinden group plans signups

Registration for the Waycinden Area Boys' Baseball League will be held from 12 noon until 2 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 7, and Saturday, Feb. 14.

The signups will be held at the Mount Prospect Country Club, Sky Room, 600 See Gwun, Mount Prospect. Applications may be mailed to Waycinden Area Boys' Baseball League, P.O. Box 275, Des Plaines, Ill. 60017.

The league boundaries are Golf Road (on the North), Touhy Avenue (on the South), Goebbert Road (on the West), Mount Prospect Road (on the East).

Proof of age is required at the signup (ages 7 through 16 years) if youngster was not registered with league in 1975.

Fees for the first boy are $25, second boy $18, and third boy is free. In the Instructional League (7 and 8 year olds) the fee is $20 for first boy, $13 for second, and third boy is free.

SAA to hold baseball signup

Schaumburg Athletic Assn. baseball registration will be held Saturday, Jan. 31 at the Great Hall in the barn on Civic Drive above the police station.

Registration is open to all Schaumburg boys and girls who will be between eight and 15 years old as of Aug. 1, 1976. The registration fee of $30 per player or $50 per family covers all program expenses.

According to SAA officials, the program has been overhauled this year. As in prior seasons, parents of players will be required to participate in the program by fulfilling one of the various work assignments, but there will be a better distribution of chores.

A change in league structure will allow players to compete against others of similar ability. Players and their parents will not be required to engage in any fund-raising activities.

Call Jim Crouse (882-3494) or Don Darby (894-1197) for more information.

TOM BOERWINKLE, center for the Chicago Bulls, visited the area this week at a special Our Lady of the Wayside Sports Night in Arlington Heights, and he talked with The Herald's Bob Gallas about the Bulls' problems.

Controversy

Boerwinkle examines Chicago Bulls' problems

"We've always had controversy . . . we thrived on it. Before, controversy was making us win. Now it's making us lose. I think it's a convenient thing for everybody . . . they're looking for outs as to why we're having such a bad year." Tom Boerwinkle, Chicago Bulls.

by BOB GALLAS

Take a team that won 72 per cent of its games last year, nearly took the NBA title and has made the playoffs every year since 1970. Let the team start the new season with virtually the same personnel and win only 13 of 44 starts. Put it all together and you have the Chicago Bulls — and trouble.

Tom Boerwinkle, the Bulls' 6-foot-11 center has seen trouble before during his eight years as a Bull. The team earned a reputation for hustling and being scrappy, rowdy, and even dirty, some said. But through it all the Bulls still managed to do one thing well — win.

The controversy is still there, but the winning is not. And Boerwinkle, like just about everybody else, is searching for answers.

Boerwinkle, who has played longest for Chicago outside of Jerry Sloan, has his own opinion on why the Bulls returned to the court this season as only a shadow of their former self. Sure Chet Walker retired and Jerry Sloan played sub par all year due to a bad knee, a knee that has now put him out for the rest of the season. But even without those factors, Boerwinkle makes you wonder if the Bulls ever had a chance this year.

"I still think, and I know most of the players don't agree with me, but we were conditioned because we were a very old ball club by NBA standards . . . that if we didn't win it last year, it was our last chance because we were too old. I honestly thought there would be at least six new ballplayers when we went to training camp this year. Everybody kept waiting (in the offseason) for the phone to ring, and it never rang," Boerwinkle said in a visit this week to Arlington Heights.

"I'm not saying it was a wrong decision. I'm just saying I was surprised," he added.

Boerwinkle doesn't buy the idea that the controversy swirling around the Bulls over coach Dick Motta, early season problems with management in training camp, Bob Love's contract problems and Walker's suit against the Bulls are the reasons for the team's poor performance on the court. He says two key elements of the once devastating Bull attack are missing.

"You just don't replace a Chet Walker, I don't care who you put in the lineup," siad Boerwinkle. Nobody in the world could replace Chet. Without Chet, without Jerry (Sloan) I think we tended to change our whole idea of the game."

The Bulls lost natural leaders in Sloan and Walker, leaders that will be hard to replace, according to Boerwinkle. "Chet was a great leader," he said. We used to be in so many tight ballgames. We'd get the ball to Chet in the last two minutes, and we were guaranteed either two points or else he'd be on the free throw line," said Boerwinkle.

"Chet was incredible, the smartest basketball player I've ever been associated with. Jerry is a leader by example, but he just has not played effectively all year on his leg. He tried. He has the heart of a lion, but just couldn't play on one leg," said Boerwinkle.

On coach Dick Motta, Boerwinkle said, "When he (Motta) came here this was a struggling franchise. He made it one of the best in the NBA. I know it's not my position to say who coaches, but a guy has a bad half of a season and they want him gone. It just seems cold."

Boerwinkle doesn't see his role changing too much as the Bulls go with younger lineup more and more. And he doesn't count his team out of the playoffs since even with their horrendous record, the Bulls are only five games out of their division lead.

"I always felt that my role with the Bulls was not to score. It's to just get the ball to the open man, play defense and rebound. I think if I try to score too much, it tends to mess other things up," he said.

"Now I'm trying to favor going to younger players to give them confidence. By getting them their shots, I make them realize what the offense can do for them."

"I don't think it will take anything moe more than one sustained winning streak to take the division, maybe winning 12 out of 15 games," Boerwinkle said. "But you can't count on everyone in the division playing as badly as they have been."

Maybe not even the Bulls.

Schaefer stole show

Germany Schaefer, one of the most colorful baseball players of the early 20th century, was responsible for a change in the game's rules. Schaefer was playing for the Washington Senators one afternoon when he drew a walk and promptly stole second. On the next pitch, Schaefer ran back to first base, causing the pitcher to balk and sending a runner home from third. Schaefer then stole second base again. Shortly afterwards, a rule was instituted prohibiting a player from making a travesty of the game — which may not have stopped Herman "Germany" Schaefer.

Conant trackmen second in opener

Conant track coach Ron Gummerson is in his third year of work and he's still building from the ground floor on up.

What Gummerson is building is quite possibly a Mid-Suburban League champion.

The Cougars' basically underclass trackmen made a respectable second-place showing in their initial indoor meet of the season, a triangular at Morton East. Conant had 49 points, beating the host but losing to Fenton.

Gummerson's sophomore squad took the MSL title last year and most of them have returned to the varsity for the 1976 campaign. Their second test will come Friday evening at Evanston.

Among the top performances Saturday was a 4:45 victory in the mile for sophomore Bill Baird and a first-place showing in the two-mile by junior Pat Hagan in 10:19.

The Cougars' other winner was junior Jeff Carter with a 12-6 pole vault effort.

One of the few seniors on the squad is Keith McCahey, who popped a 19-3 long jump, good for third place. Another top effort was turned in by junior Dave Janzow, who triple-jumped 35-10 in his first try in competition.

"We got some good performances for so early in the season," said Gummerson. "The kids have been working hard."

One of the hardest workers is junior runner Brian Foss, who was nosed out in the 880-yard run but ran 2:08. Foss is basically a half-miler and quarter-miler, but he competes in the jumping events too.

"I think Brian will be hard to beat this year in the half," siad Gummerson, who is plenty happy that Foss' family returned after moving out of state last year.

Arlington youth program sets two signup dates

Registrations for the Arlington Heights Youth Athletic Assn. will be held in the Olympic Park basement, 660 N. Ridge, on Saturday, Jan. 31 and Saturday, Feb. 21.

Hours for the signup will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

All boys who will be 8 years old and not more than 16 years old on July 31, 1976 are eligible. Boys must live in the village of Arlington Heights and/or the Arlington Heights Park District.

The registration fee will be $12 for the first boy and $7 for each additional brother. In addition, each boy must buy six pancake tickets at $1.50 each to be sold or used at the annaul Pancake Day. A maximum of 18 tickets per family will be issued.

The fee for one boy will be $21 — two boys $37 — three boys $53 — and four boys $58.

Boys who have never played in Arlington Heights must bring proof of age regardless of the age category. A parent or guardian (not a friend or neighbor) must attend the registration and volunteer for one of the adult programs.

Girls signup will be held the same time as boys baseball.

Girls must be accomanied by a parent or guardian and must be at least 8 and not more than 18 on July 31, 1976. Proof of age is required of first-time participants.

The registration fee will be $12 for the first girl and $8 for each additional sister. In addition, each girl must buy $6 in decals, which can be sold.

The cost for one girl is $18, two girls $32, and three girls $46.

Academy wins Indiana meet

This past weekend, the American Academy of Gymnastics, Inc. traveled to Merrillville, Ind. where they participated in the Indiana Invitational for girls age 10 to 12 years old. The Academy girls sparkled as they graced the winners circle to accept the first place team trophy.

The Academy girls swept the first three places in the all-around competition with Kelly McNerney in first place, Erin Tanner of Arlington Heights in second and Kim McCabe also of Arlington tying her teammate April Yahiro of Glenview for third place.

When the uneven bars were completed Kelly was in first place, followed by Erin in second place. April placed fifth and Chris Bott settled for sixth place.

Balance Beam competition found Kelly in first place with Erin and Kim tying for third place, while Chris landed behind her teammates in fifth place.

After vaulting was finished April captured first place, Kim took fifth place and Erin captured the sixth place ribbon.

Kelly and Erin tied for fourth place on floor exercise, while Kim and April tied for sixth place behind them.

The American Academy of Gymnastics, Inc. will be the site of the Girls Pre-State Advanced Gymnastics Meet Sunday.

This meet is for girls who will attempt to qualify for the state meet to be held in March. The girls will try to achieve a qualifying average of 7.5.

Compulsories will begin at 10:00 a.m. with optional routines beginning at 1:30 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door.

The Academy is located at 1300 Oakwood in Des Plaines. For further information, please call Leonard Isaccs at the Academy 827-6843.

The way we see it

Select trustee with great care

One of Arlington Heights' most energetic and oftentimes most courageous trustees, Alice Harms, has resigned, and a search is under way to name a successor.

Mrs. Harms was a valuable public official because of her candor and doggedness. The people of Arlington Heights deserve no less than a replacement with those same qualities.

It is the village's loss that Mrs. Harms decided she could no longer serve on the board, but we urge her to remain involved in local affairs, for her kind of participation too often is lacking in the bureaucratic operations of local government.

The questions Mrs. Harms has raised — regarding the Bears stadium, the feasibility of a new public works garage and others — have been important ones.

In her letter of resignation, she cited differences with village Pres. James T. Ryan and Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson. She charged Hanson with "one-man rule as in Mayor Daley's Chicago" and with causing the resignation of several village employes.

Her clash with Ryan has been long-running. She supported Ryan's village presidential opponent last year, David Griffin, and also opposed several of Ryan's programs, specifically the plan to change the at-large representation on the village board to a district representation.

Although we believe her decision to quit after five years of service was unwise, it is made, and the task now is to find an able replacement.

Through the years, Arlington Heights trustees have met behind closed doors when discussing appointments to commissions and committees as well as trustee appointments. The names of persons interviewed were not released.

This time and in future deliberations, the door must be open to the public, as Ryan has pledged it will be. We are encouraged by this pledge of openness.

We also believe every capable candidate should be considered for appointment, for undoubtedly there are dozens of persons who would make good public officials. The search should not be confined to those who already have served; rather the choice should be made on the basis of individual qualifications and the ability of candidates to be good public officials.

A proposal to hold a special election has some merit, but we believe the open selection process in full view of the people of Arlington Heights will serve a similar purpose.

Feb. 4 and 5 have been set aside for public interviews. We encourage every resident with an interest in the Village of Arlington Heights to take part.

For during these deliberations, we hope to see independent-thinking candidates and independent-thinking trustees who will ultimately decide who will sit among them and represent the Village of Arlington Heights for the next 15 months.

Goodby, Mr. Chips

Buffalo Grove is apparently not going to live up to its name in 1976.

Last week the Buffalo Grove Bicentennial Commission shelved its quest to obtain a buffalo (well, it's really a bison) to roam the suburban range.

It isn't that buffalo aren't available. A farmer from Marengo, Ill. wants to sell Buffalo Grove two heifers and a bull for $4,500. In fact, the village looked into buying wild buffalo from the U.S. Dept. of the Interior for shipping costs only.

No, it's the details that kept the buffalo away from Buffalo Grove. A home for the mangy beast would have to have been found, the property would have needed a strong fence to keep it in, and food would have to have been purchased. In short, buffalo in Buffalo Grove promised to be nothing more than a financial headache.

Common sense suggests that the commission acted wisely in banning the buffalo, at least for the moment. But we still have a nagging regret about the fact that the beast won't be a part of Buffalo Grove in this Bicentennial year.

Candidates sought for Dist. 57 caucus

For the past two Sundays the Mount Prospect Dist. 57 School Board Caucus Nominating Committee has been interviewing prospective candidates for the three school board chairs that are to be vacated.

The goal of the nominating committee has been to present as many eligible candidates to the entire school board caucus for screening and endorsement at its Feb. 25 meeting. We in Dist. 57 have always been proud of the fact that we present to the public many qualified people to fill the available seats on the board. Thus, giving the voter a choice.

However, I'm sorry to say that this does not appear to be the picture this year. The nominating committee has interviewed and endorsed three candidates. We are still looking for others to come forth for our final interview date on Feb. 1.

Where are you interested and concerned citizens? The next three years could be the most important years in the history of Mount Prospect schools. Who will help solve the possible problems of school consolidation, unit district, decreasing enrollment, deficit spending, closing of schools, cutting programs, increasing class size, eliminating tenure techers.

How many of you are saying, "Let the other person do it, I don't have time." Now is the time. Don't wait until our excellent school district becomes just so-so. You can't wait. Our children can't wait.

He cheers coverage

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for the excellent coverage you have given to the Schaumburg Township Committee On Youth and Spectrum Youth Service in the past year. The services and programs we offer to the residents of Schaumburg Township can only be effective if people are aware of them. The articles and stories you printed in The Herald have helped to make our services known and also helped the people seeking assistance.

Again, thank you for the fine job you have done for us.

The almanac

(by United Press International)

Today is Thursday, Jan. 29, the 29th day of 1976 with 337 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury and Venus.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aquarius.

English-American freedom crusader Thomas Paine was born Jan. 29, 1737.

On this day in history:

- In 1861, Kansas became the 34th state in the Union.
- In 1900, eight baseball teams were organized as the American League. They were Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Milwaukee and Minneapolis.
- In 1936, Ty Cobb, Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson, Babe Ruth and Honus Wagner became the first five men elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame.
- In 1963, Great Britain's application for membership in the European Common Market was vetoed by France. Britain became a member in January, 1973.

A thought for the day: Early American freedom fighter Thomas Paine said, "A bad cause will ever be supported by bad means and bad men."

Harms: 'only voice of the people'

I am deeply concerned and saddened at the resignation of Trustee Alice Harms. In all of the years I have lived in this village we have never had a more knowledgeable and trustworthy public servant who worked as hard as she did for the benefit of the people in this municipality.

At all meetings she came prepared, had studied the issues and was able to vote intelligently on all issues. She was the bulwark of our community.

I fear that her resignation will mean unresponsive government in the future. Mr. Ryan's campaign pledge was "a more responsive government," but all I saw was greed for more federal funding for unnecessary projects. I shall miss Mrs. Harms' deliberations. She was the the only voice of the people, for the people, by the people.

Mrs. E. Grzenia
Arlington Heights

In reply to your well-hidden article: "Ryan questions time for special trustee vote."

My first gripe is I feel this article belongs on the front page or no less the second page, as it is a matter we citizens of Arlington Heights feel very closely to. Knowing the comments and issues being conveyed by our representatives and also the questions being raised by our press and those responses to questions raised by our representatives.

Secondly, this family of four votes feels David Griffin's proposal for a special election is not only the correct way of filling the vacancy left by Alice Harms, but is the essential requirement when there are issues of controversy pending that need a concerned and spirited citizen such as Alice Harms was (who was most capable in both for foresight plus hindsight and always seemed to have a finger on the pulse of Mr. and Mrs. Citizen) to give the necessary backbone to those who need a nudge and leader to gather behind.

None of my family have ever met Mrs. Harms, but we have followed her actions since becoming a trustee and thanks to her straight-forward approach became our favorite representative. If she were to endorse someone to replace her, my family and I (and many others we know) would vote unhesitantly for them.

Her concern was for her fellow neighbors, not building the political machine to protect her as must succumb to for their politial future.

May I also add, while I have this opportunity, that I am proud of the way most issues are presented by The Herald and the depth of reporting done.

EDITOR'S NOTE: These letters were written before the Arlington Heights Village Board agreed to appoint, rather than allow the public to vote on, a replacement for Alice Harms.

'Setback for abortion backers'

Efforts by proponents of abortion to convince the public that legal abortion is safe have suffered a setback by the release of a report presented at the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists convention recently. Entitled "Deaths and Near Deaths With Legal Abortions," the report presents the findings of 486 doctors who have dealt with women who have had legal abortions. It is authored by Dr. Matthew J. Bulfin, M.D., F.A.C.O.G.

Of these 486 obstetricians and gynecologists, 443 or 91 per cent had found it necessary to treat patients with complications following legal abortions; 423 or 87 per cent had found hospitalization of patients necessary. Twenty-nine of these doctors, or 6 per cent, reported they had cared for at least one patient who died as a result of legal abortions.

These doctors reported deaths and near-deaths occurring with every type of abortion procedure and concluded that since the vast majority of abortions had been done for social reasons the deaths and near-deaths from this elective and non-emergency surgery was especially tragic.

Some of the most catastrophic complications following legal abortions occurred in young teen-age girls, forcing the doctors to conclude that the younger the patient the higher the complication rate from legal abortion.

It is significant that only 15 per cent of all public hospitals in the United States will perform abortions. Abortion is unnecessary and dangerous surgery that is becoming more and more repugnant to members of the medical profession.

Efforts to obtain a human life amendment are under way. Hearings on proposed amendments are scheduled to begin in the U.S. House of Representatives on Feb. 4. Such an amendment will guarantee the Constitutional right to life for all persons from conception until natural death.

Lauds departments

I want to thank our Rolling Meadows Fire and Police Departments. In the period of a few weeks two of our fine employes had need of immediate service. In both cases the police and paramedics responded at once. Our management and employes were very much impressed with the speed and the professional know-how with which the paramedics and the officer handled the situation.

Thanks again to the fire and police departments for their excellent help.

Referendum hit

I have never written to a newspaper before but these few people in Palatine who feel that all they do is send around petitions and they will have their way on the park district buying the Ice Spectrum should channel their efforts into helping the needy and senior citizens of Palatine.

The voters have already voiced their opinions by voting this down. I do not wish my tax money to be spent on another referendum for the use of just a few who want to play hockey.

It seems there is really nothing in the Palatine Park District that is free to the taxpayers. We pay and pay and pay, even for the use of the field houses that we are already paying for in our taxes.

M. Vlcek
Palatine

Fence post
letters to the editor

They stand by

How wonderful to know that somewhere outside of our homes are those who are standing by, in time of great need. When an emergency arose in our home with our mother, paramedics were called. We couldn't believe the speed, the efficiency. While we were trying to reach a member of our family on our telephone, they were already speaking to the hospital on their equipment. Everything was being done to help her until she reached the hospital.

When we beheld all the equipment and instruments we couldn't believe our eyes; the money that was needed to buy all this to save a life. I looked at these men, real men, and yet ever so gently, working together so efficiently. I couldn't help but breathe a prayer of gratefulness for those who are standing by.

Berry's World

"When I grow up, I'm going to save fuel and reduce pollution by riding a SLED to work!"

Doesn't see bad doctors

I have been reading about the increase in doctors' malpractice insurance and hospital malpractice insurance and how it has increased the cost of medical services. I can't believe that all of a sudden there are so many bad doctors around. I think it is again a case of people being greedy and trying to take advantage. Why do these people never realize that their greed affects the way prices go up for everyone, including themselves.

There are, of course, legitimate cases of malpractice. If you truly feel a doctor has been negligent in the handling of your case or that of a family member and it results in death or permanent inability to perform daily tasks, then by all means sue for malpractice, but if there is doubt in your mind, then reconsider. Doctors are not God and cannot be expected to be perfect. We all want to be able to call on our doctors when we need them, so we should be fair in our treatment of them.

Why not celebrate the Bicentennial of our country with something that would truly help our country. A vow from everyone for a renewal of honesty and integrity in all things.

Who would want to run for a school board seat?

Education today

by Dorothy Oliver

As the weeks pass, more and more people are throwing their hats into the ring and declaring themselves as school board candidates.

Most school district caucuses are already in full swing, screening potential candidates and preparing endorsements. In noncaucus districts, rumors are beginning to fly about so-and-so (no slur intended) checking out if anyone would support him if he decided to run.

The onset of annual school board elections seems to raise two important questions: Who in his right mind would run for a seat on a board of education? And: What makes a person a good board candidate?

WHY RUN at all? Serving on a school board is for the most part a thankless job. Particularly in the last few years, with districts wallowing in problems ranging from bad test scores to worse finances, board members are chastized, criticized, ridiculed and damn near hung in effigy by the citizenry that elected them to office.

Parents complain, protest, petition. Teachers threaten, sit-in, walk-out. The Fourth Estate has an occasional bad word. Why, even members serving on the same board will take pot shots at each other.

They are not paid. Their job has little glamor (saying "I'm a village trustee" or "I'm an alderman" sounds more glamorous). They must be available to the public day and night. And, when their district is in trouble, they spend many evening and weekend hours trying to put things back together again.

Yet after interviewing upwards of 100 board candidates, I've found most are actually anxious to be elected.

SOME FEEL it is their civic duty. Some want to "repay" a district for doing a good job educating their children. Some have backgrounds in education or finances or long-range planning and feel their expertise could benefit a board.

A few view sitting on a board of education see it as being a good addition to a resume. A few are seeking prestige or power. A few — and it is really more than a few — run because they have an axe to grind over a particular issue, whether it be their son's inability to read, a boundary change or the lack of a social studies course on the mores and folkways of Outer Mongolians in the 14th Century.

For the most part, though, they're not a bad lot and the tremendous majority seem to have a sincere desire to better the quality of education for their children and others.

Periodically, when I sit at board meetings — which, by the way, can range from unbelievably dull to extremely interesting — I think about what makes a good board member good.

THEY ARE GENERALLY logical, intelligent, open-minded (that one is very important), willing to listen and either knowledgeable about how a school district operates or eager to learn.

Every year I am surprised by the number of candidates who rise up out of the dust, have never attended a school board meeting in their life and haven't figured out whether the superintendent is elected or appointed. A few of these people eventually get elected and spend their first year being led around by the hand.

At the same time, you'll find a candidate who has worked on a district citizen's committee, attended a few meetings and when asked how many people sit on a board of education, know the answer. (It's seven.)

State law requires a candidate to be 18 years old, a one-year resident of the district and a registered voter. Once elected these people approve multimillion dollar budgets, hire corporate-salaried administrators, make decisions on curriculums, whether a student is expelled or remains in school, where boundaries lie, whether schools should be built or abandoned and whether taxes will go up or down.

There's more to running a school district than attending a Tuesday night meeting. Think about it when your next-door neighbor asks you to sign his nominating petition. Think about it again April 10, when you go out and vote.

Ask Andy

Aquarids—a stargazer's delight

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Dena Harrington, 14, of Tulsa, Okla., for her question:

WHAT ARE AQUARIDS?

No, they are not little creatures who feel at home in a watery aquarium, though in a roundabout way their name is related to the word water. Actually they are specks of dust out there in the heavens. Once each year they shed a small shower of meteors in our sky. And the Aquarids seem to fall down from the starry constellation called Aquarius, the Water Carrier.

The story of the Aquarids is for stargazers, and it goes back at least 2,000 years. It is related to Halley's razzle-dazzle comet, which appears in our skies at intervals of about 77 years. Its return visits have been recorded on schedule, way back to the year 240 B.C.

Its orbit was computed in the 1600s by William Halley, who predicted that it would reappear in the year 1759. So it did, though Halley did not live to see it. We know now that it travels a long narrow orbit. One end loops around beyond the orbit of Neptune. The opposite end makes a U-turn around the sun.

As it nears the sun it lights up, and the solar wind adds a long golden tail. Some of this fine comet dust is left behind us as the comet whizzes on its way. The comet may change to cut directly across a point along the earth's orbit, leaving dusty fragments that may stay there for ages. When the orbiting earth reaches this point, we get a shower of mini meteors.

Actually we run into Halley's dust twice each year. And since the celestial traffic is very precise, this happens on certain dates in certain parts of the sky. On May 4, if the starry sky is very clear and free from smog, we may see a small meteor shower near the constellation Aquarius. These are called the Aquarids. Around Nov. 20, we get a larger meteor shower from the region of Orion. These are the Orinids.

Both the Aquarids and the Orinids come from dusty debris left behind by Halley's comet. When they collide with the orbiting earth, the little specks light up as they fall through the atmosphere. They burn to ashes high above the earth. But gradually the ashes seep down — and of all things, these wisps from a comet's tail are added to the weight of the world.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Katherine Bradbury, 11, of Scottsdale, Ariz., for her question:

DOES HIBERNATION HURT ANIMALS?

So far as we know, when an animal sinks into the deep sleep of hibernation he doesn't feel a thing. Actually he's in a sort of coma, unaware of everything around him and anything that might happen to him. His pulse, breathing and other body processes slow down to almost a stop. Nature intended him to stay that way until the first warm days of spring. But if he is taken into a warm room, he may be aroused and wake up.

However, sad to say, there are reasons why many animals never wake up from their winter hibernation. If their burrows are flooded they may drown. Some were too thin when they went into hibernation and without surplus fat they perish from malnutrition. But as a rule, the healthy ones survive to wake up in the spring — and they are no worse for their experience.

'Rich Man' to bring back '45 era

by JOAN HANAUER

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "Rich Man, Poor Man" may be the best thing to hit television since "Peyton Place," which puts it far above much of the present TV schedule.

ABC's 12-part serialization of the Irwin Shaw novel bows in Sunday and Monday from 8 to 10 p.m. with a pair of two-hour episodes of what will be a 12-part mini-series.

The story line concerns brothers Rudy and Tom Jordache, played by Peter Strauss and Nick Nolte, who are in their late teens on VE-Day in 1945, living at home in a small town in the Hudson River valley.

Rudy is respectful, ambitious, idealistic, and plays "Stardust" on his horn. Tom, blond, handsome and naturally athletic, also is wild, irreverent and often cruel.

EDWARD ASNER, lovable Lou Grant on the Mary Tyler Moore show, proves stunningly effective as Axel Jordache, the boys' father — a bitter, brutal man with a mustache an Gderman accent, who works exhaustingly in his bakery and behaves with the cruelty of guilt toward his pathetic and frigid wife, played by Dorothy McGuire.

The first episode works hard to establish its era, 1945, with Rudy playing "Stardust", Julie dancing the Lindy in bobby sox, the local movie house playing "Wake Island" and Tom kidding about Randolph Scott and "Gung Ho," one of Scott's World War II films.

After the first two episodes, "Rich Man, Poor Man" will cover 20 years in its next 10 shows, all but the last to be shown Monday nights, 10-11 p.m., Eastern time. On Monday, March 22, "Rich Man, Poor Man" will wind up with a final two-hour episode, 9-11 p.m.

The spotlight will be on the different paths the brothers take, one to riches and one toward disaster. Along the way part of the fun promises to be the all-star list of guests to appear, including Steve Allen, Van Johnson, George Maharis, Roy Milland and Craig Stevens.

No overcall on points only

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Forty years ago most bridge players believed that if a hand was worth an opening bid they had to overcall with it. They would stick in a two-diamond overcall with their four quick tricks. West would double and when the smoke had cleared away our hero would have taken his two ace-kings and the defense the other nine tricks.

South would say, "I had a good opening bid." Everyone would sympathize with him, particularly East and West.

No one would point out that if he had kept his mouth shut East and West might well have landed at four spades-down one.

Today most players realize that it is unwise to overcall with a four-card suit at any time and that you really need a six carder for a two-level overcall.

If a modern player did want to bid with that 4-3-3-3 South hand he would make a takeout double. North would respond two clubs and probably would not be doubled. If doubled he would not go down more than two and might get out for one.

County board lauds Janura budget

Small tax hike in forest district

by WANDALYN RICE

A small tax increase, totaling 24 cents per year for the owner of a house with a $10,000 assessed valuation, is planned for the Cook County Forest Preserve District next year.

The budget, which is expected to be approved Feb. 11 at the same time the county board considers its own budget and the budget for the county hospital governing commission, received swift review by county commissioners Tuesday.

The county commissioners finished questioning Forest Preserve Supt. Arthur Janura about his $33.9 million budget in less than an hour, immediately after completing nearly three full days of line-by-line scrutiny of the $174.6 million hospital budget.

JANURA SAID the forest preserve's budget, like the county's budget, contained no cost-of-living increases for employes, and said only 82 of the forest preserve's 769 employes will receive any raises for additional years of service.

County commissioners praised the budget, with Republican Carl Hansen saying he is concerned that many forest preserve employes are not paid enough.

Janura agreed, saying salaries for naturalists and foresters with the forest preserve are not comparable to pay at other park services. "What will happen is we'll become a training ground," he said.

Two major projects for the Northwest suburbs are included in the forest preserve's budget. An 18-hole golf course will be opened between Ela and Roselle roads in Palatine Township in the spring, and work will begin on a lake in the Ned Brown Forest Preserve in Elk Grove Township.

THE LAKE is being constructed as a flood-control project, but Janura said $600,000 in forest preserve money will be used this year to ensure the lake will be suitable for recreation use.

Earlier in the day, commissioners completed questioning of officials from the hospital governing commission on their budget request, which includes a request to raise property taxes 6.5 cents per $100 assessed value.

During the questioning, Dr. James Haughton said the hospital has just received full federal accreditation for the next two years. The accreditation, which ensures a continued flow of federal funds to the hospital, was received despite a doctors strike late last year.

County commissioners complimented Haughton on the accreditation, but indicated they intend to cut the hospital's budget to avoid a tax increase. Comr. Charles Bonk said, "A little surgery may have to be performed on this budget, Dr. Haughton, but we have excellent surgeons on our board. I'm sure it will be as well performed as anything your doctors can do."

'Law Enforcement' on Sunday broadcast

"Law Enforcement" is the topic on Sunday's broadcast of "Focus: Northwest" on WWMM, 92.7 FM at 8 a.m. and 9 p.m.

Gordon Wallace, chief of Harper College's Dept. of Public Safety, will host guests Chief Richard Klatzco of the Northfield Police Dept., Bill Burke, administrator for the University of Illinois Police Training Institute in Lisle, and Deputy Chief Frank Ortiz, Palatine Police Dept.

The guests will discuss the importance and variety of training necessary for good police officers.

"Focus: Northwest" is produced and directed at Harper College, Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine.

No extension for area voter signup

Cook County Clerk Stanley Kusper said Wednesday voter registration for the March 16 primary in suburban village halls and township offices will close Friday, despite protests from Gov. Daniel Walker.

Walker, in a telegram sent to Kusper Tuesday, had asked the county clerk to order suburban voter registration offices to stay open until Feb. 16, the last possible day to register for the March 16 primary.

Kusper said he had not received the telegram Wednesday, but said the governor's request indicated confusion about the clerk's authority over suburban registrations.

KUSPER SAID state law requires suburban village halls and township offices to close voter registration 45 days before the election, meaning registration must close Jan. 30.

Registration in the clerk's office in the county building in downtown Chicago will remain open until Feb. 16 as allowed by law, Kusper said. He said his office will remain open on Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays, Feb. 12 and 16, and on Saturday, Feb. 14 to accommodate persons wishing to register.

"I am most concerned with voter registration. But as a responsible public official, I am also most concerned with obeying the laws of Illinois," Kusper said. "I will not be drawn into a controversy with the governor on a matter so clearly stated in Illinois law."

SUBURBAN CONDOMINIUMS: Ownership brings responsibilities, said Ray Fisher, developer of the Baybrook Park project in Palatine. Buyers should get involved in management, he said.

Involvement is a must for happy condo living

by LEA TONKIN

Get involved, condominium homeowners. It's your best investment in a satisfying lifestyle.

"You're an owner. And when you're an owner, you have a right to control your own destiny," said Ray Fisher, president of Baybrook Associates Inc. and developer of the Baybrook Park condominium development in Palatine.

Fisher's viewpoint is seconded by two other area condo experts and Vicki Drennon, a Baybrook Park resident.

FISHER SAID the fledgling condo owner sometimes expects to settle in a worry-free community where all the maintenance chores and responsibilities of ownership are assumed by managers.

"If you want worry-free living, you need to know what's going on," he said.

A good working relationship among condominium owners, the developer and the manager can make or break a new condominium development. Fisher said Baybrook Park is an example of the need for accountability.

Baybrook Associates acquired the development in late 1974 from the Ben Pekin Corp., original developers. Fisher said he's not looking for comparison to the previous owner. The new developer's policy is aimed at solution of inherited problems, however.

Poor sales and low morale among homeowners were early targets. Although the developer cannot solve every owner's problems, Fisher said, "We're basically responding to things that the homeowners feel are important."

FISHER LEARNED from original buyers at the development that homeowners were concerned about the lack of decision-making power, use of recreational facilities, landscaping and other issues. Policies were changed, landscaping was upgraded and model units were moved to allow greater use of the recreation center. Although the Baybrook Park owners do not have full control of the project board of directors, they are represented by two board members.

The condominium buyer "realizes that it's his responsibility jointly with you," Fisher said. Attention to small details, such as the installation of a gate in the fence surrounding Baybrook Park, can improve relationships within the development and rest of the community, he said.

Monthly assessments are a bugaboo for the condo buyer who isn't aware of the services it covers, the developer said. Fisher urged buyers to check budgets for maintenance and other expenses included in the assessment.

"I'm contributing my fair share and I want them to pay their fair share," he said.

Be willing to sit in on auditing committee sessions to check the budget preparations, Fisher said. Owners can also set the pace for recreational activities, landscape planning and other activities.

ANOTHER CONCERN for buyers of new condo units is the investment value of the home. The "loser image" can turn away new buyers and sour the original buyers, Fisher said. Baybrook Associates started a limited program of rental with an option to buy as a means of shoring up sales. Of the 40 units rented under this program, 38 were sold to the tenants.

Fisher said it was important to communicate the reason for this drastic step to the owners who bought early in the development. "When you're looking at a disaster, you've got to do something about it," he said.

Vicki Drennon and her husband, Gary, owners of a Baybrook Park unit, are veterans of the change in ownership. Mrs. Drennon has served as recreation chairman for the development since September 1974.

The homeowners are happy about landscaping improvements and communication with the new developer, she said, adding that buyers will have a greater voice in management when 70 per cent of the project units are sold.

"When people move into condominiums they sometimes forget that it's not like living in a single-family home," Mrs. Drennon said. "You can't satisfy everyone."

PEOPLE WHO BUY condominium homes can't expect to move in and have all the pieces fall into place, said Mary Ann Wands, vice president of the Hinsdale-based Managers Inc., property management firm. Managers heads the Baybrook Park Homeowners' Assn.

She advises condo buyers to check in advance for the project documents and projected monthly assessments. Take the increased cost of fuel and other expenses into consideration.

"There is no such thing as maintenance-free living," Ms. Wands said. "It doesn't exist." She said buyers should be inquisitive about maintenance and other costs before they buy a condo unit, and they should continue their interest after the deal is closed.

Once you've bought a condo unit, get involved, Ms. Wands said. "It's not good enough to sit around and complain." Make sure the management hired to run the project is qualified, then contribute your share in the homeowners' association. "Get into the swing of things," she said. "The quality of life is important."

Involvement in condo management will protect your investment, said Jesse Fortner, executive director of the Community Associations Institute of Illinois. The organization's 127 area members are representatives of condo homeowners' groups, developers and related professionals.

"Once you buy into a condominium, the first thing you should do is meet with the owner association," Fortner said. "Get involved." Financial planning and other management topics are among the association's concerns, he said.

Builders advise

Condo buyers' checklist vital

Remember to ask questions when you're in the market for a condominium unit, advises the National Assn. of Home Builders.

In a booklet titled, "Condominium Buyers Guide," the association suggests that careful scrutiny of the condominium documents and questions about the housing developer should eliminate possible misunderstandings. Among the questions offered by the builder group are:

What is the builder's reputation? Has he been in the business long? Does he guarantee his work?

- How about the quality of construction? Soundproofing and design, finished workmanship and a warranty should be considered.
- What is included in the basic condominium unit, and exactly where will your living unit be located? What is the size and make of the oven and other appliances?
- How will the recreation facilities be maintained and controlled? Will they be turned over to the homeowners' association, and when? Will outsiders be allowed to use the facilities, and if they are charged a fee, who will receive the income? What are your financial obligations? Will the facilities be leased? What are the terms of the lease, and can it be canceled?
- When will the developer transfer control of the association to homeowners? What happens to monthly fees before and after the change?
- Who is the managing agent — the company or person who actually manages the project? What is the manager's reputation? Check the terms of his contract, and whether another can be hired. If the term of the management contract is long, the fee is large and the owners' association cannot choose another manager, beware. "A sweetheart" contract that does not favor the buyer may have been signed. Find out how much of an owner's monthly assessment will be used for manager's fees.
- Are the common elements adequately insured? The extent and value of coverage should be checked. Fire, theft, workmen's compensation, director's bonds and liability coverage shold be checked. An individual owner should carry a personal insurance coverage for his unit and possessions as well as any personal liability insurance.
- Is there a presale agreement with a financial institution? Such an agreement could prohibit the builder from closing a sale until a number of units are sold or reserved.
- Are there any unusual conditions or restrictions that you should know about? Can you sell the condominium unit without co-owner approval? Who owns utility systems? Can you keep a pet? Do you own a parking space? Can you rent out your unit? Can you remodel your kitchen? Who takes care of snow removal and other services?
- Always ask for condominium documents. The master deed, by-laws, contracts, floor plans and other materials should be thoroughly read. Be sure you understand the documents. If you don't understand the records, contact an attorney for advice.

Prospects good for small homes

Young families will continue to demand small homes, predicted Jackson Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., Boston. The firm is a subsidiary of Investors Mortgage Group Inc.

"Condominiums and townhouses — moderately priced — will do for openers while familial households are still small," Goss said. "Population projections for the next 10 years indicate there will be 15 million more young people in the 21-to-30 age group. These are the family formation years when adequate shelter is a number one concern."

Townhouses and condominium units "are expected to account for a top heavy percentage of the residential market in 1976," Goss said. He cited these attractions:

- An affordable price.
- Built-in community resources such as recreational facilities.
- Minimum maintenance responsibilities.
- Location is generally nearby transportation and employment centers.

Strong sales to stimulate construction of homes

Strong sales of existing or used homes will benefit the new home construction market, suid Kenneth Thygerson, chief economist for the U.S. League of Savings Associations.

"Not only is a strong existing home market a prerequisite for a strong new housing market, it is essential in providing home ownership opportunities for a significant number of American families who simply cannot afford today's new home," Thygerson said.

Thygerson said U.S. savings and loan associations loaned nearly $28 billion for the purchase of existing housing units in 1975. The financing was used in the purchase of 1.2 million homes, The lenders had a total of $54 billion in loans for 1975. Thygerson said the figure could top $70 billion during the coming year.

"In today's economy and with today's prevailing price structure for new homes, essentially the only families who can afford a new home purchase are those with an existing home to sell," the economist said. "The majority of new home buyers are families who have owned a home, cashed in on the home's appreciation and used their gain in equity as a down payment on a new, more expensive home."

Information supplied by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board shows that the typical new home sold for $46,200 at the end of 1975, compared to $37,500 average sale price for an existing home.

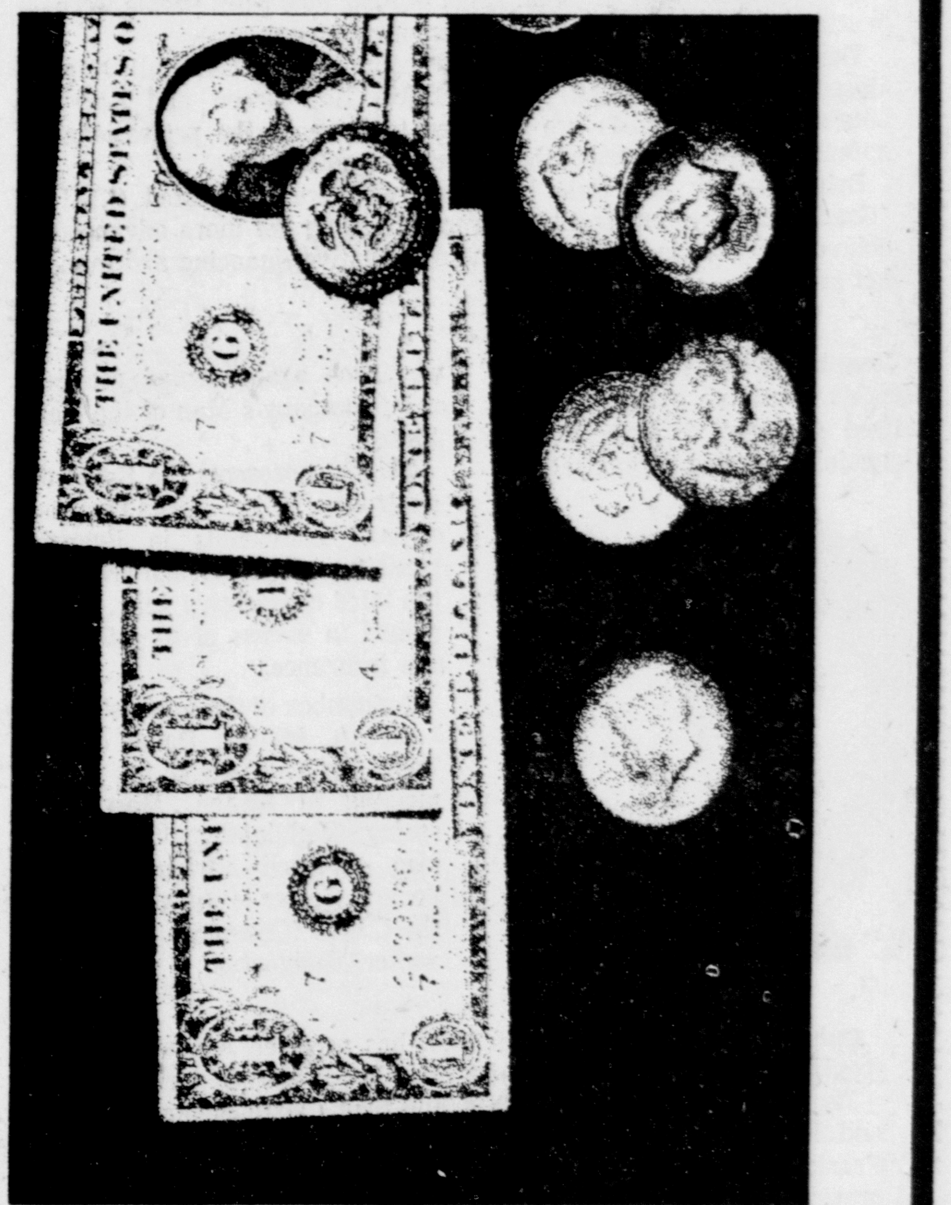
Work your money. Harder.

Inflation has made it necessary for everyone to attempt to maximize the value for each and every dollar. Naturally, funds available for saving or investment should be worked to the fullest. And at First Federal Savings, we help you work your money, harder.

We bring up the point, because at First Federal Savings, your money works harder for you. In fact, it works every day. Our daily interest means your savings are compounded each day. And, on passbook accounts every deposit made before the tenth of each month, earns from the first of that month if on deposit at the end of the calendar quarter. And, every deposit earns from the date of deposit to the date of withdrawal on all accounts. And, all of it earns at the absolute top interest rate.

Today it is more important than ever to make sure that all your funds are always earning the maximum return. And today it is important that savers understand that different accounts should be maintained for different purposes.

Certain funds belong in a readily accessible passbook account. Others can be put aside for longer periods earning higher than passbook rates. We urge you to check over 6 different plans we offer—perhaps two or three meet your savings and investment needs.



5¼% annually, passbook account, compounded daily. Add or withdraw any amount at any time. All funds earn from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal. Yields 5.39%.*

5¾% annually, 3 months certificate, compounded daily. $100 minimum, automatically renewable. Yields 6.00%.

6½% annually, 1-year certificate, compounded daily. $1,000 minimum, automatically renewable. Yields 6.81%.*

6½% annually, 2-year certificate, compounded daily. $1,000 minimum, automatically renewable. Yields 6.81%.*

7½% annually, 4-year certificate, compounded daily. $1,000 minimum, automatically renewable. Yields 7.9%.*

A substantial interest penalty is required for early withdrawal from certificate accounts. Monthly interest checks are available on deposits of $5,000 or more.

*Yield when funds are left to compound for a full year. All interest is payable at the end of each calendar quarter.

New all-time records for residential sales and listings were set in 1975 for the four offices of Century 21-Arlington Realty.

Year end figures show dollar volume up 42 per cent over 1974 and unit sales posted a 30 per cent gain. Totals for 1975 were 459 sales totaling $24,670,550, compared with 353 deals totaling $17,341,100 a year ago. Number of exclusive listings taken by the firm last year numbered 375, which was an increase of 42 per cent over one year ago.

Several individual and office records were also established in 1975, according to Herb Carl, a co-owner of the 26 year old firm with offices in Arlington Heights, Palatine and Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area. Carol Grimm, of the North Arlington office, set an individual volume record for a single month with a total of $540,000 in residential sales during April. Mrs. Grimm was also one of seven associates who qualified for million dollar sales honors.

North Arlington office set a new company record for total sales of a single office with a volume of $10.4 million. It is also the firm's newest office, opened in March, 1975, at 1635 N. Arlington Heights Road. Bob Anderson is sales manager for the office.

Other million dollar producers for 1975 were Evelyn Hines, Ed Joyce, Lillian Kurz, Stella Veliotis, Dorothy Jacobs, Nora Walther, Betty Kunzweiler and Cliff Johnson.

MGM Realty, Niles, has sold the two-story six-apartment building at 8890 Root St., Des Plaines, according to Sam Sklar, office manager.

Joseph Eakes has been named December residential sales leader of the month for the Des Plaines Office of Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors.

Joseph Eakes

This was the first time Eakes earned the honor of sales leader of the month, since he joined the residential sales staff in 1972.

A native of Topeka, Kansas, Eakes has been a sales associate with Kunkel since 1972, and also serves as an associate member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors. He is a graduate of Topeka High School and served in the U.S. Marine Corps from which he received an honorable discharge in 1970.

Eakes resides in Wheeling with his wife and their one-year-old daughter.

Rich Roehm

Rick Roehm of Hoffman Estates has been named Junior Associate of the Year as account executive with Alfred A. Eppel and Associates. His organization specializes in all areas of financial planning including estate planning, business insurance, pensiof and profit sharing plans and fringe benefit programs.

Roehm placed in excess of $1 million of new insurance, and was chosen as a member of the 1975 Pan-American President's Club.

Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors, has represented two leasings for the Le ronde Office Plaza, Des Plaines, and two other leasings at separate locations in the area, one which included renovating an old supermarket into a furniture store.

Naked Furniture, a dealer in unpainted furniture and accessories, has leased 8600 square feet of the old Jewel Foods building on Ellinwood Street in downtown Des Plaines. The company is already located in Schaumburg and Wheaton.

Kunkel also represented Carlyle Imports in the leasing of 4200 square feet at 1684 Wolf Rd. in Wheeling. This location will be Carlyle's national warehouse and distribution center for importing oil paintings and artist supplies.

Swanson & Foxen Associates, agents for New England Life Insurance, is one of two recent leasings at the Le ronde Office Plaza, 950 Lee Street, Des Plaines. Swanson & Foxen have leased 600 square feet of space. The other new lessee is Marcus/Blaine Design Inc., which has approximately 1500 square feet of space on the second floor, to house the firm's advertising art and layout studio, including computer typesetting capabilities.

The O'Hare Group, Realtors for Business and Industry, have opened their February 18 meeting to one of its members for a session on real estate exchanging.

William Warr, C.C.I.M., will utilize existing O'Hare Group listings in illustrating the opportunities and benefits that exist in exchanging investment properties. Warr, who is affiliated with V.I.P. Investments, was recipient of the 1975 Synder Award given by the Realtors National Marketing Institute.

Any Realtor engaged in suburban commercial industrial properties who would care to attend this session as a guest of the O'Hare Group may do so by contacting Frank Kotnaur at 298-5055.

Annual life insurance is most logical

Managing your family's money

by MERLE E. DOWD

Q. "My husband is still in school working for his doctorate, and we now have a baby. We need insurance, but his fellowship and my part-time work leave us very little cash. Would we be better off to pay a small amount in cash and borrow part of the premium for permanent insurance or pay the full rate for term coverage?"

B.E.

A. To buy the most protection for the fewest dollars, you should buy annual, renewable, convertible term life insurance only on your husband's life. Shop around among several companies for the lowest price term coverage.

Borrowing part of the premium to get started on a cash-value insurance policy will commit you to relatively higher payments later plus interest on the loan. Renewable term assures your husband's insurability later. If you should wish to convert to permanent or cash-value insurance later, the convertibility feature will permit changing without a medical exam.

While decreasing term may provide slightly more coverage during early years, the difference between the decreasing term and annual, renewable, convertible term is not worth the difference.

Q. "I have seen ads for various clubs or organizations associated with savings and loan associations offering free services to depositors. I'm wondering — are they really free? If so, what's the catch? Do these S&Ls pay less interest than others?"

B.H.

A. Clubs and free gifts by savings and loan associations (S&Ls) offer a prime example of how government price controls affect business. S&L interest rates are controlled by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. So, S&L's compete by offering related services — free copies of documents, free traveler's checks and free gifts twice a year instead of offering higher interest.

The Statesman's Club and the Saver's Club are two examples of ways S&Ls encourage deposits and discourage withdrawals. The Statesman's Cub offers space for members to telephone, drink a relaxed cup of coffee, attend financial presentations, travel at group rates or to simply rest one's feet after shopping. The Saver's Club offers members discounts on meals, lodging and other services by cooperating businesses.

Memberships in the Statesman's and Saver's Clubs require minimum deposits at the sponsoring institution. As long as you plan to keep funds in an insured bank or S&L, you might as well get other services too as long as they are free. Ordinarily, an S&L will pay competing interest rates regardless of club membership, so there's no "catch." But, check to be sure.

Q. "Keeping my checkbook balanced with the bank's monthly statement nearly drives me up the wall. I either forget to enter checks when I write one in a hurry, or I write the wrong amount — or something. I've tried different systems, and I still overdraw my account because I think I have more money on deposit than I do. What can I do?"

J.P.

A. Yours is not an uncommon problem, and it took a woman's approach to solving it — possibly. A new checking service is being offered by The First Women's Bank of New York. Their new checkbook includes checks with a carbonless replica behind each blank.

Every time you write a check, you automatically write a copy for your records — you can't forget, and the amount on your copy is the amount on your check. You must still keep the carbonless copies and construct a check register to keep track of your uncommitted funds. But, the Women's Bank statement will print out the checks that have cleared the bank to simplify reconciling your check register.

You might contact your bank to see if they are considering offering a similar service. Good ideas have a way of getting around in a hurry.

Q. "When do the new one-stop tour charters (OTC) start? We would like to plan a trip over the Christmas holidays. Will OTC's be ready by that time?"

G.F.

A. By the time you read this, applications for tour charters that include air and surface transportation, lodging and some or all meals will be up for approval by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Don't look for many one-stop tour charters to be available before the end of November. Should a court challenge be filed, OTCs could be delayed. Otherwise, tours should be ready and available in time for Christmas travel. The package tours are expected to offer significant savings.

At Arlington Federal

Savings chair goes to Morton

Donald Morton

Donald F. Morton, president of Arlington Federal Savings and Loan Association, was electee chairman of the board and chief executive officer at its annual board meeting last week.

He succeeds Virgil K. Horath, who elected to retire as of Jan. 21. A member of the board for all but two months since its establishment in March 1953, Horath served as chairman for the past five years.

Morton became president and chief executive officer in 1968, succeeding Paul E. Collins, principal founder of the association which began operations less than 23 years ago in Arlington Heights.

The year 1975 produced the largest net inflow of savings in the Association's history, Morton reported at the annual meeting. Savers added $27,728,828 to their accounts last year — 24.35 per cent increase. Total assets exceeded $166 million as of Dec. 31, Morton noted.

He announced that the Association's fourth branch is scheduled to open in Mount Prospect today. It follows upon other Arlington Federal offices in North Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Lake Zurich.

The new chairman, who has been a fulltime staff member of Arlington Federal for over 20 years of its 23-year history, has served as president of the American Savings and Loan Institute, educational and professional arm of the industry (since renamed the Institute of Financial Education) and is currently a director of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago, one of 12 regional Federal banks which lend to savings and loan member institutions and supervise their operations.

Mortgage borrowers now have the option of either of two reduced-rate plans. Offering the choice is $190 million Lincoln Federal Savings and Loan Association of Berwyn which has an office in Hoffman Estates.

President Frank J. Kinst has announced 29-year 61 to 80 per cent single family home loans at either 8.7 per cent annual interest and 1½ points or 8.75 per cent interest and one point.

Mortgages representing 51 to 60 per cent of appraised value will go at 8.6 and 1½ points or 8.65 and one point. Those of 50 per cent and less will be available at 8.5 and 1½ or 8.55 and one point.

Break-even point. Kinst says, is five years. He notes:

"If a family foresees a move before five years, it will be better off at the slightly higher interest rate and one point service charge. On the other hand, if more than five years occupancy is expected, the lower interest and 1½ points is advisable."

No appraisal fee, credit charge or "pre-pay" penalty is called for on the preceding.

Prior to the announcement, Lincoln Federal was offering 29-year "80 per centers" as part of a terraced schedule at 8.88 per cent and 1¾ points.

An initial $20 million has been set aside for mortgages to be written at the main Berwyn office, Columbia Federal division in North Riverside, Altamont Federal division in Altamont and Lincoln Federal in Hoffman Estates.

Net savings deposits in 1975 rose 20 per cent or a record $89 million at St. Paul Federal Savings and Loan Association of Chicago, Faustin A. Pipal, board chairman, reported.

St. Paul has become Illinois' fourth largest savings and loan with savings deposits at December 31, $537,098,047, up from $447,922,613 a year ago.

Pipal said assets increased by 14.8 per cent, moving up to $613,976,660 from $534,839,542 at the beginning of the year.

St. Paul made loan disbursements during 1975 of $108 million, and Pipal pointed out that almost 75 per cent of these funds went to finance single family homes in neighborhoods served by St. Paul's offices.

With its main headquarters at 6700 W. North Ave., Chicago, St. Paul currently has offices also in Franklin Park, Rolling Meadows, Hanover Park, Bartlett and 18th and Leavitt, Chicago.

MAP reports increased sales volume in 1975

"We are more than pleased, we are stimulated and proud of our 1975 real estate sales results," said Stan Lieberman, president of MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service on the recently released 1975 MAP sales volume.

In 1975, the MAP multiple organization was responsible for 7,004 actual real estate sales, resulting in a total sales volume of $343,537,409, establishing an all-time yearly high for MAP and a sales volume which is 25 per cent higher than the previous yearly high recorded in 1974.

"The most interesting aspect of the 1975 record sales volume is the tremendous increase in customer inquiry and the significant buyers' confidence change that we noticed in 1975," says Lieberman. "Our offices reported definite increases in home buyers and sellers throughout the year and we have every confidence that the current home market will remain active in 1976, certainly for the first two quarters and probably throughout the entire year."

Noteworthy of the MAP 1975 sales report is the average per home sale of over $49,000, a figure which reflects the steady increase in home values in the Northwest suburbs. For example in 1964, MAP records indicate that the average per home sales was $23,075 and $33,442 in 1969.

In 1975, the cooperating MAP offices recorded a total of 10,992 actual listings.

"We are not planning to stand pat in themarket," says Lieberman. "We are developing major system and operation changes that will definitely increase our efficiency and make home buying and selling even more practical and expedient for customers. We are always interested in being ahead of the industry in innovations and conveniences that make our multiple one of the most influential in the nation.

"On behalf of the officers and directors of MAP, I would like to commend all the MAP offices for their obvious sales successes in 1975 and offer our complete faith, trust and assistance for an equally successful 1976," says Lieberman.

Guidelines for picking remodeler

Decisions to enter into major home remodeling often come after weeks of family discussion, newspaper and magazine scanning and automobile "rubber-necking" for ideas.

Considering such painstaking search for inspiration, it comes as a surprise to a busurban savings and loan executive that many families choose the first contractor they speak to.

Dennis B. Kosobucki, assistant vice president of $190 million Lincoln Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Berwyn, has some definite guidelines for prudent families to follow:

- Do business with an established firm. Avoid itinerants who "just happen to be in the area."
- Before signing a contract, determine if the contractor enjoys a good reputation for performing satisfactorily.
- Check some homeowners who have dealt with the firm within the last couple of years. Any contractor will give you the name of past customers.
- Be cautious of a contractor or salesman who uses "high pressure" tactics to induce you to sign a contract immediately without permitting investigation.
- Be certain all guarantees are clearly included with the contract as well as what procedures will be followed.
- Obtain more than one estimate for a specific job. (Confucius recommended getting three prices. Be sure the same "specs" are used.
- Make certain the contractor is authorized to represent the manufacturers' product.
- If you have any doubts about the remodeling contract, contact an attorney for legal advice.
- Before signing, require the contractor to include in his contract the fact that he will give you a contractor's statement listing all the persons who will furnish labor and materials on your job. Obtain the price due each of these individuals or firms as well as waivers of lien.
- Do not sign any contract or any form in blank.
- Be extremely cautious of a contractor who offers you a "bonus" on every sale resulting from your job. This practice is prohibited by the Federal Housing Administration.
- Do not sign any completion certificates until the work is fully completed.

Lack of "up-front money," Kosobucki said, should not delay the start of a home improvement job. No money down financing with loans up to $10,000 amortized over as many as 12 years are available at institutions such as Lincoln Federal which has an office in Hoffman Estates.

And, Kosobucki noted, a minimum of "paper work" is involved for the homeowner to obtain 100 per cent financing.

Arlington Federal opens new branch

A branch office of Arlington Federal will b opened in Mount Prospect today. It is located at 1604 W. Golf Rd., just east of Busse Road.

It is the fourth branch to be opened in the Northwest suburbs by the savings and loan association, whose assets as of year-end 1975 exceeded $166 million. The others are located in Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village and Lake Zurich.

Donald F. Morton, Arlington Federal president, has named Janet Anderson, a Mount Prospect resident, to serve as branch manager. Ms. Anderson joined the association staff in 1969 and most recently served as supervisor, teller department, main office.

Buying a house?

Consider location, condition—then financing

Once you have a general idea of how much you can afford to spend on a house — about 2½ times your gross income as a "rule of thumb" — your best bet is to set aside financial consideration and concentrate on finding the kind of house you want in the community you prefer.

"It's a mistake to dwell on financing," advises Robert G. Walters, senior vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc., and general manager of its residential sales division. "There are so many ways to finance a home purchase, you could be making a serious mistake by giving up your house-hunting before you've even begun by convincing yourself you can't afford it."

A more sensible order of househunting priorities is location, condition of the home and then financing, according to Walters, who asserts that headlines on the high cost of housing may be frightening off qualified buyers.

By "location" he means both a general area, like the North Side of Chicago, or a specific suburb and even a particular community with the broader area. The things you should be considering as a homeowner, even if you've lived your whole life in an area or just arrived in town, include:

- What type of community is it? On the face of it, do you like the general characteristics and location? Is it young or aging? Does it offer the kind of social, civic and recreational opportunities that interest you?
- Transportation. If you depend on public transportation, are railroads and buses nearby and conveniently scheduled? What about roads, expressways and tollways?
- Community facilities. How convenient and what is the quality of schools, churches, hospitals, theaters, playgrounds and shopping centers?
- Services. Find out about fire and police protection, garbage pick-up, water, sewers, street lighting and utilities. Determine whether these exist, or whether they'll be provided in the future, involving higher taxes.
- Local laws and regulations. Most important are the building and zoning codes which determine what you can do to the house, and what might be built around you.
- Personal factors. Do you like living on a side street, or do you prefer a through street? What kind of neighbors will you have? Are there children to play with your children? Or maybe you'd want no children around you? What about pets?
- Environment. What kind of houses are in the neighborhood? Is the location quiet? Is there an all-night store right around the corner?

"Once you've decided on the location, the next thing is to consider the physical condition of the house you're considering. If you're looking at several, take notes so you'll remember what you've seen," he suggested.

Among the important aspects of physical condition are these:

- Look for a solid foundation. Cracks in the basement walls may be a tip-off to more trouble on the way. Sagging beams and joists are another danger signal.
- Is there a water line around the basement walls? That is usually a sign of past flooding. Ask if precautions have been taken to prevent any further flooding.
- Inspect for water spots on the ceiling, a possible indication of a leaky roof.
- Check the tightness of doors and windows; in cold weather, feel for drafts. Also, inspect the attic or roof crawl space, if you can, for thickness and evenness of insulation.
- Find out if the electrical system is up to modern standards. Ask how old the furnace is. Look for leaky faucets. If in doubt, call in an expert.
- Check outside the house for the condition of gutters and downspouts, condition of the walls, cracked sidewalks or driveways.

"You can expect to find some signs of wear in any house, but don't reject a property just because of this," advises Walters. "The question is, does the price of repairs added to the price of the house still make the house worth considering?"

If you've found a house that suits you in the community you prefer, the next point is financing it. Here you must consider what kind of down payment you can make, and what kind of monthly payment you can afford.

"As a rule of thumb, you can probably afford a home priced at 2½ times your gross income," Walters says. "Your total monthly payment of principal, interest, taxes, and insurance shouldn't exceed 25 per cent of your family's gross monthly income. Never extend yourself; stay within your purchasing power."

Walters urges shoppers to be frank about their financial status when talking to a realtor.

"He'll know what you can or can't afford and will save you time by showing you the home best suited to your needs," he said. "If you aren't frank with the realtor, the mortgage lender will most certainly catch up with you. By being frank from the outset, you'll save yourself time, grief and embarrassment — and wind up with the home of your dreams, or the next thing to it."

A record year for 1st National of Des Plaines

1975 was a record year for the First National Bank of Des Plaines, according to Arthur R. Weiss, president.

Total earnings, deposits and assets attained an all time high. Consolidated income before securities gains rose to $1,700,220 from $1,494,665 earned in 1974. On a per share basis the increase was to $3.07 from $2.70 the previous year.

Consolidated net income after securities gains amounted to $1,751,291 or $3.16 per share compared with $1,510,209 or $2.73 in 1974.

Deposits totaled $127,873,926 a gain of 8.1 per cent of $9,530,616 over the previous year.

Total assets reached $152,910,480 as compared with $134,802,566 in 1974, an increase of 13 per cent. Loans constituted 51.8 per cent of total assets.

With plans for the completion of the new drive-in, walk-in Convenience Center, the First is looking forward to an even better year in '76. Weiss explained, "The Convenience Center, which will open this Spring, has been designed to ease the traffic congestion at our present drive-in facilities. And it will provide a mini-bank facility offering the usual bank services beyond normal banking hours for our customers' convenience.

"Construction of the new First National Bank Building in the Superblock development is well underway with the occupancy scheduled for early 1977," said Weiss.

During inflation . . . and we've had nothing else for many years . . . there's a good case to be made for investing in real estate. Most of the price paid for property is paid for with borrowed money. This money is repaid later with dollars that will almost certainly be "cheaper" than the ones you borrow today.

Since inflation is a fact of life that we can expect to be here always, just be sure you are using it to your own advantage. Let us help you decide if your present house will benefit from inflation as much as other property you might own.

You might be interested in buying income property by "trading on your equity" in property you now own.

Rental market flourishes at Walden complex

The rental market is very much alive at Walden in Schaumburg, a 968-unit apartment and townhome development where two models have just been opened for inspection. Designed for a wide range of residential needs, the Walden rental complex offers both family-sized rental townhomes and rental units for singles, young marrieds and mature couples. Monthly rates range from $235 for a studio and start at $250 for one-bedroom apartments, $310 for two-bedroom apartments, and from $380 to $500 for the two, three and four-bedroom townhouses.

The new models are one and two-bedroom apartments, listed at $265 and $365 per month respectively. The two-bedroom unit has two full baths, one of which is private to the master bedroom, which has its own compartmented dressing room. The master suite also has two large closets and a fully mirrored area with vanity in the dressing room.

The living room in this apartment is 17 feet by 15 feet with sliding glass doors opening onto two separate private balconies. There is a separate dining room and a completely applianced kitchen.

The one-bedroom unit has an 18 foot living room, separate dining room and a private balcony off the living room. The bedroom suite has a large compartmented dressing room and two big closets. In both these apartments, as in other Walden units, rent includes heat, water, drapes, carpeting, refrigerator, gas stove, dishwasher, disposal, complete maintenance and full use of the large recreational and social complex. The resident pays for his own electricity and central air, or air conditioning units are provided.

There are a number of various floor plans from which the interested renter can choose in the Walden units, encompassing studio, one and two-bedroom apartments, two, three and four-bedroom townhomes. To date, the developer, the Walden Investment Corporation, has completed and leased almost 1,000 units in 82 buildings. The residential section of the planned unit development lies near a landscaped area with lakes and pedestrian walkways with a large clubhouse and outdoor recreational complex. Also a part of the Walden development are a Sheraton Inn, Contented Sole restaurant and two five-story office buildings.

The social and recreation area, reserved exclusively for Walden residents, has four tennis courts a sand volleyball court, four swimming pools (three outdoor and one indoor year-around pool), a coed gymnasium, men and women's saunas, a large lounge that serves as a party room with full kitchen facilities, a wet bar, bridge and hobby rooms, as well as children's playground. These facilities are housed in two separate recreational centers.

Other amenities include a free hourly shuttle bus service to O'Hare International Airport and four times daily to the Chicago and North Western commuter station in Palatine, plus the services of a full-time social director who plans a variety of activities for residents. All new residents of Walden are given a complimentary brunch ticket for two at the neighboring Sheraton Inn.

To reach the new models, take Route 62, Algonquin Road, west of Rt. 53 one-half mile to the entrance of Walden Apartments on the left. The models are open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Walden apartments provide country look for renters

Housing dearth creates rush for area apartments

Because of the tight apartment market this spring, tenants are urged to sign and return their lease renewals as quickly as possible, advises William D. Sally, CPM, vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc., and general manager of the company's property management division.

"There are signs of an apartment shortage in many parts of Chicago and in some suburbs," Sally said. "Few new apartments have been built and many high quality existing ones have been converted to condominiums. Meanwhile, the number of people in the market has increased, all of which means there will be fewer apartments to go around.

"So a tenant who delays in signing a lease renewal is running the risk that his own apartment will be rented to someone else, and at the same time he is reducing his own chances of finding another place to live before the traditional May 1 lease beginning date."

The Baird & Warner executive cautions tenants against thinking that when they get their lease renewal notice from their landlord, they're home free. The lease renewal is not a contract until it has been signed by the tenant, returned to the owner, and signed by him. Until this is done, the lease renewal can be changed or even withdrawn.

"To be fair with our tenants and give them as much time as possible to make up their minds, we send our lease renewals out 100 days in advance along with a letter requesting a reply by a specific date, usually 30 to 45 days later," Sally said.

"If the tenant doesn't reply, he gets a second letter telling him that if the lease is not returned by a certain date, his apartment will be put on the market. In most cases, the cut-off date is 45 days ahead of the lease termination. If the tenant hasn't decided by then, he still has enough time to look around and we have time to find another tenant."

Other real estate management companies may give less time. Some companies may only give four weeks' notice. This puts the squeeze on the tenant because if he doesn't renew immediately, he has only a few weeks to look for a new apartment.

"I would definitely advise tenants to sign and return their lease renewals immediately, even if they have 45 days to do so," Sally says. "There is always the chance that the owner will die, the building will be sold, utility rates will increase, or something else will happen that will cause the management to withdraw the offer. So there's no point in procrastinating."

What if your landlord doesn't give you a lease renewal? Contrary to what some people think, he is under no legal obligation to do so, or even to tell you one way or the other, unless your present lease specifically says he must notify you.

If your record shows you have a habit of being late with the rent, don't be surprised if the landlord doesn't offer you a new lease, Sally said. With the increased cost of operating a building, prompt payment of rent is more important than ever, he said.

"If I were a tenant and did not hear from my landlord 90 days ahead of my present lease termination date, I would get in touch with him and find out what his plans are;" Sally said. "Sometimes the delay is due to paperwork, but it could be intentional."

If you get no lease renewal notice at all, your lease is up on the termination date and you have to move — unless you pay another month's rent and the landlord accepts it.

"In that case the law considers you a 'hold-over' tenant and you have another full year's lease at the same rent as the old one," Sally said. "But the landlord has to accept the next month's rent when you offer it. If he refuses it, you ar not a 'hold-over' tenant and you don't have another year's lease, so you have to move."

Being a 'hold-over' tenant can sometimes backfire. In one case, Sally recalls, a manager forgot to notify a tenant that his lease would not be renewed and then accepted his rent for the first month after the lease had expired. The courts upheld the tenant's 'hold-over' tenancy when the management tried to evict him.

Four months into the 'hold-over' tenancy the tenant was transferred to another city, now he tried to get out of this legal hold-over status, claiming that it was only month-to-month. But a hold-over lease is for a full year. This time the management won its point in court, and the hold-over tenant was held responsible for the eight months left on the lease.

"The only time a hold-over lease can be for less than a year is when the landlord agrees to this in writing," Sally said.

Incidents of landlords refusing to renew leases, or of not notifying tenants, or of hold-over leases are the exception rather than the rule. If that weren't the case, the apartment situation in Chicago would be chaotic. Still, rather than take chances, the wise tenant should get his lease renewal offer as quickly as possible, sign it, and return it to the owner or managing agent immediately to eliminate any chances that he'll be left out in the cold.

Mr. Meltzer on real estate

by Bernard Meltzer

The sale of recreational lots in faraway places is in the doldrums. However, a new gimmick is going stronger than ever. It's a promise by promoters that they can obtain buyers at a substantial profit. The owner is asked to send only a fee — as their share of printing up a catalog.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: I know 1976 will be a good year because I have just received some very good news. I thought my lot in Arizona wasn't worth very much, but now I learn I can sell it at a $3,000 to $5,000 profit. Isn't that a nice way to start a new year?

Four years ago I bought a half-acre lot for $3,000. For the past two years I have been trying to sell it. No luck! In fact, one broker to whom I wrote told me I would be lucky to get $300 for the lot.

Out of the clear blue, I received a letter last month, advising that there are buyers willing to pay to up $6,000 for my lot. While weighing what I should do, a seond letter arrived, giving me even better news. This company advised that they had buyers willing to pay up to $8,000 for my lot.

Both companies work this way: they make up a catalog and send it out to the people they have who buy lots. My share for the printing expenses would be $250.

If they sell my lot, I pay them a 10 per cent commission. The $250 would be applied against the commission, so I would lose nothing.

I am eager to hear what you think of my good fortune. Also, can you explain why the market in Arizona has gotten so active recently, when for the past two years it was in the doldrums?

—MY LUCKY YEAR IS HERE!

I agree — Lady Luck is smiling upon you. It's not that you can sell your lot at a profit, but because you wrote to me before sending off your money. You are very lucky — you have just saved $250!

The market for lots such as you own is now about nonexistent. If you examine carefully the letters sent to you, you will note that they are not about people who want to buy lots, but instead offer a vague promise that they will try to get people who may be interested in buying your lot. Here's how the gimmick works.

A "sucker list" is made up of persons who now own lots. This is gotten from the records. The promise is then made that buyers can be obtained. To bring this about, the owner is asked to pay a fee for making up a catalog.

These catalogs are then given limited distribution. The promoters have complied with the law, but they now have several hundred or several thousand fees of $250 each — which adds up to a lot of money.

In the one year I have been following this promotional scheme, I know of no case where anyone was able to sell his lot in undeveloped areas at profits such as you menion. However, I do know of many cases where, after listing in the catalog, owners have received offers of 5 or 10 per cent of what they paid for their lots.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: My husband is a real estate broker. He doesn't make enough money. This past year he earned less than $14,000.

He is talented, works hard and has a winning personality. He is much above average. But all this doesn't mean money in the bank.

My husband explains his lack of a good income by saying that people in real estate don't make much money. If this is so, he is going to change businesses. Before I insist on it, tell me if this is true.

—DISILLUSIONED WIFE.

You may think your husband is much above average in personality and talent, but he is way below average when it comes to making money. Realtors, in general, are doing much better.

The median income for the real estate broker in 1974 was $24,000. Full time salespeople had a median income of $12,000; part-time salespersons, $3,000.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: I have a horrible problem. I have just finished a two bedroom addition to my house, but there is no building permit. I refuse to pay the contractors the money due them until they produce a building permit. They say they don't have to.

I started out with an estimate of $12,000 from a local contractor to do the whole job. Being an engineer, I knew it was too high. So I signed a contract with a carpenter, a plumber, an electrician and a general handyman. Between the four, the job was finished at a cost of less than $10,000.

I'm happy with my savings, but distressed about the problem. Rather than bring this to a lawsuit, we have all agreed to abide by your decision. What is customary in cases like this?

—WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

I am afraid that getting the building permit was your problem. Here's the general rule to guide you.

If you engage a contractor to do the entire job, then he is responsible for obtaining a building permit. However, if you subcontract the job, as you did, you have become your own general contractor, and the responsibility for the permit is yours.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: As I grow older, I appreciate this country more and more. I would like to display my affection in a visible form. I want to install a flagpole.

Every morning I want to raise the flag and every evening take it down, just as I did when I was in the military service. An aluminum flagpole about 30 feet high would be just right. Do you have any idea what it would cost?

—MORE AND MORE PATRIOTIC.

Based upon the latest information, with normal foundation problems the cost of a 30-foot aluminum flagpole, installed, is about $800.

We're National, but we're Neighborly.™

GETTING IT ALL TOGETHER: You don't have to wait for those retirement years to pare down to a simple life. Start planning to keep possessions under control by choosing functional, handsome pieces like these by Founders. Called Patters 33, the group comes in a spice or briar finish in oak solids and veneers.

Your home

by Carolyn Murray

Nothing in the rule book says you have to keep moving from small to larger spaces as you mature and acquire more money and possessions. We apologize for those one-room stages of our lives, hoping people will understand that someday we'll have more space for living.

What's sad is that we usually end up with too much of everything — space, possessions and obligations. Then the system reverts, and we try to unload!

The room shown here contains everything one needs to enjoy life. Assuming the kids are grown or never did appear on the scene, this garden-apartment idea is a good solution. It's a living bedroom or a bed-living room. Or home.

While the room has been beautifully co-ordinated in one line of furniture — Founders new Patterns 33 — the space would work as well with a mix. The advantage of this group is its flexibility. Bookcases stack atop closed storage; mirrors become decorative as well as functional; the bed headboard is a handsome, simple unit.

There's a noticeable Oriental influence and a clean architectural character that makes the furniture easy to live with. Crafted from oak solids and veneers, it offers a texture which is pleasing to touch.

With the group shown in a spice finish, all earth tones are compatible. And other piquant touches of spice — such as paprika, citrus yellow and chile orange — lend flavor to the color scheme.

Living a one-room lifestyle need not mean a one-track life. Here the pet project of writing a cookbook or creating original stitchery can be contained. There's room galore for socializing, gardening and music listening — and this one spot is a nice place to come home to.

Million dollar club

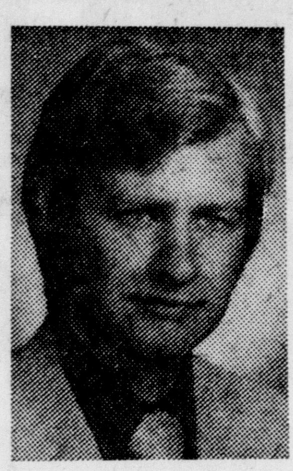
Don Jeschke



Paul Warra

C. C. Whistler

Three more sales associates at Annen & Busse have become eligible for the Million Dollar Sales Club in 1975. Don Jeschke, Paul Wavra and C. C. "Curly" Whistler surpassed the million dollar sales mark during December, bringing to a total 16 members of the Annen & Busse staff who have reached this goal.

Jeschke, six-year member of the firm, serving from their Palatine office, receives his $1 million award for the fourth time. He is also a member of the firm's President's Club and holds Top Salesman of the Year award from his respective office for 1972.

Wavra, new to the real estate field late last year and serving from the Annen & Busse Schaumburg location, reached his $1 million goal for the first time in December, his first full year in the real estate business.

Whistler, joining Annen & Busse in their Mt. Prospect location late in 1973, surpassed his million dollars for the first time this year. He also gained his real estate broker license during the year, as well as completing the second portion of the three course G.R.I. (Graduate, Realtors Institute) sponsored by the Illinois Association of Realtors and held in Peoria twice a year. He plans to complete his G.R.I. designation during 1976.

Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, recently honored real estate sales representatives for selling $1 million or more during 1975.

Recognition was given to Robert Griffith, sales manager of the Buffalo Grove area office, who sold more than $2 million in 1975.

Those honored for selling $1 million or more in 1975 are:

Arlington Heights-Mt. Prospect area office: Daniel Caporusso, sales manager, Robert Evans, Maryann Irey, Bunny Kaywood, Bunny Polanzi and Anthony Vasta.

Palatine area office: Beverly Ann Berry, sales manager, Mary Ann Falkenberg, Mary Mitchell and Grace Sullivan.

Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates area office: Patricia Caldwell, Marion Kminek, Merna Meyer, Joyce Richards and Kathleen Wojcik.

Eleven members of Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors, Des Plaines and Arlington Heights sales staff were honored recently for achieving real estate sales of $1 million or more in 1975.

This achievement automatically qualified each of the 11 winners for the "Million Dollar Sales Club" of the Illinois Association of Realtors. Four of the 11 sales associates are lifetime members for earning this honor three years in a row. They are "Woody" Squassoni (sixth year), Florence Villadonga (fourth year), Frank Kotnaur (third year), and Penny Savage (third year). Mrs. Villadonga and Squassoni were specially honored for attaining more than $2 million in sales in 1975.

Other million dollar sales performers were Anne Georges, William Danielson, John Bye, Larry Johnson, Doug De Cremer, Hugh Kelley and Jim McLaughlin.

Bessie Wright

Bessie Wright, sales representative in the Mt. Prospect office of Robert L. Nelson Real Estate, Inc. achieved more than $1 million in sales for 1975.

Mrs. Wright is a lifetime member of the MAP Multiple Listing and Nelson Million Dollar Clubs and has sold more than $1 million in nine of the last 10 years.

Howard Kagay, sales manager of Baird & Warner's Arlington Heights office, has chalked up $2 million in completed real estate sales for the fourth consecutive year. It was also the eighth successive year in which Kagay, a lifelong resident of the Arlington Heights area, has posted $1 million or more in sales.

Kagay has been active in real estate sales for the past 19 years. He was named manager of Baird & Warner's Arlington Heights office in January, 1973.

Kagay is a life member of the Million Dollar Club of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards and also has his RI designation. He is currently secretary of the MAP Multiple Listing Service.

WHY PAY RENT?

OR SMALL DOWN PAYMENT

Why pay rent when there's a better way. Venture Realty will show you February 5th at the Holiday Inn across from Randhurst Shopping Center at 7 P.M. The purpose of this seminar is to advise persons who are currently renting how they can own a home with no money down or a small down payment. You're invited to participate in this "renters seminar" at no charge or obligation.

EXPERTS TELL OF TAX ADVANTAGES OF OWNERSHIP

Featured speakers are:
Dennis Buyer, Attorney at Law
Dick Grantz, Modern American Mortgage Corp.
Stanley Gurnick PhD., Tax Consultant

You'll hear about the legal aspects of home purchasing, the best ways to finance a home, the tax ramifications of home ownership, condominium versus townhomes versus single family residences. Other topics to be discussed will be low or no money down payment loans, government sponsored and conventional. For further information and to reserve a seat

Call Paul Kolaski at 298-2155.

World's future energy need may be met with solar heat transformed into electricity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new type of orbital power station using thousands of acres of mirrors to turn solar heat into electricity has been proposed as a possible answer to the world's energy needs in the next century.

The satellite would be immense — something on the order of eight or nine miles across. It would generate enough electricity to light and heat a million households.

The energy would be beamed 22,300 miles to Earth in the form of microwave radiation. Ground antennas about five miles in diameter would receive this energy, convert it to alternating current and feed the electricity into the nation's power grids.

The idea of an orbiting generator was first proposed in 1968 by Dr. Peter E. Glaser of Arthur D. Little, Inc., Cambridge, Mass. His idea is to use massive banks of solar cells to convert sunlight directly into electricity the same way solar cells are used to power most spacecraft of today.

The latest proposal was presented last week to a Senate subcommittee by Richard W. Taylor, vice president of the Boeing Co. It would use heat concentrated by plastic film mirrors to drive a set of helium gas turbines which would turn alternators to generate electricity.

Both generators would be placed in stationary orbit where their orbital speed would match Earth's rotation and they thus would remain over one point on Earth. Solar energy in such an orbit would be constant nearly 24 hours a day.

One major problem with both types of space generators is that they would require huge rockets to launch satellite components into orbit where they would be assembled.

Boeing estimates its power station would weigh 100,000 tons and Glaser's would be about 25,000 tons, depending on power output.

For the single woman

Apartments go light, airy

Thanks to Hollywood, we all have a pretty good idea of what a bachelor pad ought to look like. But what about the bachelorette, the single woman living alone?

"Light and airy," exclaims Betty Jo Elliott of Baird & Warner, Inc., resident manager of the Country Lane Apartments in Schaumburg.

Ms. Elliott, who holds a bachelor's degree in interior design, says that, equal rights notwithstanding, there is decidedly a difference between feminine and masculine design approaches.

"Women seem to prefer a light, delicate, open look while the men typically lean to something that is bold, massive, and generally darker," she observed.

One of the three furnished models at Country Lane, the two-bedroom "F" unit, provides an example of how today's single woman might design an apartment. It's a combination of sparkling, light, and shiny surfaces that Ms. Elliott cautions "perhaps is more a representation of what is possible than what is practical.

"On the other hand, who is to say what is practical or that people have to be practical? We've discovered that today's working woman can be making a very attractive salary and might indeed take an approach that others might disdain."

Which is another way of saying, perhaps, that while the white shag wall-to-wall carpeting throughout this model apartment may be impractical and improbable, it's not uninteresting. "It's impractical because it will require cleaning more often and that can be costly; and it's improbable because white is not one of the colors we offer in the wall-to-wall carpeting which is standard in our apartments."

But, like the rest of this model, it is certainly attention-getting.

The white carpeting is complemented by silver grasscloth wall covering in the living and dining rooms to provide a background for the space age setting.

An L-shaped sectional sofa in gray and white plaid wool with gray and a black-striped toss pillows and a grouping of black silhouette lithos matted in black provide the major color tones to the area. Opposite the sofa is a wall credenza in white with mirrored door panels that offers both storage and an easy-care surface for buffet service.

A pair of crystal-base lamps atop the credenza provide sparkle and illumination. A pair of white naugahyde and end table are done in chrome and chrome sway chairs are alongside. The contemporary coffee table with milk glass inserts.

The dining set, which is framed by a space-expanding floor-to-ceiling mirror panel, consists of a glass-topped chrome table and folding chairs of plexiglass with tubular chrome that also have the see-through look that helps open up the area.

A cottage window treatment has been created by combining white linen tie-back draperies with cafe curtains and a roll-up shade.

The kitchen, which opens to the dining room, has a white and gray geometric patterned paper and a Parsons breakfast table with another pair of the plexiglass chairs found in the dining set.

The ultra-contemporary look continues into the master bedroom. A bold silver and black geometric pattern on a white paper background covers and sheers cover the windows and a white linen spread with a black insert panel and a deep border in silver lame cover the king size bed. A mirror serves as headboard. The bed is flanked by a pair of white lacquer dresser end tables with smoked glass and chrome directional table lamps.

Although many of the single residents are using the second bedroom as a den, library, or office, it is treated as a bedroom in the model. A gray, black, yellow, and white print of swirl pattern has been used to paper the walls. Spread and draperies are the same print. A white lacquered double dresser with white-framed mirror and white rattan armchair complete the room.

Standard features of the Country Lane Apartments, in addition to wall-to-wall shag carpeting, are kitchens completely equipped with dishwasher, disposal, double door refrigerator and continuous cleaning gas oven and ranges; individually controlled gas forced air heat and air conditioning; a balcony or patio; ceramic tiled baths and cultured marble window sills; drapery rods; energy-saving thermopane windows; TV terminal; and prewiring for telephones.

Also, each of the twin, five-story 142-unit elevator buildings provides individual storage lockers on each floor, laundry facilities, a party room with full kitchen and the Illinois Bell security intercom system.

One-and two-bedroom apartments with up to 1,026 square feet of space are currently renting from $215 to $295 monthly. Three furnished models are on display daily from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Sundays from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Take the Northwest Tollway (I-90) west to Barrington Road. Proceed south four miles to Irving Park Road (Route 19). Go east (left) on Irving one mile to Fairlane Drive.

Book berates bathroom attitudes

Exorcising toilet taboos is this man's calling

by IRA BERKOW

What Clausewitz is to war, Aristotle is to drama and Emily Post is to etiquette, Alexander Kria is to bathrooms.

When Kria's revolutionary classic, "The Bathroom," appeared in 1966, there was a vast and various reaction to it. Some laughed at the enterprise, thinking it ridiculous for a grown architect and Cornell University professor to engage in such a meticulous study.

Some friends worried that he had simply gone loopy. Others flushed with embarrassment. But Ralph Nader echoed thoughtful people generally, calling the book, "An illuminating study of inadequate safety hygiene and convenience features in bathrooms."

Kria was in New York recently to promote the new revised edition of his book on a subject which some purists prefer to call "the physical hygiene facility."

Kria is a natty man of 45, with sharp, clean features, slicked back graying hair, an aura of confidence that he is a man of many parts, and a casually debonair handkerchief protruding from his gold-buttoned blue blazer. He sat in the Bull-and-Bear room of the Waldorf Astoria and enlarged on his clinical activities.

He had begun the work because, as an architect he believed that the bathroom was possibly the most important room in the house, the most neglected by builders, and the most antiquated in design.

He believed that sinks should be higher, wider and deeper; that bathtubs sould be contoured to the bather's body; that showers should have built-in seats, wrap-around safety bars, controls located at the entry; that toilets should be lower to encourage a more natural squat-like posture.

He was concnerned that there should be more shelf space, and that modern bathroom equipment like hair dryers and various bottles of deodorant ought not to be placed on the floor.

He was concerned about better ventilation and safety and says that most accidents in the home happen in the bathroom. The bathroom is where we start our day and finish our day, it sets the tone of our life. And yet it is cramped, inappropriate, inconvenient and stupid.

One of the reasons for this disgrace he said is our puritanism. "I was thinking of changing the name of the book from 'The Bathroom,' to 'The Last Taboo,' " he said.

"It is part of our uptight Anglo-Saxon heritage to feel queasy about the bathroom in conversation or print," said Kria. "But this kind of restriction limits us from realizing our fullest potentials as individuals. We've been so nervous about anything that has to do with our bodies. Some people can't cope with the notion that a defecation can be a joyful experience.

"It's funny, though, how taboos can differ. Like that 16th-Century Spanish princess who boasted that she hadn't bathed in 30 years. Her society considered dirt purity and cleanliness licentious.

"In Scandinavia and Japan today, families take saunas together. And in Germany they think nothing of that little old lady sitting in the men's room, taking in marks for towels and soap."

Kria believes his book has helped liberate people from their hidebound bathroom attitudes. Manufacturers and builders and architects have consulted him on his views and, he believes, more and more bathrooms are being humanized. Another curious result: after lectures, "endless" students tell him that he has unlocked certain doors of their mind. "Some students are in tears," he said. "They all have private bathroom horror stories that they were too embarrassed to ever discuss before. It is sad."

Krias was rather reticent, however, about his own bathroom. He did admit to having in it a skylight, a bidet, a shower sans bath (he doesn't take to baths) and a floor-length velour terry cloth robe with his initials on the pocket.

"I shudder to have people know about something so private as my bathroom," he said.

The only detail he offered, strangely enough, was about his toilet seat.

It is no ordinary toilet seat. It is a distinguished and honored and esthetic toilet seat. Kria's "posture-mold toilet seat" is on display in the design study collection of New York's Museum of Modern Art. It may be the most intriguing example of sculpture since "The Thinker."

Dow slides 6.46

Stocks hit worst loss in 2 weeks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks suffered their worst loss in two weeks and their second consecutive setback Wednesday when profit takers won the battle over investors in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had charged 109 points higher in the new year rally through Monday, fell 6.46 points to 951.35, the worst setback since it fell 9.45 points Jan. 13.

Coupled with its 3.70-point loss Tuesday, the blue-chip average has fallen 10.16 points in two days, in what many analysts said could be the beginning of a consolidation of new year rally gains.

THE AVERAGE was off six points at the outset, then rallied for a slight gain in the early afternoon. Profit taking accelerated in the afternoon driving the Dow 11 points lower, before late buying trimmed the loss.

Most analysts said the profit taking was overdue. Others said selling was triggered by the news that Congress handed President Ford a major defeat when the Senate voted to override his veto of a $45 billion health, welfare and labor bill.

The setback was broad. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 0.54 to 98.53 and the average price of an NYSE common share decreaed by 17 cents. Declines topped advances, 978 to 502, among the 1,890 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 27,370,000 shares, down from the 32,070,000 traded Tuesday. It brought the turnover for the month to a record of approximately 567,000,000 shares.

MOST ANALYSTS were not surprised numerous traders cashed in on the big gains made during the first three weeks of the new year. In fact, most thought it was healthy for the market's future. They said the market's tone was strong.

Prices closed lower in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased by six cents. Volume totaled 3,050,000 shares, compared with 3,480,000 traded Tuesday.

On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, 91,715 contracts changed hands, compared with 109,558 traded Tuesday.

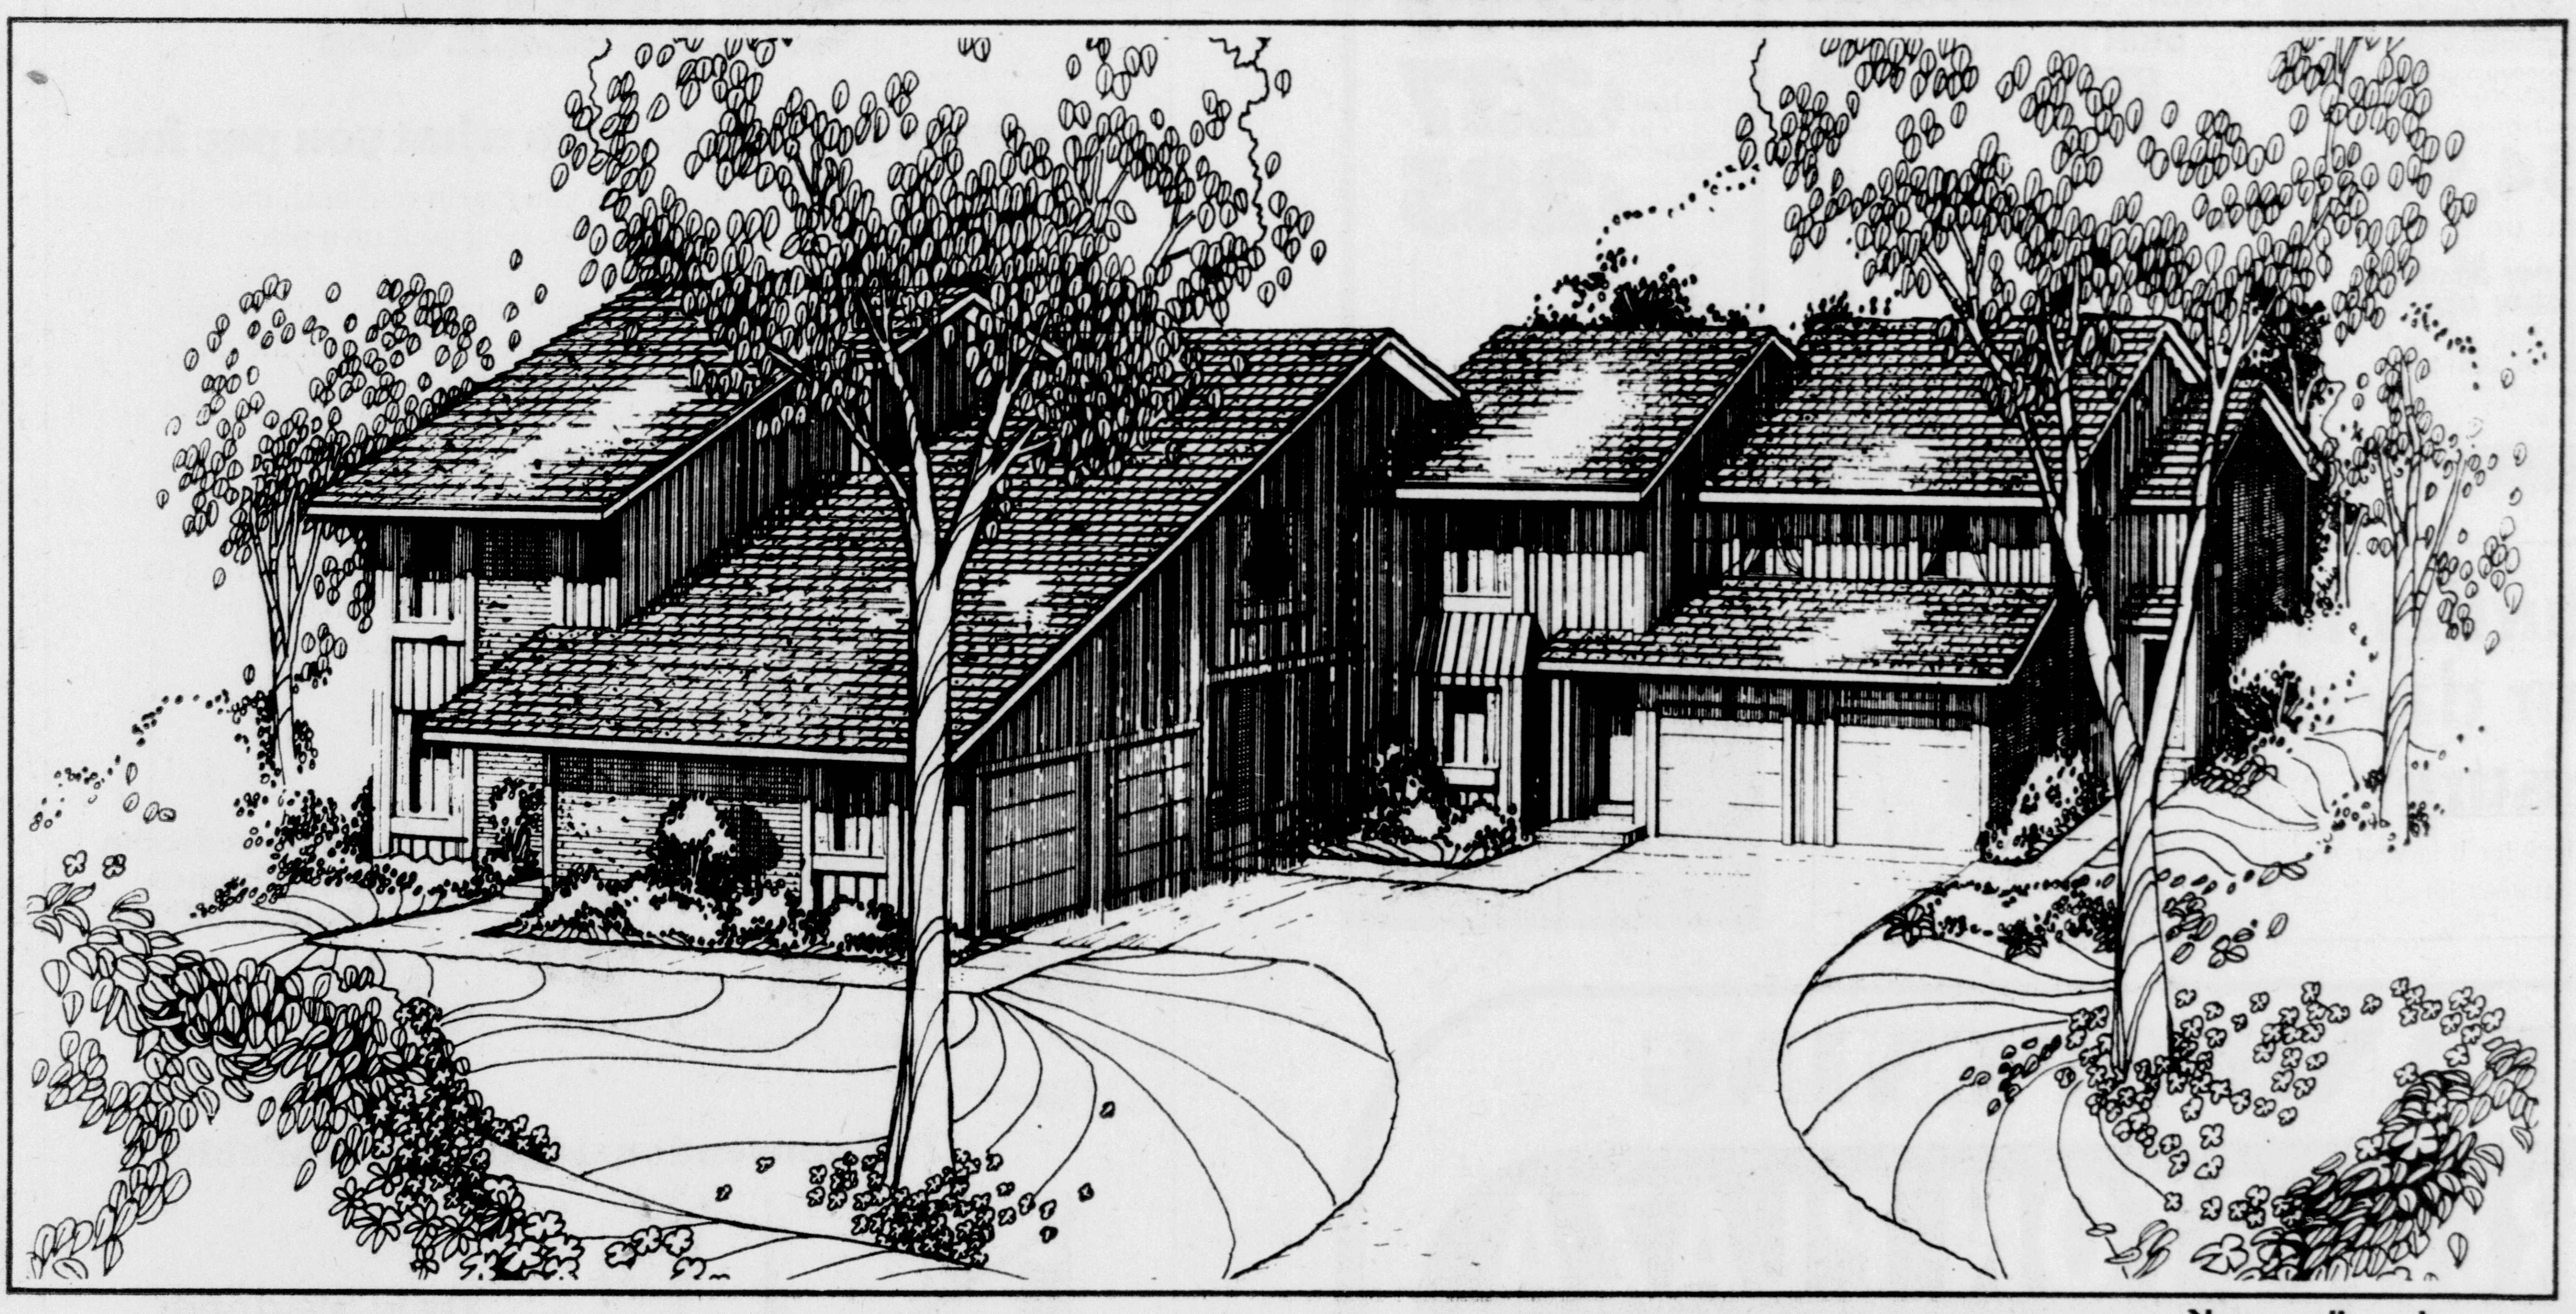
NO COMPARABLE HOME...
FOR THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS AROUND!



We still haven't had a Grand Opening at Cunningham Courts because we're selling homes as fast as we can build them.

The reason, we believe, is that Cunningham Courts offers more space and comfort and more privacy per dollar than any other home in the Palatine area. And we're going to keep it that way as long as we can. THERE WILL NOT BE AN INCREASE IN PRICES on the next 20 homes we sell. After that, no promises.

Cunningham Courts homes feature attached garages with storage areas, basements, private drive and guest parking, private front and back yards, private concrete patio, private entry, air conditioning, wall to wall carpeting, range, refrigerator, dishwasher and disposal and a dozen thoughtful extras at no additional cost.

So, come discover Cunningham Courts. There's nothing comparable for thousands of dollars around, in the Palatine area.

We know what Walker has to say to Downstaters about Daley. Read what he has to say in Chicago...

Cites mayor's national renown

Walker pays tribute to Daley leadership

MAYOR DALEY was praised at length by his sometimes opponent, Gov. Walker, last night in terms that the mayor probably likes best.

Speaking at a special salute to the mayor in the Palmer House, Gov. Walker said:

"It's difficult to put into words a tribute to Mayor Daley's leadership when so much of what surrounds us stands as a more eloquent tribute:

"A Loop more prosperous than ever with blueprints extending into the 21st century; the best public transportation system in the nation with a Regional Transportation Authority on its way; a lakefront unmatched anywhere in the nation; the best illuminated and cleanest streets on the metropolitan scene; colleges beginning and universities expanding."

THE GOVERNOR continued: "We are all aware that Mayor Daley has earned national renown as a big city mayor able to govern and lead the city effectively."

Walker also mentioned the mayor's "devotion to his family and to the institution of the family, and the mayor's religious devotion."

"We have had disagreements in the past," the governor recalled. "We undoubtedly will in the future. But I will say this—it's a hell of a lot easier when he's on your side."

Last night's affair was the PACE Institute tribute to the mayor, a $125-a-plate dinner to raise funds for the institute.

PACE, WHICH stands for Programmed Activities for Correctional Education, is a school for inmates of the Cook County Jail.

'Builder of a livable city'

Walker joins Daley salute

By Linda Wertsch

Gov. Dan Walker put aside his political differences with Mayor Richard J. Daley and effusively praised his frequent foe as a builder of a city that is "liveable and growing" and as a religious and devoted family man.

The occasion was "Chicago's Tribute to Mayor Richard J. Daley," a fund-raising dinner sponsored Thursday by the PACE Institute, the 7-year-old educational program for inmates at Cook County Jail.

Michael Daley received the praise and PACE's award on behalf of his father, who is recuperating from surgery designed to prevent a stroke such as he suffered last month.

WHILE ALL the speakers lauded the mayor, Walker devoted almost his entire speech to applauding him — but only after noting they have had differences and "undoubtedly will in the future."

"But I will say this," he added with a knowing smile, "It's a helluva lot easier when he's on your side."

Walker continued in a more serious vein: "We are all aware that Mayor Daley has earned national renown as a big-city mayor able to govern his city effectively. Through his effort, Chicago has become known as a big city that is livable and growing."

And he ticked off some elements of the progress that Chicago has witnessed during Daley's five terms of leadership — an expanding tax base, the absence of deficit financing, illuminated and clean streets, "the best transportation system in the nation."

HE ALSO spoke warmly of Daley as a man:

"In my first talk with the mayor, after I became the Democratic nominee for governor, I was frankly surprised that the entire first half of the conversation was spent by my answering questions about how my family was doing . . . I mention this because when Richard Daley inquires about your family, it's not lip-service politics, it's for real."

Walker, father of seven children, said Daley's devotion to his family and to the institution of the family "is an integral part of appreciating the values of his leadership."

Walker paints glowing Daley

By Jerome Watson

Gov. Walker offered his most lavish praise yet of Mayor Daley in a speech here Thursday in which he depicted the convalescing mayor as a masterful leader who has made Chicago work.

"Through his strenuous effort, Chicago has become known as a big city that is livable and growing," Walker said. He also praised the mayor for his regular churchgoing practice.

Walker's praise of Daley, offered at a dinner held in tribute to the mayor, who could not attend, came after Daley's stroke and surgery and at a time when Walker is fighting on a number of budgetary fronts in the Legislature. The dinner at the Palmer House was sponsored by the Pace Institute Inc., 2600 S. California.

Walker offered similar, if less lavish, praise of Daley during the height of last fall's battle over creation of a Regional Transportation Authority. Soon afterward, however, he became embroiled in a bitter primary election battle with Daley.

Nonetheless, Walker's praise of Daley is likely to disappoint Walker's friend, Ald. William S. Singer (43d), the mayoral hopeful who has been characterizing Chicago under Daley's leadership as the city that doesn't work.

Walker's public opinion samplings may reflect the findings of a Cook County Republican office seeker's poll. Taken just before Daley's stroke, the poll indicated the mayor was still highly popular in Chicago.

Walker tempered his praise Thursday by observing that he and Daley have had disagreements in the past and "we undoubtedly will in the future. But I will say this—it's a helluva lot eaiser when he's on your side."

Walker said the most eloquent tributes to Daley's leadership are "a Loop more prosperous than ever . . . the best public transportation system in the nation, with an RTA on its way . . . a lakefront unmatched anywhere in the nation, the best-illuminated and cleanest streets on the metropolitan scene. . .

"Obviously, a mayor who can induce the business community to build more than 700 skyscrapers during his administration has got to know more than whose face is on a $20,000 bill.

"A mayor who can point to one of the few expanding tax bases among U.S. metropolises, and who can keep city government from deficit spending for 19 straight years has got to know more than how many zeroes are in $1 billion."

Daley's son Michael accepted the PACE award for his father.

Oscar Getz, chairman of PACE, said before the dinner, attended by about 500 persons, that he had learned several days earlier that Daley would not attend the dinner on the advice of doctors.

Mayor Daley's son Richard, a state senator, had been expected to accept the award, but he was kept in Springfield as the Legislature met.

The dinner had been scheduled in early May, before the mayor's minor stroke in May and surgery early in June.

Doctors raise questions

Has Leboyer added to joy of birth?

by ELEANOR RIVES
(Last of two parts)

It sounds so simple, so practical.

Why shouldn't a baby enter this world in the least traumatic way possible? Why should his introduction to the world be painful — painful to his eyes, his ears, his spine, his lungs, his skin? Why should fear, panic, confusion accompany his birth?

Or is the baby truly in pain?

It certainly seems so. It may be seen in photographs of the agonized facial expressions of newborns. It may be felt in the shudder of flesh; the quivering skin; the tense, struggling body. It may be heard in the howls and cries; the continuous sobbing that, when taped, sounds like blood-curdling screams.

YES, THE BABY is in pain, says Dr. Frederick Leboyer, obstetrician of Paris, France, in his book, "Birth Without Violence" (Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., 1975). And it is time that we focused our attention on the infant as a full-feeling person, time we followed a more humanistic approach to birth, in his view.

"The one thing that bothers me," said Dr. Ulisse Cucco, chairman of obstetrics at Holy Family Hospital, "is the inference that there is, indeed, violence in the delivery room. I have practiced obstetrics for 20 years and I have always been as gentle as possible with the baby and as compassionate as possible with the mother."

Dr. Cucco doesn't hold the infant upside down by his feet, nor does he slap him. Noise in the delivery room is kept to a minimum; there is little conversation with the patient and no small talk among the nurses.

IN REGARD to dimming the lights, he says, "I don't know if light hurts the baby's eyes. Does anybody know? As adults our eyes accommodate to light. I assume the same process takes place in the baby."

The question of when to cut the umbilical cord has been debated for years, according to Dr. Cucco. There are times when it is best to clamp the cord immediately, but not so in a normal, routine birth. "I'm not aware whether the cord has stopped pulsating or not when I cut it," he said.

It is Dr. Cucco's practice to immediately place the baby in an infant warmer (not a warm bath) and place the warmer next to the mother. "If the infant is not disturbed, he will relax and lie quietly," he said.

HE BELIEVES the decison as to the techniques to be used should be a mutual one between doctor and patient. One must take into account that although 90 per cent of the patients deliver without difficulty, there are some births where hazards are involved.

"Most doctors are truly interested in giving their patients good care," he said.

What happens to new techniques? "Eventually they crystallize and some good comes out of them," he said. "Perhaps Leboyer's contribution is to bring about a new awareness of the importance of gentle obstetrical care."

Dr. Michael Hughey, resident in obstetrics and gynecology at Evanston Hospital, also agrees with Leboyer's basic underlying philosophy of gentleness, but adds, "There are possible dangers. Take the matter of dim lights. What if the baby is blue — not getting enough oxygen? Sometimes a difference in color can be of vital importance."

HUGHEY DESCRIBED the fetal monitor, an electrode routinely passed through the cervix of every patient in labor and attached to the baby's scalp to follow his progress second by second. "Leboyer would be very unhappy with this," he said. "In a sense it's an invasion of the baby. But this routine procedure has cut down our morbidity and mortality rate and has prevented countless amounts of brain damage. We have probably saved 20 babies' lives this year alone, and that's just the tip of the iceberg."

He explained that current obstetrical methods are based on years and years of experience by intelligent people. "The greatest single motivating force is the personal safety of the mother," he said. "Running a very close second is the safety of the baby."

Last spring, Dr. Leboyer toured American cities, lecturing to medical and laypersons and showing his film, "Birth." That film has been added to those shown to pre-natal classes at Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center, Chicago.

DR. FRANK MERRICK, of the center's obstetrics-gynecology department, was one of the medical persons who heard Dr. Leboyer lecture. At the request of a mother-to-be, he employed Leboyer techniques in delivering her baby last fall. He has since delivered "probably seven" babies following the procedure suggested by Leboyer.

"If the patient exhibits interest in this method, I am in favor of using it," he said. "It adds a great deal of aesthetic enjoyment to the delivery, not only for Mom and Pop but for the professional people as well."

Kathy Umbeck, R.N. in the obstetrics-gynecology department at the center, has assisted in a few Leboyer-type births. "It's the attitude toward the infant of gentle, calm delivery that makes it such an enjoyable experience for all participants — including the baby," she said.

DR. MERRICK finds dim lights no problem, though he may beam a light on the vaginal canal after delivery to make sure there are no lacerations. The room is kept as quiet as possible; there is no unnecessary use of analgesia or anesthesia; there is no physical violence to the baby.

The mother's abdomen is washed to cut down on any theoretical objections to contamination. The baby is laid on the mother's belly and the cord is not cut until it stops pulsating.

And the bath — oh, the bath. "If ever you saw the baby in the warm bath, you'd be amazed," said Dr. Merrick. "He really seems to enjoy it. He has a ball."

MS. UMBECK, who has given the bath, said, "You can literally feel the baby relax and go limp. He begins to play, in fact becomes quite active. He kicks, opens and plays with his hands, sucks his fist. The father plays with him, too."

According to Nurse Umbeck, the infant may sometimes cry before or after, but never during the bath. "We haven't seen the baby actually smile, yet, but we're watching," she said.

Dr. Merrick added, "We are keeping our minds open. We are willing to try something different, to see if it's as good as it seems to be. We need more experience to be absolutely convinced, but there is no doubt that Leboyer's methods add to the matter of enjoying the delivery.

"The baby is obviously happy to be born."

Singles problem in Jewish life

The single parent family and the single adult are growing problems in Jewish life in America, says Gerald B. Bubis, director of the School of Jewish Communal Service of Hebrew Union College — Jewish Institute of Religion, in Los Angeles.

Bubis said part of the dilemma stems from the traditional organization of the synagogue as a family-based institution. Synagogues and temples and their congregations will have to adjust, he said, to serve the needs of these singles as well as the traditional family unit of mother, father and children.

Some widows need to be taught how to become heads of households, to manage money, he said.

"THERE'S VERY little child care service. Often it is sectarian, not the community itself and not a public function.

"A single parent feels left out. That parent may be a widow unprepared to become head of her household, or a widower who feels he is overlooked because temple or synagogue affairs focus on father-son and mother-daughter programs. We need parent-child activities.

"It's a new phenomenon, saying 'I want to be a parent, but I don't want a spouse, I will just breed.' It has got to be tremendously tough for the grandparents.

"I know of one case, a woman who was divorced, but who wanted another child and told her parents she was pregnant. She had the child, but no wedding. It was very painful for the parents, who are supporting the daughter and the two children in a second household.

"THE PARENTS have not confronted it publicly. They live in separate communities and pretend it never happened.

"I also know of a case where a single parent sent out birth announcements, who bragged about it.

"We must sensitize ourselves much more to the variance. Single parent families won't go away; they will grow in numbers."

Bubis said single parents are not just adults who never married. They may be widows, widowers or divorced.

"Some men tend to deny that any problem exists. They are so busy trying to be late teenagers that they can't be serious adults."

This rubs off on children because "I don't think kids listen to parents; they watch them and establish an imitative pattern."

SOME SINGLE parents develop self-image problems, as in the case of a professional man's middle-aged wife who sought a divorce. She had not worked for 25 years.

"She asked herself, 'What did I do wrong, how should I have dealt with the problem, can I make it by myself?'

"How does she update herself in a market where youth is at a premium? Even her kids are angry. They live with her, and their stability has gone."

He said divorce is not as damaging psychologically in a younger marriage where the wife initiated the action.

"It calls for team action, counseling, vocational rehabilitation, child care services."

Bubis said preliminary work has been done in the Chicago area to create a network of Jewish agencies for this purpose. Counseling groups are going to be needed in synagogues, he added.

THE PROBLEM is partly financial. Membership, which is the economic base of synagogues, can be expensive. Some single parents drop out because they cannot afford the fees.

"I have a hunch they don't want to leave," Bubis said.

Many synagogues sponsor summer day camps. More and more single parents want to use these services for their children, but cannot pay the fees. He said some cities and many synagogues have a sliding scale of dues, and YM and YWCAs tend to follow suit.

"I have a hunch that a voucher system might be the wave of the future for those who cannot afford a Jewish education at school. Vouchers paid for by the community have been touched on very gingerly in some places."

Shake habit step-by-step

By ROBIN FRAMES
AND MARK FUERST
(Fourth of 10 parts)

If you have been following this series, you should know by now why you smoke and why you want to quit. You may already have been able to cut down by eliminating the cigarettes you don't really crave or by cutting out a few drinks or cups of coffee that prompt you to reach for the nearest pack.

The next step is to undertake a short trial period without cigarets, ideally two days. Choose a time when you are likely to have a minimum of tension and are not likely to be doing a lot of things that prompt you to smoke.

Before quitting, try to cut down further by starting later in the day, smoking only in certain places and smoking less of each cigaret. If you doubt your ability to go for several hours without lighting up, remember the times you have sat in a theater, church or concert hall without smoking. If you can do it there, you can create other "No Smoking" areas for yourself.

WHEN THE trial period starts, try to step up your general pace of activity. Idle time is easily filled with smoke. Even if you think you smoke mainly for the effect of nicotine, it may help to provide yourself with cigaret substitutes.

Eating is a natural substitute, but one that many people avoid for fear of gaining weight. You don't have to gain weight if you remember that it's not the quantity of food you consume that takes the place of cigarets, but rather the act of eating. Foods such as celery and carrot sticks require vigorous chewing and yet are not fattening.

Julius Fast, author of "How To Stop Smoking and Lose Weight," suggests a step-by-step program to stop smoking and lose weight, too. If you stop smoking and start dieting on the same day, you can accomplish both, he says. Although they are two different acts and each must be managed in a unique fashion, they can be managed together and with good results.

SMOKING & YOU

A CUP OF coffee or tea, a piece of candy, fresh fruit or a slice of raw vegetable are all excellent substitutes for cigarets, according to Fast.

A "handling" smoker often needs the oral gratification of something between his lips. Chewing gum may do the trick. Non-edible cigaret substitutes include toothpicks, plastic straws and wooden matches to gnaw on, as well as the manufactured fake cigarets.

When all else fails and you feel a rising temptation to grab a cigaret, sit down and let your whole body go limp. Then take several long, deep breaths from your diaphragm.

IF YOUR will power does fail and you backslide into a cloud of smoke, don't give up. Many smokers don't quit permanently the first time. Whether it's your first or 10th try, don't dwell on all the years ahead that you plan to go without cigarets. Just think about the next hour, and the rest of the day. You can always make it until bedtime without a smoke.

In short, follow whatever works for you — except beginning another hazardous habit. The most important part of giving up smoking is being aware of what you're doing and why. Why are you smoking, why have you quit, and above all, what do you want to do most in the next hour?

NEXT: The group way.

Consumers benefit from new rulings

Two new consumer regulations are scheduled to take effect the beginning of February.

On Feb. 1 a ruling by the Illinois Supreme Court will prohibit opticians from fitting contact lenses unless they are under the direct supervision of an optometrist or ophthalmologist.

Opticians are persons who make or dispense optical instruments, eyeglasses and contact lenses, and are often employed in commercial optical outlets. They are not required to be licensed. Optometrists are trained and licensed to examine the eye and to prescribe and fit corrective lenses. Ophthalmologists are physicians specializing in diseases of the eye and eye surgery.

In 1965 the Attorney General of Illinois filed suit against House of Vision charging that it employed opticians who were fitting contact lenses, an activity restricted to optometrists and ophthalmologists.

After numerous appeals, the decision in favor of the state was handed down, in effect barring all such retail houses from allowing any non-licensed persons from fitting contacts without supervision.

ON FEB. 2, a Federal Trade Commission regulation will require that mail order firms deliver merchandise in 30 days unless they specify that it will take longer. If they can't deliver in 30 days or a specified time, they must notify the consumer and provide a post-paid card for cancellation of the order.

When the firm receives such a cancellation, it has seven days to refund the customer's money, or one billing cycle to wipe the charge off the account.

The rule carries the force of law, and if it is violated consumers are urged to notify the FTC.

Some Bicentennial notes:

The 1976 version of "Common Sense" (revolutionary Tom Paine's famous pamphlet calling for independence), a publication put out by the People's Bicentennial Commission, reports that the Chicago PBC has presented its Tory of the Month award to Phyllis Schlafly. Mrs. Schlafly is the Alton, Ill., woman who leads the opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment.

PBC termed Mrs. Schlafly's effort "a deadly anachronism," and charged she is being supported by the insurance industry.

"Common Sense" also reported that the American Freedom Train, which played in Chicago last summer, has left some towns holding a bill of as much as $27,000 for facilities, security, etc.

And in Billings, Mont., the paper says, the local Jaycees obtained rights from train officials to sell homemade ham sandwiches to raise money for their Special Olympics for handicapped children.

But when the train pulled in, its resident concessionaires appropriated all available space to hawk their hot dogs and souvenirs. The Jaycees sold zero sandwiches and ended up with a deficit, while the Special Olympics went down the drain.

ON THE POSITIVE side, one of the good things coming out of the Bicentennial is the various historical specials being presented on television.

A most interesting effort is public TV's "Adams Chronicles," a 13-part series covering four generations of the famous patriot family.

In case you've missed it, you can tune in the third episode next Tuesday night at 8 on Channel 11. It will pick up with John Adams as diplomat, representing America abroad during the Revoluton. You will also see the beginnings of the career of Adams' son, John Quincy, who at age 14 was already a diplomatic secretary.

The series began with the courtship of John and Abigail, a woman "liberated" before it was fashionable. The first program traced John's career as a lawyer and his defense of the British, whose actions he disapproved but whose right to a defense he upheld.

The second episode covered the years 1770-1776, when Adams debated independence in the Continental Congress.

All episodes are repeated Wednesdays at 1 p.m.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Doctor emphasizes need for exercise

I enjoy your column in the paper but one thing bothers me and my European friends: your emphasis on the relationship between cholesterol and diet, totally ignoring the effect of vigorous exercise upon cholesterol.

I was a medical student in Poland. I visited other Eastern European countries and against my will lived in several parts of the Soviet Union. These people eat an extremely high saturated fat diet, everything swimming in butter, sour cream, lard, salt pork. Yet these people have few cases of heart attacks in the rural population.

The local medical profession has never concerned itself with cholesterol, taking for granted the local diet that has kept the nations going for thousands of years. They die from infections, childbirth, bites and consumption, but not from heart disease.

In the big cities statistics are different. I'm talking about Eastern Europe and not Western Europe whihc has picked up American life styles.

I am sending you some clippings that show that hard physical work works off cholesterol. I have never seen any of your columns where you discussed the relation between exercise and cholesterol and you only mention diets. If you would tell people that they could use exercise, many people would feel free to eat their ethnic foods and use exercise and avoid stress to prevent a buildup in cholesterol.

You certainly have missed a lot of my columns. Asking me to stand up for exercise is about like asking Barry Goldwater to say something good for conservatives. One of my public services is, and has been for many years, lecturing at clinics for the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports for teachers of health education in the nation's schools.

You can't separate exercise and diet. The body is merely an energy converter. The food puts energy in and we use it to run our body at rest or for physical activity. If you take in more energy than your body uses, there is an increase in body fat and with it in many people an increase in blood cholesterol levels and even increased blood pressure. I hate to think how many times I have told people that weight control involves this basic principle.

If you don't exercise much, you can't eat much without getting fat and having these complications.

There are numerous examples in the world of people who do eat high-fat, high-cholesterol diets and have no heart and vascular problems. Part of it is hereditary, but another part is the high level of activity. The Masi walk or trot more than 20 miles a day and the net result of food available and energy expended makes a thin individual. Obviously such a life style is not suited to our modern living habits so we must pay a lot more attention to our diet. It takes an enormous amount of work to compensate for a high-fat high-cholesterol diet.

The final answer for each individual really rests in his own state. If the blood cholesterol is low, in the optimal range, and stays there and the blood pressure is low, fine. If either is elevated, then diet, exercise and sometimes medicine are all important to achieve the optimal results.

For information on dietary principles to prevent high cholesterol send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 13, Diet preventing Atherosclerosis. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Electricity in carpet, may lessen in time

Dear Dorothy: What can I do to keep the static electricity in the bottom of my pants legs from collecting everything on the carpet like a vacuum cleaner? Happens with my dresses, too. — Janice Bonnett

Almost invariably, this comes from carpeting. If yours is new, you're bound to have a great deal of static electricity with the advent of the heating season.

Some carpeting is pretreated to inhibit static electricity and homes with adequate humidity are bothered less. There is an anti-static solution spray and many treat their carpeting with it. The static is also lessened when the carpet collects a bit of soil. After considerable laundering and dry cleaning, garments seem more resistant to static.

But (and it's a big but) certain polyesters defy all the cleaning and everything else. I have one polyester dress that has been washed and cleaned repeatedly, but in certain homes I find the dress climbing almost to my hips. It's embarrassing!

Dear Dorothy: The children often take off their shoes and run around the house in their white socks. Have tried your way of soaking them in an enzyme presoak solution, but with no luck. — Janice Breyer Enzyme presoak removes only protein-based stains. It will be much better to soak these dirty socks in a good detergent solution — and a bit of chlorine bleach in the wash will help get the stains out.

Dear Dorothy: I wonder if any of your readers have simple recipes requiring only egg yolks. I make lots of meringue shells, leaving me with the yolks. I never make cakes, but do have a passion for cookies (to "piece" on). What about some kind of spice cookie with yolks? — B. Lewis

Mary Morrow heads hospital auxiliary

The Woman's Auxiliary of Northwest Community Hospital recently elected and installed the officers for 1976.

Mary Morrow was installed as president; Gladys Dotts, executive vice president; Corky Patberg, first vive president; Katie Cassidy, second vice president; Rose Aschoff, recording secretary; Marion Letzel, treasurer; all of Arlington Heights.

Assistant treasurer is Mary Swift, and corresponding secretary, Mary Jo Bolerare, Inverness.

As a result of the many money raising activities undertaken by its membership, outgoing president Ruthmary Crawford presented a check for $82,000 to the hospital's board of directors Monday at the annual report meeting. This, added to the $16,000 given in August, makes a total of $96,000 raised by the auxiliary during 1975.

AMONG MONEY raising projects for 1976 are a brunch theatre party at Drury Lane North Feb. 29, a garage sale for early May and the annual fall fashion show and luncheon at Allgauers Sept. 3.

All interested men and women over 19 years of age are invited to join the auxiliary. Annual dues are $5 and there are three luncheon meetings a year. Mickey Tomaso, membership chairman, may be contacted at 255-4102.

Nurses offer scholarship

A $500 nursing scholarship will be awarded to a Mount Prospect resident by the Mount Prospect Nurses Club. The recipient must be presently enrolled in a nursing program or accepted into an accredited nursing program in the fall of 1976.

Further information and applications may be obtained from Coralyn Meier, 17 S. Wa-Pella, Mount Prospect, 394-0562. Deadline for applications is April 9.

Seminar discusses powers of seniors

All area rssidents are invited to participate in a seminar at Harper College Tuesday, Feb. 3, which examines the opportunities of senior citizens to use their resources in shaping the future of community life. Guest speaker will be Dr. Howard Y. McClusky, professor, University of Michigan.

Registration at 9:45 a.m. will be followed by the morning session from 10 to 11:45. The afternoon session is from 1 to 3. The college cafeteria will be available for lunch.

Cost of the seminar and materials is $1. Senior citizens may make arrangements for free transportation through their township office.

Further information is available by calling 397-3000, extension 329.

Bridal fashion show

Marshall Field & Company, Woodfield, will preview spring 1976 with a fashion showing of bridal party gowns at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the better dress salon.

It pays gardener to care for birds in winter

Potting shed

by Mary B. Good

If your house has a large picture window enchanced by baskets of hanging plants, chances are sometime or other a klutsy little bird will bang into your window.

Just that happened to me this morning — again. I trekked out and scooped the disabled chickadee into my hand, after seeing the bird buried face down in the snow, futilely trying to extricate himself.

I held him for a few moments to assess the damage. He seemed dazed and hurt, but he managed to get his wing back in position and ruffle his feathers to hold in body heat.

I carried him to a wooden feeding trough in the trees and deposited him on a bed of sunflower seeds, where his fellow chickadees could take over nursing duties.

THREE OR four birds approached cautiously, greedily grabbing seeds on the far side of the feeder, avoiding the sickie. After a few minutes, a Good Samaritan flew down to him and gently nudged or pecked him. Nothing happened. The injured bird sat motionless.

Great commotion ensued as a number of birds circled the stunned bird.

A nuthatch tried to help and when the dazed bird did not respond, the nuthatch took his seed and flew away. Within 10 minutes, another chickadee came to the feeder, pecked little klutsy, and the klutz flew shakily to another tree — presumably off the critical list.

I usually pick up disabled birds while I'm wearing gloves. This is partially because I don't want to get bitten just in case they have bird lice or a disease or something of that sort, and partly because I don't know whether a bird would be branded by his flock with having harbored human scents. However, apparently healthy chickadees will often eat from my hand when I offer seed to them.

IF A WINDOW casualty doesn't respond within 15 minutes of crashing into glass, I put him in a moss-lined shoe box in a corner of the garage nearest the opened overhead door. Usually, a bird will recover within a few hours.

if birds crashing into your windows are a common occurence, it probably is best to suspend leaded glass ornaments, flat metal mobiles or something of that nature in the window. so the birds don't think your house is a flyway.

If your birdfeeder is situated right outside your picture window and a house plant is suspended before the window, a careless flyer may think the plant is just another tree and may overshoot the bird-feeding perch. You may have to relocate your feeder to avoid inviting possible bird deaths.

Birds are so helpful to the gardener in the summer by eating weed seeds and alerting the observant gardener to a bug invasion that it pays to feed them during the winter and assist injured birds in getting their "second wings."

'Cinderella' comes to Buffalo Grove

Buffalo Grove Junior Woman's Club and the Buffalo Grove Park District will present "Cinderella" by Music on Stage at Buffalo Grove High School.

The musical version of the fairy tale features the songs "Some Day My Prince Will Come," "In My Own Little Corner" and "Bibbide Bobbide Boo." The children will see the pumpkin changing into a carriage on stage and Cinderella becoming the beautiful princess.

The play begins at 1:30 p.m. and children should be met at 2:30 p.m. Children will be supervised by club members during the performance. Tickets will be available at the door for $1.25. This is the second in the series of four plays. Information, 541-8913.

Hearts' Desires

Valentine's Day is for very important people — those nearest and dearest to you. Although holiday greetings are showered upon dozens of friends, valentines are reserved for the VIPs in one's life. You can count on either of these appetizing dinners to win hearts on Valentine's Day — or any day.

Broiled Sirloin Steak

1 beef sirloin steak, cut 1 to 2 inches thick
Salt and pepper
Flaming Sweet Cherry Sauce*

Set regulator for broiling. Place steak on rack in broiler pan, so the top of 1-inch steak is 2 to 3 inches from the heat and 2-inch steak is 3 to 5 inches from the heat. When one side is browned, season, turn and finish cooking on the second side. Season. Steaks cut 1 inch thick require 18 to 20 minutes for rare and 20 to 25 minutes for medium. Steaks cut 2 inches thick require 30 to 40 minutes for rare and 35 to 45 minutes for medium. Serve with Flaming Sweet Cherry Sauce.

*Flaming Sweet Cherry Sauce

1 can or jar (16 ounces) pitted dark sweet cherries
1 can or jar (16 ounces) pitted light sweet cherries
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup brandy

Drain dark and light cherries, reserving syrup. Combine sugar and cornstarch in chafing dish and stir in cherry syrup and lemon juice. Cook, stirring constantly until sauce is clear and thickened. Add cherries, heat to simmering. Pour brandy into center of cherry sauce; do not stir. Let brandy heat undisturbed. When warmed, ignite brandy with a match. Serve flaming sauce with steak. Yield: 4 cups.

Note: If sauce is not to be flamed, add brandy with cherry syrup and lemon juice; cook, stirring constantly until thickened; stir in cherries and heat 2 minutes. Refrigerate any extra sauce and use for topping ice cream.

Super Rice

2 cups rice (uncooked)
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup butter or margarine
2 beef bouillon cubes
4 cups boiling water
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon marjoram
¼ teaspoon savory
1 jar (2½ ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
½ cup sliced almonds
1 tablespoon snipped parsley

Lightly brown rice, celery and onion in butter or margarine in large fryingpan. Crush bouillon cubes and dissolve in boiling water. Sprinkle salt, marjoram and savory over rice mixture. Stir in bouillon, cover tightly and cook slowly 20 to 25 minutes. Fold in mushrooms, almonds and parsley. Yield: 7 cups.

Beef Borsch

2 pounds beef for stew
4 cups water
2½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf
2 cups thinly sliced celery
1 medium onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, chopped
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 teaspoons sugar
¼ teaspoon thyme
½ medium cabbage, thinly sliced
1 jar (16 ounces) crinkle cut or sliced beets
2 tablespoons flour
Dairy sour cream

Cut beef for stew into 1-inch pieces and place in Dutch oven or large pot. Add water, salt, pepper and bay leaf; cover tightly and simmer 1½ hours. Remove bay leaf. Add celery, onion, garlic, vinegar, sugar and thyme and simmer, covered, 15 minutes. Add cabbage and continue to cook, covered, 15 minutes or until meat and cabbage are tender. Drain beets; reserve liquid, combine with flour to blend, stir into soup and cook, stirring constantly to thicken slightly. Add beets and simmer 3 to 5 minutes. Serve sour cream to top individual servings of soup. 8 servings (1½ cups each).

Hearts O'Pear Salad

1 can (29 ounces) Bartlett pear halves
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese
2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
Salad Greens
1 jar (5 ounces) sweet red pimientos
Rosy Dressing*

Drain pears, reserving ½ cup pear syrup for dressing. Soften cream cheese and blend with pickle relish. Spoon cheese mixture into center of each pear. Arrange pears, cut side up, on salad greens on platter. Cut pimientos in heart shapes, one for each pear. Place pimiento hearts on filled pears. Serve with Rosy Dressing. 6 to 8 servings.

*Rosy Dressing

½ cup salad oil
1 slice onion
2 tablespoons catsup
¼ cup red wine vinegar
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
3 drops hot sauce

Place pear syrup, salad oil, onion, catsup, vinegar, lemon juice, salt, mustard and hot sauce in blender container and blend until smooth. Yield: approximately 1½ cups.

Hunting exotic produce

by GAYNOR MADDOX

Do you like exotic fresh fruits and vegetables? Things like daikons, cilantro? Many are brought to the United States by the people who grew up eating them in another country. Today we can find many of them in ethnic markets and specialty stores in cities throughout the country.

Some of these ethnic fresh fruits and vegetables may not be available in your neighborhood yet. Some are, but it takes a little bit of sleuthing in the produce department of your supermarket to turn up at least a few exotic examples.

Sampling the fruits and vegetables favored by people of other nationalities can be a mind-expanding journey. If you spot a strange-looking fruit or vegetable, take the time to get acquainted with it. Ask the salesperson how it's prepared. Many supermarket chains provide such advice now. Take it home and taste it. You may find you've made a pleasant discovery.

TO HELP YOU start your international adventure, the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association suggests some of the following items in the vast array of ethnic fruits and vegetable, with tips on how to choose and prepare them.

Cherimoya means "cold seeds." Popular in Mexico, this fruit is almost heart-shaped. Green-colored when ripe, its skin has a faint medallion-like pattern. It is also grown in the Indies and Australia. When chilled, it has a natural sherbet texture and is sometimes called "sherbet fruit" or "custard apple." Its flavor resembles a combination of fresh pineapple, strawberry and banana. Choose fruit with fairly uniform green, color free of mold or cracks at the stem end. Ripen at room temperature until it yields to gentle pressure with the palms of the hands. The largest are regarded best.

The jicama is to Mexico what the potato is to the United States. A root tuber, it looks like a turnip but tastes like a water chestnut and is a less expensive substitute. Choose jicama as you would a potato, looking for the smaller ones to avoid woodiness. There are two kinds of jicama: agua, which has a watery juice, and leche, which has a milky juice. The only way to tell the difference is by tasting. To eat a jicama, cut it into thin slices and sprinkle with sugar.

FROM THE ORIENT comes daikon, a Japanese radish. It comprises nearly one-third of the tonnage of vegetables grown in Japan. An important crops in Hawaii as well, the daikon tastes a bit hotter than the common radish. A long, tapered vegetable, the daikon is eight to 10 inches long and about one and one-half inches in diameter at its top. It may be pickled or shredded as is and used as a relish, tossed raw into soups, or served in thin strips on vegetable trays. Daikon should be stored in the refrigerator.

The Chinese water chestnut grows widely in the tropics of the Old World. The skin is chestnut brown in color, with a chestnuty flavor and white flesh. They are a delicacy in Chinese cookery and are extensively eaten raw in the Orient. The flesh is apple-like, sweet and starchy. Should you find some fresh water chestnuts, you can store them in the refrigerator in a loosely-covered jar or in a loose plastic bag. Water chestnuts seem made to go with almost any food, from omelets to soups to salads to stews.

Herald food price survey

The price of butter has declined about 15 cents a pound from its high earlier this month of $1.35, according to a Tuesday morning price survey of five area chain food stores. The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture attributed the drop to a seasonal increase in milk production.

Chicken continues to be a good buy due to its plentiful supply, as reported by the USDA. The average price per pound in the five stores is about 10 cents less than the average three months ago.

The USDA also reports that certain dry beans are in plentiful supply, which could make good menu stretchers in February. These include pinto beans, pinks, small reds, kidney beans and Garbanzo beans.

Marketing analysts with the USDA forecast the 1975-76 grapefruit crop at 69.8 million boxes, 14 per cent above last season. This means an even larger supply of frozen concentrated grapefruit juice and fresh grapefruit sections in the supermarkets, says the USDA.

At Jewel meat prices were nearly unchanged from the Jan. 1 survey. The only increase was in the price of round steak. Both Kraft Cheese and Land O Lakes butter were down in price from four weeks ago, with the rest of the dairy and egg prices unchanged. Prices throughout the other sections were relatively stable.

Cheese and butter prices were also down at Butera, which offset a slight increase in fluid whole milk. Chicken fryers increased six cents a pound and pork was also up slightly from Jan. 1.

At National ground beef cost 10 cents more than the previous quotation, but beef round steak was somewhat lower. Potatoes were a good buy at 79 cents per five pounds.

Round steak, chicken fryers and milk were good buys at Treasure Island, with the lowest quotations of the five stores surveyed. Other prices throughout the store were similar to Jan. 1 prices.

At A&P chicken and ground beef were 10 to 20 cents less than the last survey. Iceberg lettuce was only 10 cents a head, a drop of 19 cents from Jan. 1 and the lowest of the five stores surveyed.

These charts compare common kitchen measures from metric to American Standard and vice versa. For example: How many U.S. cups are in a recipe calling for 500 milliliters of liquid? Find 1 ml. in the left column; follow across to cups to find .004. Then multiply 500 by .004 and the answer is 2 cups.

To convert Fahrenheit into Centigrade, subtract 32, multiply by 5, divide by 9. To convert Centigrade into Fahrenheit, go into reverse: Multiply by 9, divide by 5 and add 32.

The upcoming metric system has been welcomed with less than enthusiasm by many people, even though it boasts greater precision than the U.S. system of measurement. Not only will big business be affected, but the home — especially the kitchen — will be hit.

Hamburger will be priced per kilogram; recipes will be stated in metric measurements; cooking temperatures will be converted to the Celsius scale. And regardless of the consumer propaganda, a conversion formula of Celsius degrees equals five-ninths times (Fahrenheit degrees minus 32) is not exactly convenient.

Not all is bleak for homeowners who don't want to throw out their cookbooks. If amounts in recipes are stated in cups and spoons, no actual conversion is needed because one cup equals 16 tablespoons in each system.

But recipes stated in weights will have to be converted to metric units by using conversion tables.

To help cooks become accustomed to the metric system, beginning in February the Herald will be publishing one recipe each week in both metric and English measurements in a column called "Cooking with Metrics."

Following are some conversion factors. Similar charts and tables can also be found in elementary and high school math books and in most recently edited cookbooks.

Lentils stretch menus throughout history

Ever since the Biblical story of Esau, who sold his birthright for a pottage of lentils, the food value and good taste of dry peas and lentils have been known. Because they can be used effectively as meat extenders to provide the protein required for body building and repair, they've been a basic staple with people who watch food costs.

It wasn't until the early 1900s that they appeared in the United States. Today these legumes flourish on the rolling Palouse Hills of eastern Washington and northern Idaho. From these blooming fields, dry peas and lentils are produced in large enough quantities to supply all domestic needs and for shipment to global markets.

While dry peas and lentils have been most frequently used for soups, they're good for a lot more in the way of casseroles, patties or a simple vegetable side dish.

Some of the ways you may wish to get acquainted with these hearty foods are a casserole of honey baked lentils and a split pea and chicken casserole.

HONEY BAKED LENTILS

2½ cups cooked lentils
(about 1 pound uncooked)
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon powdered ginger
1 tablespoon soy sauce
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup water
6 slices bacon
½ cup honey

Mix together the mustard, ginger and soy sauce. Add onions and water. Stir into cooked lentils. Cut bacon in 1-inch pieces. Stir most of the bacon into lentils, with remainder sprinkled over top if pot has narrow mouth. If a casserole is used, sprinkle most of the bacon over the top. Pour honey over all. Cover tightly. Bake for 1 hour in 350-degree oven. Uncover last few minutes to brown the bacon. Bacon may be partially cooked if desired. Makes 12 half-cup servings.

SPLIT PEA AND CHICKEN CASSEROLE

1 pound (2 and 1/3 cups)
green or yellow split peas
5 cups boiling water
1 fat garlic clove crushed with 1½ teaspoons salt
1 medium (¾ cup chopped)
onion
2 tablespoons butter
6 to 8 desired chicken parts
2 tablespoons salad oil
½ teaspoon crushed dried thyme leaves
¼ teaspoon crushed dried rosemary
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
2/3 cup milk

Add split peas to boiling water. Bring to boiling point; boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in crushed garlic with salt. Cover and let stand ½ hour. This helps to keep the shape of the split peas.

Cook onion in butter over low heat until soft and clear. Lift from skillet. Set aside. Add oil. Brown chicken carefully, turning with two wooden spoons.

Turn split peas into a shallow wide casserole or baking dish (1½-to 2-quart capacity). Spread onions over top. Half-bury chicken parts into split peas. Sprinkle mixed herbs over ttp.

Add to the chicken drippings the mushroom soup mixed with 2/3 cup milk. Stir over low heat until smooth. Pour over chicken and split peas. Cover loosely with foil, if no lid. Bake at 350 degrees for 60 minutes, removing foil or lid the last 10 minutes to brown a bit. Garnish with snipped parsley. Serves 6 to 8.

Cordon Bleu competition

The latest sidewalk curiosity for Paris pedestrians is a new public cooking school. It is the first serious competition to the prestigious Cordon Bleu, until now the only real school passing on the heritage of French cuisine.

La Varenne is a bombshell in gourmet circles. Equally eyebrow-raising is its Anglo-American inspiration. Investors and consultants include two major American authors of French cookbooks, Julia Child and James Beard.

Mrs. Child reflected that it's up to foreigners now, largely Americans, to promote French cooking because "the average French woman is not interested in real French cuisine. Do you know any French girls who really know how to cook? Domestic servants used to cook for French families, and now they're disappearing, so women buy ready-made food or go to restaurants."

Most of the 15 students enrolled so far are American. The fees are 40 francs (about $9.75) for a single lesson or 4,240 francs (about $1,008) for a six week, 54-lesson course. The first group includes two French, a Vietnamese and an Austrian. One-fourth of the students are men.

Scheduled termination date is April 21, 1976, but game officially terminates when all game tickets are distributed, subject to extension.

A&P BINGO OFFICIAL RULES

1. NO PURCHASE NECESSARY. Get a FREE A&P BINGO game piece on request at end of check-out lanes or at office of A&P store — one game piece per adult, per store visit. Game materials also may be obtained by mailing a request to A&P BINGO, P.O. Box 711, Westport, Conn., 06880. Limit one game card and one game piece per request. A self-addressed envelope must accompany each request.

2. Push out die cut portion of game piece revealing 3 number tickets and one bonus prize ticket. Place the numbers on the matching spaces on the other side of this card. Each ticket will fit into the special slots cut into this card and present your card to the Store Manager whol will arrange for verification and awarding of your prize. (Prize is limited to amount shown for game regardless of the number of rows completed.) No numbers needed in spaces marked "FREE" "FREE" spaces are not transferable. Game pieces must be initialed in the presence of Store Manager.

3. SPECIAL BONUS PRIZE SECTION. Every A&P Bingo game piece contains a Bonus Prize Stamp which should be affixed to the special Bonus Prize section along the bottom of the other side of this card. When you collect 12 stamps needed to complete the special Bonus Prize section, you have &won a FREE A&P product. The Store Manager will tell you what you have won.

4. Game materials void if illegible, altered, mutilated, defaced, forged or tampered with in any way.

5. Game materials void where taxed or restricted by law.

6. Game ends upon announcement by A&P. All prizes must be claimed within 7 days after announcement or they are forfeited.

7. A&P reserve the right to reject and void any materials containing printing or other errors that may appear in any materials used in the game. We also reserve the right to reject any A&P Bingo game material not obtained legitimately through authorized personnel.

8. Only game materials marked Series C-1 may be used for this game and only in stores of this Division of A&P, when legitimately obtained as stated above.

9. All game materials submitted for winner verification become properly of A&P.

10. Employees of A&P, its suppliers, its advertising agencies and members of their immediate families are not eligible to win.

11. The A&P Bingo game is available at 85 A&P food stores located in Illinois and Indiana. This promotion is scheduled to end on April 21st, 1976. A&P Bingo will officially end, however, when all game tickets are distributed.

Get your FREE A&P Bingo Game Card Today From any of the 85 participating Illinois & Indiana A&P Stores!

Sugar—is it a poison or a sweet, harmless food?

Scientists pooh-pooh controversy, but debate in medical field ensues...

by BARBARA LADD

A new war has developed on the food front — a sugar war. Scientists make up one side, health faddists the other and consumers provide the battleground.

The faddists maintain that sugar is a poison that is killing Americans via heart attacks, diabetes, hypoglycemia and cancer. Sugar is rotting children's teeth. And, they say, the consumption of sugar is increasing at dangerously high rates.

With a few exceptions, the scientific community is whispering a qualified "bunk." At least that's what they and their supporters said at a recent seminar sponsored by the Chicago Nutrition Association in Chicago.

"I DON'T THINK people need to be concerned about sugar," said Dr. P. J. Palumbo, a researcher at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. "I think the fear is a little overdone."

Of course, representatives from the sugar industry and other food companies agreed. "We believe sugar to be absolutely safe," said John W. Tatem, president of the Sugar Association. Then he immediately qualified himself: "Its vulnerability is in the area of (dental) caries (cavities)."

Evidence presented at the seminar tended to substantiate Tatem's statements.

As a backdrop to the speeches, it was established that the per capita consumption of sugar has remained relatively stable for the last four or five decades, leveling at around 100 pounds per person. These figures were obtained from the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

IN VIEW OF THE stable consumption figures, it was pointed out that, though heart disease has increased, the increase has occurred during a time sugar consumption has not. That alone makes the sugar-causes-heart-disease theory a bit dubious.

Dr. Palumbo said that reports comparing the sugar consumption of coronary patients and healthy people have consistently failed to provide evidence for a difference in sugar intake between the two groups.

He cited cholesterol and fats as a concern for heart disease — not sugar. However, he and his colleagues at Mayo conducted a physiological study in which they determined that other fatty components in the blood do rise, but only if patients weighing an average of 150 pounds eat about four grams of sugar a day (which is about 200 pounds of sugar a year).

"But most people won't eat 200 pounds of sugar in a year," he said. During his study Dr. Palumbo said he had to force-ffed four grams of sugar daily to that group of individuals.

"PALATABILITY IS important and a high carbohydrate diet is just not good to eat," he said. "Now, there are crazy people who eat a box of candy by themselves, but I'm talking about the normal, run-of-the-mill person."

He also said sugar is an absolute necessity for post-operative patients and other sick persons. Sugar is used by the brain as energy. If that energy is not present in the blood, other organs in the body are seeped of their energy so that the brain may function. Convulsions, heart attacks and other complications can occur. On a lesser level, normal people on a low carbohydrate diet experience headaches, dizziness and fainting spells.

"If we are to fear sugar, we might as well close up our hospitals," Palumbo said. "Moderation is the key, not exclusion."

Food faddists also maintain that high sugar diets lead to diabetes. "But there's not a damn bit of evidence supporting this," he said. "Overweight, yes. Sugar, no."

HE SAID THAT the highly touted increase in diabetes in the United States is largely due to better screening programs, which discover diabetics in early stages of the disease.

Dr. Palumbo, who advocates treating patients with diet instead of medication whenever possible, said, "The truth about sugar seems to lie between the extremes."

He didn't regard dental caries as a particular problem.

But another doctor disagreed. Dr. William Bowen, National Institute of Dental Research in Maryland, said dental caries affect 95 per cent of this population.

"DENTAL CARIES IS a disease a painful disease and an unsightly disease," he said. "It's not genetic and you're not born with it. Despite what you hear, sugar is involved."

Bowen explained that everytime sugar enters the mouth, a chemical reaction occurs which makes the mouth more acid than when no food is present. At a particular acid level the enamel of the teeth is "attacked," by microorganisms in the mouth he said. And this leads to decay if continued over long periods of time.

Some sugars are worse than others because of the length of time they stay in the mouth. For example, cereals are only in the mouth a short time and the fiber from the cereals takes the simple sugars with it. But with caramel and taffy it's a different story.

Dr. Bowen said eating a caramel is like having 200 pounds of sugar in your system in a year. It is six times worse for your teeth than regular food.

THE PROBLEM, he said, is not necessarily one of amount — the per capita consumption has not risen for decades. The problem is the "frequency of eating" — we have developed into a nation of nibblers. Instead of giving the decay microorganisms a chance to react to sugar three times a day (at meals only) we eat six or more times a day. And almost all foods, from fruit to meat, contain sugar, he said.

One of Bowen's studies showed that people are nibbling up to 12 times a day. "And everytime you put food into the mouth you lower the acid level and give decay a chance to start," he said.

Floride is a very effective measure against dental caries, he said. With the combination of non-snacking diets and floride, dental caries can be reduced by 80 per cent in this country. Figures from various studies substantiated his statement.

So it appears sugar is not an entirely blameless substance but that it is not the poison many faddists think it is.

Dr. Palumbo suggested these guidelines: for a daily diet, 45 to 50 per cent carbohydrate (which includes simple sugars); 35 per cent fat (the average American is now eating about 50 per cent fats in his diet); and 20 per cent protein.

He and others stressed sensible weight control and moderation. It is calories and fats we need to watch, said Palumbo. Not sugar.

Marge Hammerstrom

She prepares Oriental menu for a new year

by LOIS SEILER

The first lunar moon after the passing of Aquarius (the shortest day of the year) designates a new year for the Chinese and is the signal for Marge Hammerstrom of Arlington Heights to plan a special celebration.

From the time her three children were young, Marge has livened up family dinners by planning ethnic menus. Occasionally she has an Italian night or a Mexican night, decorating the table appropriately and serving food indigenous to the country. These meals always please her husband, Don, and their children.

On Jan. 31, 1976, the year of the Dragon commences for the Chinese, and Marge will prepare the family's favorite Oriental meal. She considers this day an excellent excuse for a dinner party, too.

A few Japanese lanterns hung over the table, an Oriental doll centerpiece and chopsticks at each place set the stage for this tasty menu.

"Everyone enters into the fun and tries using chopstocks," Marge said. "However, if they become defeated, forks are available."

Although Marge is uncertain about the authenticity of her recipes, they nonetheless have an Oriental flavor and are always well received.

Beef and Peppers is made with round steak and green peppers cut in narrow strips and cooked in a sauce well seasoned with garlic and soy sauce. Pineapple Chicken calls for strips of chicken cooked with pineapple chunks in pineapple juice and soy sauce. Both dishes are easy to prepare and can be made ahead and reheated. The sweet chicken dish complements the more tangy flavor of the beef and peppers.

Although long grain, saffron or wild rice could be served, Marge prefers a plain rice to bring out the delicate flavors of the meat. Sometimes she serves barbecued ribs along with these entrees, and suggests butter or snow peas, a fruit salad such as orange and grapefruit segments, and hot rolls as accompaniments. For dessert, she recommends a light sherbet or plain ice cream with fortune cookies.

Cooking is just one of Marge's creative outlets. She spins her own wool, colors the yarn with natural dyes, weaves and knits. In addition, she quilts.

THE CHINESE New Year is a good excuse for Marge Hammerstrom to serve her favorite Oriental meal to family and guests. She often prepares her entrees, like this Pineapple Chicken, early in the day and reheats it to serve.

BEEF AND PEPPERS

2 pounds (or more) round steak
1 garlic clove, minced, or garlic salt to taste
12 tablespoons oil
8 tablespoons soy sauce
8 teaspoons cornstarch
3 green peppers
1 teaspoon sugar
1 cup cold water

Cut beef in strips about ½ by 2 inches. Mix beef strips with garlic, 4 tablespoons oil, 4 tablespoons soy sauce and 4 teaspoons cornstarch. Let stand 20 to 30 minutes, turning occasionally. Cut peppers in thin slices, ¼ by 2 or 3 inches.

Heat remaining oil in skillet; add meat and marinade and cook about 15 minutes. Add peppers, cover and continue cooking over low heat until meat is tender.

Mix remaining soy sauce, cornstarch, sugar and water. Stir into meat mixture and cook about five minutes more until thick and clear. Serves 6.

PINEAPPLE CHICKEN

2 whole chicken breasts
2 tablespoons flour
Salt and pepper to taste
1 16-ounce can pineapple chunks
3 tablespoons oil
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon vinegar

Remove skin and bones from chicken; cut in 1-inch strips. Toss with mixture of flour, salt and pepper.

Drain pineapple and reserve ½ cup juice.

Heat oil in skillet and saute chicken five minutes. Add pineapple, cover and cook over low heat about five minutes.

Mix together soy sauce, cornstarch, vinegar and ½ cup pineapple juice. As chicken becomes tender, stir mixture into pan until it thickens. Keep warm over low heat until serving, or make early in day and reheat. Serves 4 to 6.

Fix a savory, slow-cooked beanpot

Recently several men have bragged about their magnificent baked bean dishes. A hearty beanpot is always a welcome mainstay in any household. Here is one to try out on those who savor the slow cooking and proper seasoning that make a bean dish memorable.

BEANPOT

1 pound Great Northern beans
4 quarts water
1 cup sliced onion
2 large cloves garlic, unpeeled
1 pound lamb cubes, about 1-inch (or beef if preferred)
1 pound pork cubes, about 1-inch
6 pork sausage links, about 1 pound
2 tablespoons oil
1½ cups grape jelly
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup diced bacon

Pick over beans, wash and place in a large saucepot. Add water, onion and garlic. Bring to a boil. Remove from heat and let stand for 1 hour. Bring beans to boil, again. Reduce heat and simmer 1 hour, until beans are tender. Add more water if necessary.

Meanwhile, in a large skillet, brown lamb, pork and sausage in oil. Set aside.

Drain beans, reserve one and one-half cups liquid. Stir grape jelly with fork until smooth. Blend in bean liquid, salt and pepper. Add bacon.

In 3-quart casserole, alternate layers of beans and cubed meat, ending with beans. Top with sausage. Place sauce over all.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Reduce heat to 300 degrees and bake 1 hour longer. Spoon sauce over sausage occasionally. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Low-cal restaurant menus

Restaurants that specialize in low calorie food are every dieter's dream. Two California establishments, owned by Carol and Gene Schrier, make it reality.

They say a guest could have a cheese cake breakfast, Bavarian stuffed cabbage for lunch, barbecued knockwurst for dinner, and chocolate sundaes after both lunch and dinner for a total of fewer than 800 calories. Adding lasagna for a late night snack would still total under 1,000 calories.

The Schriers' pastries are made with ground bread instead of flour, and nonfat dry milk instead of milk and cream. Frozen fruit is used instead of prepared fruit mixes for pies. Artificial sweeteners substitute for sugar, and diet margarine for butter.

Meat dishes are made with veal, which is lower in fat than beef, and all vegetables are fresh. But the secret, Schrier said, is knowing how to mix the spices.

Here is the Schriers' recipe for a popular dinner entree, Veal Ball Stew.

Combine one cup of tomato juice with one and one-half cups of water, one and one-half teaspoons of beef bouillon granules, one medium zucchini, half a green pepper, one cup of chopped carrots, one-fourth cup of chopped onions, one-fourth teaspoon of allspice and one-half teaspoon each of salt and ground pepper. Place over low heat until vegetables are tender but crisp.

While vegetables cook, mix three-fourths teaspoon of cinnamon and artificial sweetener equal to four teaspoons of sugar with one pound of lean ground veal. Shape into balls about one and a half inches in diameter. Bake 10 minutes in a preheated 400 degree oven. For serving, pour vegetable mixture over meatballs.

Schrier said the calorie content might not be exact, because he scaled down the restaurant recipe to serve four persons. At the Slender Spoon, a 12-ounce serving, which includes four ounces of meat, plus vegetables and sauce, would total about 200 calories.

GOLF & MEACHAM RDS. SCHAUMBURG (NEXT TO TURN*STYLE)

Have you ever found yourself with unexpected dinner guests — and nothing to serve them? Or you thought you'd save money in the long run by buying larger quantities of meat? Or wished you could serve a wider variety of meats without sacrificing economy? If so, then our Budget Food Store freezer meats may be just what you need.

Buying larger portions of meats for freezing is becoming a more popular economy measure with concerned shoppers to offset the cost-of-living squeeze. That's why the Budget Food Store now offers freezer meats. We do the cutting, trimming and wrapping — you do the freezing. As of now, you may buy whole, side or quarter carcass, as well as the primal cuts of Round, Loin, Rib and Square Cut Chuck. (Naturally it's all the same U.S.D.A. Good Tender Cut Beef you're used to, too.)

Talk it over. Then talk to our market men for details. Freezer meats from the Budget Food Store may be just the economy measure you're looking for. And they're just one more way we can help you save money on your family's foods!

Year of the Dragon

Chinese holiday calls for appropriate dinner

Those whom Santa Claus blessed with a new Wok set and a book of Chinese recipes are ahead of the game in preparing for the Year of the Dragon (Year 4674).

The Chinese New Year is Jan. 30. Even those without the basic Chinese utensils will enjoy preparing a special sweet 'n' sour pineapple chicken in a deep-sided skillet for the occasion.

This is a Cantonese-inspired dish which takes only five to seven minutes of final stir-frying time-after the vegetables and chicken are prepared. Serve with steamed rice, greens tossed with bean sprouts, mushroom slices and a soy-oil and vinegar dressing, green tea. For dessert, ice cream or pineapple and fortune cookies.

CANTONESE PINEAPPLE CHICKEN

3 whole or 6 half chicken breasts* (about 1¾ pounds), skinned and boned
1 package 15-minute chicken marinade
1 (1-pound 4 ounce) can pineapple chunks
2 tablespoons catsup
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 large onion, cut in thin wedges
1 green pepper, cut in ¼-inch wedges or slices
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 large tomato, cut in thin wedges

*(Or use 2½ to 3 pounds chicken thighs.)

Cut chicken into two by one-quarter-inch strips. In shallow pan, thoroughly blend 15 minute chicken marinade, liquid drained from pineapple, catsup, vinegar and sugar. Place chicken in marinade and turn to coat evenly with marinade. Saute onion and green pepper in hot oil in skillet (10 to 12-inch), stirring until vegetables are crisp-tender. Add chicken and marinade. Cook, stirring over medium-high heat about 5 to 7 minutes, until chicken turns white and cooks through. Add pineapple chunks and heat few minutes more. Stir in tomatoes. Serve over hot cooked rice. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

NOTE: boning whole chicken breasts: Use a sharp knife with a 6-inch blade. The thinner and sharper the blade, the better for boning.

(1) Place chicken breast, skin side down, on cutting board. With knife, cut just through white gristle at neck end of breast bone (dark bone at center of breast). Bend chicken breast back and press flat with hands to expose breast bone; loosen bone by running tip of index finger around both sides; remove in one or two pieces.

(2) Insert tip of knife under long rib bone and cut free from meat. Lifting bone away from breast, cut meat from rib cage, cutting around outer edge of breast up to shoulder joint and then through joint. (This removes entire rib cage).

(3) Working from ends of wishbone, scrape flesh away from each piece of bone.

(4) Slip knife underneath white tendons on either side of breast and loosen and pull out. Remove skin. Bones and skin may be used for stock.)

Apricot sweetens chicken

Those who like to relax in the evening before having supper will appreciate a chicken recipe that lets the oven do the work. Roasted, the chicken parts are spread with a sauce that features apricot preserves and cinnamon. This is an excellent main dish for the family or for a buffet supper when served with spiced rice, buttered green beans and cole slaw.

CINNAMON APRICOT CHICKEN

2 (2½ pounds each) chickens, cut into eighths
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 jar (12 ounces) apricot preserves
¼ cup mayonnaise
3 tablespoons instant minced onion
2 tablespoons catsup
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Sprinkle chickens with salt and black pepper. Place on a rack in a shallow open roasting pan. Bake in a preheated 450 degree oven for 20 minutes. Remove rack. Reduce oven temperature to 325 degrees. Combine preserves, mayonnaise, minced onion, catsup and cinnamon. Spoon over chickens in pan. Cover and bake for 25 minutes. Uncover, spoon some of the sauce over chicken. Return to oven and bake uncovered, until golden brown, 10 to 15 minutes longer. Makes 8 portions.

How not to pay the increasing cost of food

Food costs were up again last year and consumers take the news with a sigh, perhaps a groan. Already the family food budget has probably been cut back. But with the prospect of another year of creeping costs which will take more dollars away from the family's clothing or entertainment fund, the Cooperative Extension Service has some suggestions for curtailing money spent in the supermarket.

More of the food dollar is spent for meats and protein foods than for any other food group so a savings here has major impact for your budget, said Irene Downey, University of Illinois Extension food and nutrition specialist.

According to a 1973 survey, 42 cents — just slightly under half — of every dollar spent for farm-produced foods went for meat, poultry and eggs. When costs rise, this food group often takes an even greater share, she said.

NUTRITIONALLY, many spend more for this nutrient than necessary. Two servings, two to three ounces each, of lean cooked meat, poultry or fish will provide over half the protein needs of the average adult. The remaining amount is provided by eating the recommended number of servings from the milk and bread and cereal groups, she said.

It's no secret that ground beef is one of the best buys at the meat counter but which is the best bargain — "regular," "lean," or "extra lean?" Usually it's that package of "regular" ground beef, said Ms. Downey.

To compare the cost of lean in various forms of ground beef, she said to divide the price per pound of each type by the per cent of lean it contains. If the package does not list the per cent of lean, ask the butcher.

AT $1.05 PER POUND, "regular" ground beef, containing 70 per cent lean, actually costs $1.50 per pound of lean meat. In comparison, the $1.29 pound of "lean" ground beef, with 75 per cent lean, costs $1.72 per pound of lean meat. Thus "regular" ground beef is the best buy.

For a rule of thumb, Ms. Downey said the "regular" ground beef is the best buy when the price range between "regular" and "lean" is 10 cents per pound or more.

You are not cheating your family of food value when you stretch meats with rice, macaroni, spaghetti or other cereals, she added. If whole grain or enriched, these extenders also have food value — some protein, B vitamins and iron, as well as carbohydrate.

EGGS ARE A good low-cost substitute for meat, she continued. They furnish good-quality protein, iron and vitamins.

Follow the rule of seven when buying eggs, she said. If there is less than seven cents difference between sizes, the larger size is the better buy. If there is more than seven cents difference between sizes, the smaller size is the better buy.

Being a wise shopper for fruits and vegetables is especially important in inflationary times, according to Ms. Downey. These foods rank second to meats in the amount spent on them.

Nutritionally, we should not skimp on fruits and vegetables, she said. They are valuable sources of vitamins and minerals and especially important in the diet for vitamins A and C. As prices rise and food budgets tighten, don't cut down on the amount of fruits and vegetables you eat. But do look for ways to save pennies on the ones you buy, she said.

BE KNOWLEDGEABLE about nutritive value. Get a list of those fruits and vegetables which are good sources of vitamin C, vitamin A., or both. When the price of one food goes up, you can usually select a nutritional substitute at a lower cost, she said.

Keep the nutrients you pay for, she continued. Care for and cook vegetables properly to prevent waste and preserve nutrients.

Compare fresh, canned, frozen and dried forms to see which is the best buy. And be wise in selecting convenience vegetables. Instant mashed potatoes and frozen French fries often are lower cost than the homemade product. But boil-in-bag frozen vegetables and frozen vegetables with sauce cost more than the frozen vegetable you cook and then add your own sauce, she said.

Consumption of whole grain cereals has declined in recent years in this country, but with rising food prices, cereal foods may return to favor as a staple food in many American meals, said Ms. Downey.

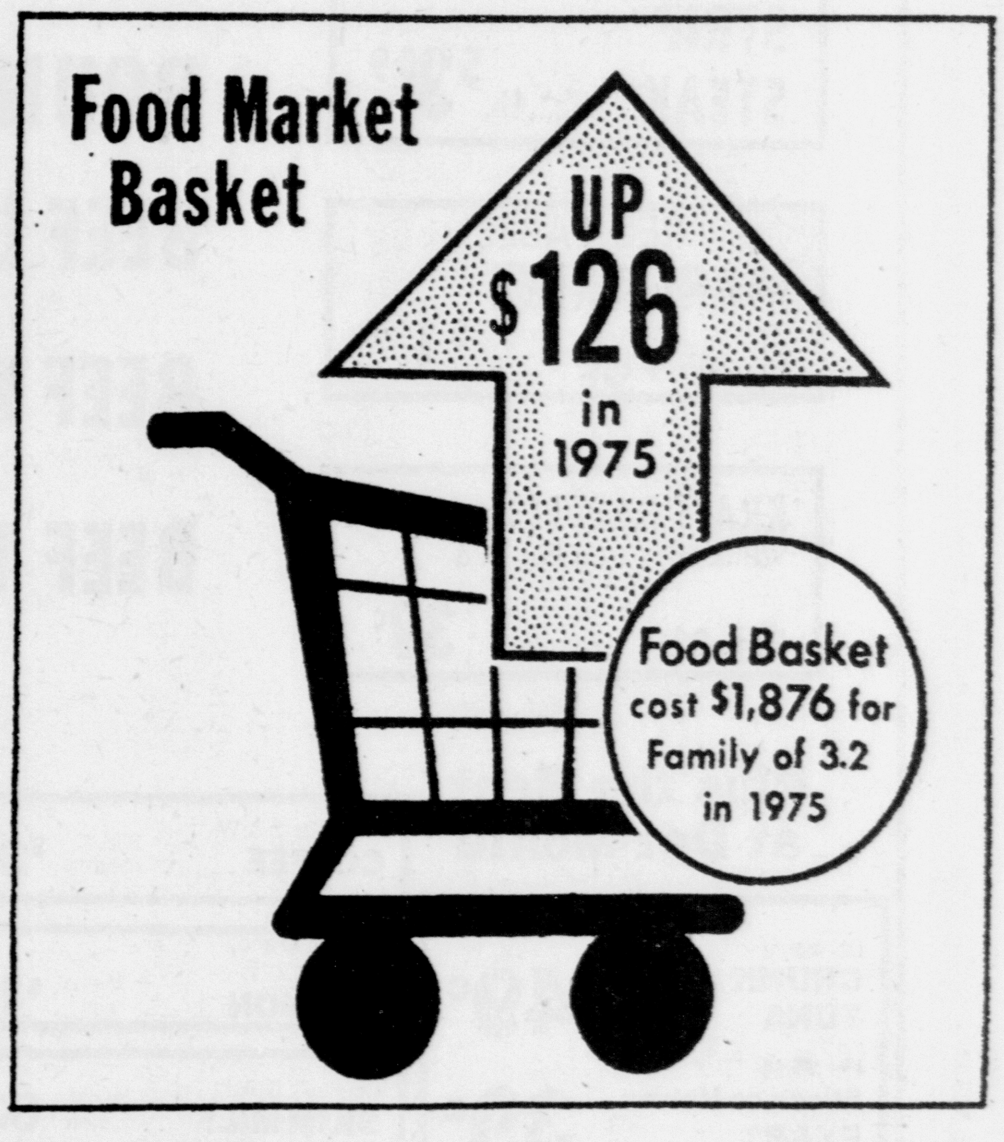
Whole grained and enriched foods generally have a high ratio of nutritive value to cost, she said. According to a dietary household survey in the mid-1960s, cereal products provided 20 per cent of the protein, from 20 to 40 per cent of the B vitamins, and about 30 per cent of the iron in the American diet.

Yet these foods usually take only about 15 per cent of the family food dollar.

To get the most nutrition for your money, buy whole grain and enriched breads, she said. Nutritionists recommend eating four servings of whole grain and enriched cereals each day. These should be the fairly plain cereals and breads — not the ones made with high amounts of sugar and fat.

Ms. Downey has four suggestions for holding down bread costs:

- Consider making your own bread, or at least some of it. Savings are greatest if you buy flour in quantity and if you use dry milk instead of fresh milk. With modern bread-baking techniques, bread can be made simply and quickly at home.
- Buy day-old bread whenever you can at the supermarket or at bakery thrift shops. Bread doesn't change in nutritive value as it gets older.
- Evaluate your use of convenience bread products such as croutons, crumbs, and stuffing. Check how much you pay per pound for these convenience foods. You may save money by making your own.
- And finally, compare prices of ready-to-eat, frozen, refrigerated, and dry mix breads and rolls. The current price range can be as wide as 20 to 30 cents and more, Ms. Downey concludes.



Food Market Basket
UP $126 in 1975
Food Basket cost $1,876 for Family of 3.2 in 1975

THE U.S. DEPT. of Agriculture said Monday the theoretical average household of 3.2 persons paid a record $1,876 for farm-grown food last year. This is $126 higher than 1974

Garbage cuts away at food dollar

Reducing food waste makes the food supply go farther and cuts food costs.

Irene Downey, University of Illinois Extension food and nutrition specialist, said that small daily savings add up to a substantial amount in annual food costs. For example, if you carelessly throw out one tablespoon of flour a day, it means about six pounds a year. A slice of bread wasted every day adds up to more than 22 loaves of bread purchased but not eaten during the year.

Here are some tips to reduce your food waste:

Use standard measuring cups and spoons for measuring all ingredients. Unless measuring is accurate, much food is wasted. For example, in making biscuits or flouring meats, don't use so much flour that some will be thrown away.

Roast meats at a low temperature (300 to 325 degress) to prevent excessive shrinkage. Shrinkage increases the cost per serving.

DON'T THROW good nutrients into the garbage. The skin and outer leaves of many fruits and vegetables contain important nutrients.

Leave the skins on potatoes, carrots, apples, and pears for baking, boiling, or scalloping. For scalloping with peelings on, slice the pieces thinner than usual and the skins will seem more tender.

Leave the skins on apples, pears, apricots or carrots for use in salads.

Leave the crust on bread in making sandwiches.

Mix the leaves of such vegetables as cauliflower, broccoli, beets, and turnips with other greens.

In making salads, cut or shred the vegetables and fruits just before serving to prevent vitamin loss.

DRY CELERY, parsley, dill, mint, sage, thyme and savory leaves for seasoning soups, sauces, salads, meat balls and dressing.

Prepare at one time only the amount of food that can be eaten before it spoils.

Leaving even small bits of food on the plate three times a day totals into considerable waste in a year. Ms Downey suggests smaller first servings, and then second servings if desired.

Cut slices of bread in half and in fourths for children.

When serving fruit salad or hot bread and jelly, don't serve dessert.

Use leftovers promptly — don't let them spoil in your refrigerator.

Save bread scraps, dry and roll into crumbs for pudding, scalloped dishes, croquettes, meat loaf, cookies, muffins and cakes, Ms. Downey continues.

Before you throw any food out, ask yourself: can this be used to make some other food more tasty?

Chocolate's sweet story

Americans have always had a sweet tooth. Nevertheless, chocolate got off to a slow start in this country, with no inkling that it would turn into an industry with sales in excess of a billion dollars annually, according to the Chocolate Manufacturers Association of the U.S.A.

In the early 1700s, chocolate produced in Europe could be found in a few apothecary shops in New York and Philadelphia. In 1755, raw cocoa beans were imported for the first time by Massachusetts traders who sailed to South America and the West Indies. These beans necessarily required extensive processing, and in 1765 an Irish immigrant, John Hannon — with the financial backing of a wealthy doctor — established the first American chocolate factory in Dorchester, Mass.

It is not surprising that a doctor financed the first chocolate factory. At that time, doctors were very interested in chocolate as a way to improve the unpleasant taste of some medicines. At this time, it was necessary to hand-grind cocoa beans to manufacture chocolate. And what profession could have been better equipped to do this than the medical, skilled at using mortar and pestle? This ability, coupled with their professional needs, turned many physicians into producers of confections. Generally, "confections" were defined as medicines made palatable with the addition of sugar and spices. Around 1770, when the Scotsman James Watt had perfected his steam engine, the laborious job of grinding beans went from hand to machine.

SINCE THE TIME of the Aztecs, man has loved the taste of chocolate, but he hasn't always loved its price. When chocolate was introduced to Europe it sold for $2.50 to $5 per pound, and prices remained high into the 19th century.

Yet the demand for chocolate was there — if the price was right. Several inventions, notably water power and later steam power, allowed chocolate makers to produce more and more chocolate at lower and lower prices. The quality and variety of the product also improved considerably. Two landmark discoveries in Europe, C.J. Van Houten's production of cocoa powder in 1828 and M. Daniel Peter's creation of milk chocolate in 1875, did much to stimulate the public's taste for chocolate and spur its production and consumption both in Europe and America.

The latter part of the 19th century was the glorious period of penny candy, when chocolate was produced in huge "planks" 18 inches long, two inches thick and 12 inches wide. A shopkeeper had to use a small hammer and chisel to break the mammoth bar into pieces to fill a "penny" bag.

Chocolate-covered candies were born in 1870 when a confectioner, trying to sell more candy creams, hit on the idea of covering the creams with chocolate so they would hold together better. Chocolate-covered candies, the forerunner of today's assorted bite-sized chocolates and boxed confections, immediately gained popularity. These chocolates originally were hand-dipped, but in 1900 the French invented a machine for this process, making chocolate still more available to the general public. All these inventions laid the groundwork for the modern chocolate industry we know today.

AT THE BEGINNING of the 20th century, chocolate manufacturers began experimenting with a product now found in just about every supermarket, drug or variety store across the country: the chocolate bar. The first bars were sheets of milk chocolate, usually containing peanuts, that the storekeeper sliced into three sizes: penny, nickel and dime. Eventually, to save time, individually-wrapped bars appeared.

In the military sector, the record shows that provisions for General Braddock's army (in which George Washington served), fighting in the Alleghenies against the French and Indians in 1755, included chocolate. Besides the ready energy chocolate provided, it also served as a pleasant reminder of their faraway homes to the ragged, hungry soldiers.

Chocolate was first shipped abroad to U.S. troops stationed in the Philippines in 1898 during the Spanish-American War, but it did not regularly appear as an on-the-march item until 1908. During World War I, one-ounce chocolate cakes were issued as part of survival kits. They tasted so good, however, that troops wolfed them down as soon as they were issued, forgetting they were to be reserved for emergencies. During World War II, chocolate became a staple item in GI rations and American manufacturers voluntarily set aside half their production for the armed services.

The tradition of American love for chocolate continues today. On the average, each American annually consumes more than 17 pounds of candy of which two-thirds is chocolate in some form.
